Change is Permanent.
New Thought is Scarce.
Is Marriage Fading?
Preparing to Live.

SOMEONE suggested to Henry Ford that the automobile eventually would be mechanically perfect and beyond improvement. Ford's excellent reply was, "No, there is nothing permanent in the world except change."

The German poet put it: "Nichts is dauernd als der wechsel, nichts bestaending alse der tod." Only change is enduring, only death is permanent.

Every positive statement is dangerous. A wise agnostic said: "I affirm nothing, not even that I affirm nothing."

Twice two are four, no matter what Einstein may say, later on. Two right angles equal any triangle. No change there. And death is no more "permanent" than tomorrow. It is only another day. Ford says: "I am optimistic, because I believe people generally know what is wrong." That is wisdom and original.

THE International New Thought Alliance, with ten thousand delegates, held its thirteenth annual convention in New York. Nothing more important than new thought, all progress comes of it. Nothing more common than the hallucination that we are thinking a new way. Nothing more rare than a thought really new.

Our thought grows out of the old thoughts as forests grow out of dead trees. An old thought surprises us, we think it new. The patent office is bothered by geniuses seeking to patent old ideas.

A real new thought is known by the unanimity with which it is rejected. When 10,000 can discuss new thought and not tear each other's hair you may be sure thought is old.

ARE you for or against abolishing marriage? Some think marriage survives, largely because of what he calls "the impudent intolerance of our intellectually and morally discredited religious organizations."

Marriage and religion are both "fading out," according to H. G. Wells and others, sincere, but not acquainted with the mind of man.

Marriage and religion are only starting. It took more than 100,000 years to cure men of cannibalism. It will take as long to cure them of promiscuity in family life, and of superstition, bigotry, cruelty and intolerance in religion. But there is plenty of time.

This world will last more than 100,000,000 years longer, according to science. When Wells reappears, with a different shape and brain, say 100,000 years hence, a suggestion that marriage be abolished will sound as preposterous as suggestion to restore cannibalism, torture of witnesses or burning alive for differences in religion.

The one-tenth of one per cent that is good in man is religious and monogamous, and that tenth of one per cent will grow to 100 per cent with time.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART, in an article published recently, said a wise thing, to which rushing, nervous Americans should pay attention: "Preparing always to live, we wear our-

GARY, Ind., June 28.—A quarter million dollars worth of property is in ruins here today as the result of a small boy's adventures with a toy machine gun.

The boy, with several companions, was wandering around the basement of the "Tribe of K" store, one of the City's largest mercantile establishments. They spotted a pile of Fourth of July fireworks. One youth began toying with a miniature machine gun. Sparks set the fireworks to popping.

The flames spread quickly, and before they could be brought under control, damage estimated at $260,000 had been done.

FARRALL ALONE OPPOSES PLAN

Measure Goes to Executive Who Says he Will Turn Thumbs Down on Proposal.

By a vote of 6 to 1, city council, at a special meeting Saturday night, enacted legislation on three readings calling for the repeal of the ordinance, passed last February, which prohibits the use of fireworks within the corporate limits.

Solon Thomas Farrall, who sponsored the "safe and sane Fourth" measure earlier in the year, was the lone opponent of the repealer, which contains an emergency clause.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum intimated today that he will veto the ordinance but announced that he would take a greater part of the 10-day limit permitted by law. This will prevent passage of the ordinance over his veto before Independence Day.

The ordinance was sent to the mayor late Saturday night. He has until Tuesday, July 6, in which to sign,

Gasoline-Soaked Shirt Torches Signal Vessel.

HURON, O., June 28.—After drifting helplessly for 10 hours in Lake Erie in a leaking speed boat, four prominent Cleveland residents were rescued early today by the steamer William G. Mather which saw their distress signals. The men in the party soaked their shirts in gasoline and used them as torches to attract the ship's attention.

The party which was saved just as the boat was about to go down consisted of Mark Zettlemeyer, president of the Zettlemeyer Coal company, and his wife; Miss Helen Jaeger and Richard Kroesen, president of the Cleveland Sport Goods company.

Miss Zettlemeyer formerly was Miss Dotie Wilson of the Ziegfeld Follies.

Party Lands at Huron.

The party was landed here at 6 a. m. today by the rescuing steamer. All four were near collapse after their experience.

Zettlemeyer stated that the party left Cleveland early Sunday morning for Put-in-Bay in his speed boat, "Mark." On the return trip when about 10 miles out in the lake, the gasoline supply failed. A brisk breeze began blowing from the shore and the boat drifted further out into the lake.

"The boat began to leak and we had to bail out the water for our lives," Kroesen told Captain A. C. Anderson of the steamer Mather.

Kroesen said there were a few drops of gasoline left in the tank and they dipped their shirts in it, and using them as torches waved them when the lights of the Mather showed up.

NURSE SLAYS BACHELOR, THEN KILLS HERSELF

Chicago Authorities Seek Motive in Double Tragedy.

WOMAN 30, MAN 50

Bodies Found Side by Side in Lake Forest Home.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Authorities today were seeking the motive that prompted Nora Renwick, 30 year-old nurse, to kill Norman Hewitt, member of a prominent Lake Forest family, and then take her own life.

The bodies were found side by side late yesterday in the Hewitt home. A revolver, clutched in the hand of Miss Renwick, had snuffed out both lives.

Hewitt, a 50-year-old bachelor, was a cousin of Scott Durand, millionaire sportsman. Miss Renwick, as a nurse, had formerly attended Hewitt's aged mother.

Alfred Hopman, Lake Forest chief of police, visited both homes, Miss Renwick's and Hewitt's, in search of documents or correspondence that might throw light on the tragedy. Newspaper clippings among the nurse's effects hinted at a blighted romance. One of these read:

"Man's love is of a man's life, a thing apart; 'tis woman's whole existence."

A housekeeper in the Hewitt home discovered the bodies. She declared she had heard no shooting and had

BRICKLAYER GIVES LIFE IN OHIO RIVER AS GIRL IS SAVED

FIREMEN CALLED

Miss Irene Kibble is Resuscitated at Hospital.

Thomas Tackett, 22, Railroad street bricklayer, was drowned in the Ohio river near the old power house at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an attempt to rescue Miss Irene Kibble, 21, 614 John street, who became exhausted while swimming to the Ohio shore from Babb's island.

Girl Calls for Help.

The girl, saved by a witness, was removed to the City hospital, where she was resuscitated by Dr. R. J. Marshal. She was recovering at the hospital today from her experience.

Tackett's body was recovered in about 20 feet of water about half an hour after he disappeared, when Constable McFadden, one of the rescuers, started diving with a grappling hook. Efforts to resuscitate him with the use of a pulmotor were futile.

Miss Kibble and two or three other companions whose names could not be learned had been bathing on the sandy beach at the lower part of the island. Leaving her companions on the island, Miss Kibble started across to the Ohio shore. When within about 50 feet of the shore, witnesses say, the girl began to struggle in the water and called for help.

McFadden Recovers Body.

Tackett was standing along the River Road, when he heard the girl's screams. He discarded his hat and coat and plunged into the water. As he neared the young woman, he sank and failed to come up.

Another young man, who was not

CHAPTER ONE.

Bee ran up the subway stairs. She always ran up. She was amusing to look at, an extremely small young-appearing person, definite, even positive, in every movement, in the poise of her pretty head and the quick, firm activity of her trim body. The face that peeped out through an encroaching triangle of fur collar and hat brim was freshly, crisply vigorous, with a snap in the brown-black eyes and unmistakable signs of determination in the slight, attractive fullness of the mouth. Bee's only weak feature, as she knew, knew only too well, was her nose. That turned up. It suggested humor, even delightfully, mischief, but hardly strength. And she did want to be strong. She was determined to be strong.

She emerged from the stairway on the curbed-in island that lies out nearly in the middle of Sheridan Square. It was mild for March. The afternoon sunlight slanted down through the tangled westerly streets warming the built-over studio fronts of Grove street, and lighting brightly the quaint and aged green-painted house at the farther end of Washington Place. She stood a moment, breathing in the pleasant brisk air that had, in this wide, irregular area, something of the real outdoors in it, a sense of space, almost a tang.

Across the way stood the Greenwich Village theatre, that extremely modern structure in patterned brick. The question was, should she go there directly or step, first, over to the rooms. She glanced at her watch—all of half an hour—and decided on the rooms.

Picking her way between trucks, she made the farther curb and passed under the iron archway. A young woman sat alone, gazing wide-eyed out at the sunlit square, an old black suitcase at her feet. Bee's quick eyes half took her in—an attractive oval of face (hazily familiar, that face), dressed not quite smartly, not New York, not suburban, not Western; probably New England, rather quaintly New England—yes, on her lap, of all things, clutched in two frail, ungloved hands, one of those shapeless little grips of soft leather with two handles but no lock or clasp, known as a Boston bag! Surprise jostled memory. Bee stopped in her tracks; looked fully. The girl was rising.

"Not Delia?"

"Oh, Bee!"

"What on earth—"

"Well." The girl sank down again on the bench, her great wistful blue eyes fixed on the smart little person before her.

Drunkenness, Inefficiency Charged Against Hurd In Removal Order

Mayor, Differing With Attorney General Crabbe on Previous Ruling, Files Papers As Matter of Precaution.

Charges against Harry F. Hurd, former local patrolman who was removed from the force recently following a month's suspension, were filed today with the Wellsville civil service commission by Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Accompanying the charges was an order of removal by Mayor Fogo, which read as follows: "You are hereby removed from office as patrolman of Wellsville, Ohio, on grounds and for the reasons which accompany this order, duly certified to the civil service commission of Wellsville, Ohio."

Hurd is charged, first, with inefficiency and gross neglect of duty, and failure of good behavior and other reasonable causes.

Second: Drunkenness.

In a notation at the close of the charges, Mayor Fogo points out that the "above order of removal is not made for any religious or political opinion or affiliation of said Harry F. Hurd."

Filing of the charges followed an exchange of communications between Mayor Fogo and the state civil service commission as a result of the state body's ruling that Hurd was entitled to pay until the present time, and that he was not expected to know that the Wellsville civil service commission was not legally constituted as charged by the defendant's attorneys, Ben L. Bennett, Frank E. Grossbans and W. A. O'Grady.

"I am not conceding anything and I still differ with Attorney General Crabbe in several points of his ruling to the state civil service commission," asserted Mayor Fogo today, "but I am filing these charges as a matter of precaution against any unexpected development."

Hurd, in his appeal to the state civil service commission, contended that he was under civil service regulations and, consequently, could not be removed except upon charges by the mayor.

Although he has filed the charges, Mayor Fogo asserts he doesn't concede the point, maintaining that the deposed patrolman is not under civil service regulations, and therefore it is not necessary to list counts against Hurd.

The charges were filed with Hurd Saturday night by Mayor Fogo personally.

Hurd has been reporting for duty at 6 o'clock at the city hall since the state civil service ruling, as he did before his suspension and removal.

The deposed officer has not announced whether he will ask a hearing before the Wellsville civil service commission.

HISTORIC SITE NOW PLAYGROUND

On the little reservation where the children of Logan, the Mingo chief, were slain by the pioneer whites, the children of Toronto this summer and in the summers to come will play and work and seek strength and health.

Up Yellow creek, between Toronto and Wellsville, back a little way from the bluffs overlooking the Ohio river and the West Virginia panhandle, 100 acres, surrounding the site of the ill-fated Indian chief's dwelling, have been taken over by the Kiwanis club for the children of Toronto.

Guy Johnson of Toronto purchased the land and designated it for that purpose. One of the most important objectives of the project will be to afford recreation to under-privileged children of the industrial region known as "the Ruhr of America."

Logan's family, it will be remembered, was murdered in the early days of Ohio's history. It was the bitterness in the chief's heart that inspired his immortal speech, said to have been delivered later under the Logan Elm near Circleville.

"FIRE" IS ONLY OVERDONE ROAST

Observing smoke pouring out of a window of a home at Eighteenth and Nevada streets yesterday afternoon, neighbors, suspecting a fire, turned in an alarm to Central station here and brought out the entire department.

The firemen found, however, that the smoke was coming from an overdone roast of meat in the kitchen stove.

The Thing To Do

To make your jams and jellies perfect every time

By Elizabeth Palmer

The old, anxious days of kettle watching and speculating on what "luck" you will have with your jam or with your jelly, are over.

Now even an inexperienced cook can be absolutely sure of success every time. For the new, shortboil method with Certo never fails. You just bring your fruit and sugar to a boil, add Certo, boil it a minute or two, and it's done—ready to skim, pour and seal.

And the beauty of it is that this short boiling time saves the color and flavor of your fresh fruit, so that your jams and jellies look better and taste better. Besides, since you do not boil the juice away, you get so much more jam or jelly from your fruit that you save two cents or more on every glass.

With each bottle of Certo comes a book of recipes for your favorite jams and jellies and some delicious new ones! Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Return of King Is Anticipated By Portuguese

It is regarded as possible that the recent overthrow of the parliamentary government in Portugal may be the opening wedge for the return of former King Manuel, who is now a resident in England. General Gomes da Costa, who engineered the revolution, is known to have royalist tendencies.

THREE GAMES ON WEEK'S CARD

Turk-Nash, Chester and Victory Motors Billed.

The Wellsville club of the City Industrial baseball league will finish the first half of the season's schedule by playing three games this week.

Tonight at Patterson Field, East Liverpool, they will take on the Turk-Nash nine; on Thursday they will play Chester, last year's champions, and on Friday will tackle Victory Motors in a postponed engagement.

Thursday's tilt was originally scheduled at Chester but as a result of the fact that a recent Central park game with Chester was transferred to Smith Field, this week's bout was moved to Wellsville.

Announcing that receipts on the local lot have been unusually small, something like $2.40 being taken in for Chester's last appearance here, Manager Pearch has asked for a big crowd for Thursday's game with the champs.

Arranges To Pay Fine.

Harry Johnson, arrested Saturday night on a charge of raising a disturbance, was fined $25 and costs last night by Mayor W. L. Fogo. He made arrangements to pay and was released.

It was still standing on its ancient pedestal. It was originally gilded but most of the gilding had disappeared. Dr. Maiuri declared it to be one of the finest masterpieces of Greek art and to have belonged to the school of Phidias.

Quaker Founder a Wanderer.

George Fox, the founder of the Friends of Quakers religious sect, was, in his early life, an apprentice to a shoemaker, but he forsook his craft to wander from village to village in England, preaching. He proclaimed everywhere that he "was sent of the Lord into the world" and also that he was "forbidden to take off his hat to anyone." As his influence grew he traveled in Germany, Holland and America.

Women Smokers Afflicted.

Dr. Herman Prinz, professor of therapeutics at the University of Pennsylvania, says that in some parts of the Orient where women smoke more even than the men do, they are great sufferers from cancer of the mouth. Film City Has $1,250,000,000 Invested In Picture Industry

The industry is the creation of Romance. The capital invested amounts to more than $1,250,000,000. This figure represents five-sixths of the total world investment in motion pictures, $1,500,000,000. Property investments in Hollywood, including land, studios, sets, stage properties, costumes and raw material, total $375,000,0000 according to surveys just completed.

The motion picture industry came to California about 16 years ago, a spindling child, with thousands invested in it where millions are invested now. From a toy amusement, scarcely taken seriously, it has became an American Colossus that girdles the world and pokes its way into dark corners where missionaries and traders have been the only previous contacts with white civilization.

More and more the industry is centering around Los Angeles. Today 85 per cent of all the pictures made in the United States are made here, 11 per cent in New York, and 4 per cent elsewhere.

Paramount, one of the largest producing organizations, has just completed the construction of a new studio at an outlay of $2,500,000, doubling its Hollywood capacity. The organization has just appropriated a $22,000,000 budget, beginning July 1, for the filming of 75 big pictures for the coming year—the largest amount ever spent on this number of films in the history of the business.

First National, which produces both in Hollywood and New York, has just completed a new $2,000,000 studio on the outskirts of Hollywood and will shift much of their eastern production to this studio, it is reported.

United Artists has just purchased the old Pickford-Fairbanks studio and is spending $1,000,000 in new stages and equipment. All United Artists pictures, with the exception of the Gloria Swanson productions, will be made in Hollywood. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Universal, Fox, DeMille, Warner Brothers and Metropolitan Pictures will make all their pictures in Hollywood or environs.

There are about 25,000 persons employed in the manufacture of motion pictures in Hollywood, the survey indicated, and weekly payrolls average between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. This does not include the salaries of stars and big featured players and directors, which roll up a tremendous weekly total. James Cruze, the director, for example, receives $6,000 a week; Wallace Beery and Ernest Torence $3,500 a week; Pola Negri $7,500 weekly and other star salaries are in proportion.

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help else tney suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglected a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, billousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Q. Are brothers and sisters more blood relation to each other than to their mother and father? T. P.

A. The Eugenics Record Office of the Carnegie Institution says that brothers and sisters are more closely related than father and son, or mother and son. Biographically a father and son have one half common blood, while a brother and sister have all common blood. One contains with his half brother the same amount of common blood that he contains with his father.

Q. Do snakes inhabit cold countries? M. D.

A. Snakes are extremely sensitive to cold. Many of our common North American snakes do not range much farther north than the Canadian border. Others stay south of the Ohio River. The range of the garter snake is known to extend northward to the region around Great Slave lake and there are records of the appearance of this snake from the Yukon region. This snake has an exceptionally wide range.

Q. Are there many radios on farms in the United States? H. W. L.

A. Radio receivers on farms now total approximately 1,000,000 according to the latest estimate of the Department of Agriculture.

Q. Is Dickens read more than Thackery, Eliot or Scott? L. B. T.

A. The Publisher's Weekly says that Dickens is more widely read than Thackery, Eliot, and Scott put together. There are no figures as to totals.

Q. What is a "charter-party"? A. H.

A. A charter-party is the contract executed by the freighter and the master or owner of a ship, setting forth the terms upon which the ship is hired to freight.

LONDON, June 28.—Match this one if you can. It's today's best fish story.

A famous London hotel announces that American visitors enjoy eating trout from the Great Lakes in London. To insure the arrival of the fish in London in a fresh condition, the hotel announces, the fish are taken to Chicago from the lakes alive. Here they are put in tanks, the temperature of which is lowered until the fish are "frozen to sleep." Once the fish becomes asleep it is frozen in a block of ice. The ice-block is shipped to London, where it is gradually thawed. When the fish awakes, says the hotel announcement, it is put in a tank and swims about in English water until ready to be prepared for cooking.

Q. How old are clams when brought to market? M. B. F.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that the average clam seen on the market is between four and seven years old. The age of a clam is determined by the heavy ridges found on the shell. These ridges are usually one-quarter of an inch apart.

Q. Please tell when Jerusalem was destroyed? L. B.

A. The Babylonians reduced the City of Jerusalem in the year 586 B. C. Nebuchadnezzar demolished the walls and all principal houses, plundered and destroyed the temple, and carried away to Babylon all except the poorest citizens. Jerusalem remained in ruins for fifty years.

Q. What is the origin of the term dunce? H. A. S.

A. Dunce is a word introduced by the disciples of Thomas Aquinas in ridicule of the disciples of John Duns Scotus, who, although a man of subignorant or prejudiced at the time of the Reformation to be a man of little intellect, was held by the more vincible stupidity.

Q. Was Sir Francis Drake a pirate? W. R.

A. Many of the exploits of Drake were looked upon as piracies, but for the most part he had at least quasi-official sanction from his government for what he did.

A law to limit industrial labor to 10 hours a day and to eliminate night work for women is being considered in Tokyo.

EVERY tower that supports the transmission lines of this company, is a monument to the vision of a few early leaders — the men who could see the future development of the infant electrical industry.

Electricity is now produced in wholesale quantities at a few large generating stations and shipped to its users over miles of wire. A vast network of high tension lines covers the country like a giant spider-web. Each line carries an unlimited supply of electric service to every city and village in its path.

We safeguard our streets, light our homes, do most of our housework electrically — with never a thought of those early pioneers who blazed the electrical trail for our comfort and convenience.

TROUBLED FOR YEARS WITH INDIGESTION

Mr. Allan Small, of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have always lived in fear of heart trouble—my father, as well as my mother's sister, died from this dreaded affliction when I was a child. As it was on both sides of my family and I had often heard it was hereditary, I lived in dread and fear.

"As I have had at intervals severe abdominal pains, heart-burn and pressure on the heart, I felt there was no relief so I became reconciled to the horrible truth I was doomed, nothing could be done and must await my time to go as my father and mother's sister. I never dreamed I might only have intestinal indigestion, and my trouble was sour and acid stomach, causing gas pressure on the heart. Thanks to a friend who suggested Carter's Little Liver Pills as a remedy for faulty intestinal elimination, I am now free from the dreaded fear and enjoy all around good health. Small pills, easy to take and relieve the bowels in a rational way, with pleasant after effects." For sale at all druggists.

No "Safe and Sane Fourth" Here

There will be no "safe and sane" celebration of the Fourth of July in East Lievrpool, unless Mayor Ralph C. Benedum vetoes an ordinance enacted by the city council in a special session Saturday night.

Turning about face on legislation placed on the statute books early in the year, seemingly for the purpose of reducing the Ceramic City's share of casualities from dangerous fireworks, the councilmanic assembly removed all barriers and told dealers to sell explosives and children to shoot pyrotechnics to their heart's content.

By a vote of 6 to 1—Solon Thomas Farrall alone opposed the enactment—the legislative dads repealed the so-called "safe and sane Fourth" ordinance which permitted dealers to handle fireworks but prohibited the shooting of the explosives within the municipal limits.

What prompted the back-pedalling is a mystery. After a few minutes' debate of the previous half-hearted legislation, children and adults were given leeway by the councilmen to kill or main themselves and possibly start fires. So physicians, ambulance drivers, hospital attendants and firemen should prepare for a busy day, or days, in connection with the celebration of Independence Day in the East Liverpool district, if the mayor does not sing the requiem of the old ordinance.

One girl was burned, while two boys were rescued Saturday, when a toy machine gun was snapped by a youngster, causing the ignition of fireworks in a Gary, Ind., department store. The blaze resulted in a loss of $250,000.

More than 100 persons were killed and 1,000 were injured last year in the United States as a result of the use of fireworks on the nation's birthday. And most of the casualities were children.

In the last 20 years, according to the National Safety Council, more than 60,000 persons have been killed or injured.

Patriotism can be manifested on the Fourth of July without dangerous fireworks. Let's celebrate the day, but let us not sacrifice in fire and noise, the lives, limbs and property and future happiness of our people.

The Year of Exploration

More explorations. Chicago sends forth two important expeditions at once, in behalf of the Field Museum. One goes to the Amazon region, in tropical Brazil, with a group of leading American scientists. The other sails for the Arctic in a fishing schooner commanded by Capt. Donald M. MacMillan. Both will doubtless bring back notable facts and specimens of fascinating regions, little known.

The New York Museum of Natural History and the Smithsonian Institution at Washington have exploring parties at work in many quarters of the world.

Archeological research in Egypt, North Africa, Palestine, Mesopotamia and eastern Asia are going forward with accelerating pace. In America at the same time a whole new fabric of native archeology is being constructed.

Scientists at home are busier than ever in their laboratories, perfecting new discoveries and inventions for human use and delving deeper into the secrets of nature.

It is going to be a great year for exploration, making us better acquainted with this present earth and its inhabitants and resources, and with its remote past and possible future. Never before in human history was there any such outburst of activity for the extension of human knowledge.

At this rate, man will soon know everything except himself. That field will keep him busy a long time.

The "War Frauds"

The retirement of James Cameron, "director of investigations and accounts of the war department," ends an epoch, and ends it more creditably than most Americans have expected.

Mr. Cameron was appointed several years ago to look into the war contracts, with a view to uncovering such crookedness as congressional investigating committees had not been able to find. He went at the job with energy and skill, and according to his reports looked carefully into 200,000 contracts, big and little, amounting to thousands of millions of dollars.

In all that mass of war business he has found evidence of deliberate fraud in only a few cases. He now lays down the job because he "has nothing more to do."

High prices, unquestionably, were paid for supplies in the stress of the big war, when time was thought to be worth more than money. Many manufacturers and dealers charged all the traffic would bear. Many inspectors and other officials, no doubt, were lax in inspection, in the press of war work. But it is greatly to the credit of both sides, the government forces and the forces of private capital, that in that great enterprise it has been possible to discover so little that can be called stealing or cheating.

The war contracts, despite the immense sums of money involved, are said to be cleaner than they were in any previous war. That is something for Americans to remember with pride, in connection with a conflict that has brought few satisfactions.

Wherever two or three are gathered together, the men talk about their cars and the women about their hair.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up early betimes and off to see an English novelist who said he disliked America because of the hurry and rush, but believed people were happier here than on any other spot on the globe. Which is true.

So to see W. C. Gibson, the art editor, and he illustrated a whippet dog race at a circus with his hands and played a Sousa march piece on the harmonica, the funniest thing I ever saw in my life, and so pleased me I gave him a cigarette.

Home and cast my accounts, which seem to be in a deplorable way, and then to a dinner party and tried to imitate the whippet race but not a soul smiled, and so home and to bed in low spirits.

Many of us think of Greeks as shoe shiners or fruit merchants just as we classify Chinese as teeth-spraying laundrymen. Recently I attended a dinner party whose guests were mostly prominent Greeks who live in New York. Every Greek present spoke his own language, also French, German and English fluently.

All were New York home owners in rather exclusive areas and had traveled to all parts of the world. They were extremely well versed in current topics and knew much of American politics. I notice no liquor was served.

New York has two prosperous Greek newspapers in "The Atlantis" and "The National Herald." The Greeks are said to outnumber all other foreigners in attendance at the opera and art galleries.

It was one of the Greek dinner guests who told me the fur business is the oldest of all commercial enterprises in New York. Fur traders were operating before a house had been built on our gay little island.

I had an idea the oldest business here was minding other people's.

There is an elderly banker, clinging to mutton chop whiskers and flat-topped derby, who drives a pair of spanking bays up Park Avenue frequently in the late afternoon. The cobbed and spirited horses are attached to a high seated phaeton, and the coachman in canary yellow livery sits with immobile expression while his master handles the rains very expertly. It labaloo. I have noticed his home has an old-fashioned brass knocker and is a pleasant picture in the motor hulfoot scrapers. Through the window curtains one also sees a spacious marble fireplace, stupendous mahogany drawing room doors and black parquet.

It is the gossip that the Thirty-Ninth street, Empire, Knickerbocker and Casino theatres will before long follow the way of the Metropolitan opera and make room for sky-scrapers. They cannot longer withstand, it is said, the huge offers made for them. These are the last of the galaxy that included Daly's, Wallack's, Webber and Fields's Music Hall, the Herald Square and the Broadway. The new Rialto begins at 42d street and stretches nearly to 72d. In 20 years the trend has been gradually northward from the original Rialto on 14th street. One real estate man ventures the opinion that what we know as the Great White Way will in another ten years stretch beyond 72d street. This section is already taking on the White Way glamour with theatrical hotels, vaudeville theatres, flashy movie palaces, chop suey cafes and cabarets.

I am told that one of the highest-priced salesmen in New York stutters. Somehow that strikes one who is often embarrassed in not being able to pronounce mustache as an extraordinary achivement.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cold Steam.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—The discovery that a recent invention called cold steam for use in cleaning underneath automobiles, or other metal substances where heavy grease and dirt is encountered, is also a highly useful method of cleaning stone buildings, has been made by research workers at the United States Bureau of Standards. Cold steam is simply a mixture of steam and cold water driven through a heavy nozzle under 150 pounds of pressure. The steam and water mix just before being driven into the air and against the substance to be cleaned. As a result the cleaning values of both are used, plus the value of high pressure, and yet the mixture is not at a high temperature.

The search for a quick, economical, and thorough method of cleaning stone is typical of the many researches being carried on by the Bureau of Standards in conjunction with engineers representing basis industrial groups. In the stone building field the bureau is also working on new methods of lifting and placing stone, methods of water-proofing and protecting from stain, and other methods designed to improve stone construction and reduce costs of its use. The widespread use of soft coal in recent years has been a factor in soiling stone buildings and in causing the search for better cleaning methods.

Acid and sand blast cleaning methods have been objected to by many architects, who say that acid deadens the appearance of many stones, and sand blasting wears the surface. The cold steam process does neither. Cleaning of stone buildings has hitherto been seldom recommended except by hand labor with scrubbing brushes, a slow, costly, and far from satisfactory process. The new process requires a gasoline pressure pump mounted on the lightest sort of auto truck, some hose, and a nozzle. Two operators go over a stone surface with great rapidity.

Many architects object to any cleaning of stone surfaces, believing that a normal amount of weathering improves the appearance of a stone building. There is however a considerable demand for cleaning, and the Bureau of Standards, working with H. H. Dutton, research engineer for the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association, set out to find a method. A concern in Charlottesville, Virginia, had developed the cold steam process for auto cleaning, and this seems to have solved the problem, at least for limestone. Limestone comprises about 45 per cent of the total building stone used in this country, the output being chiefly from the quarries of southern Indiana, when the name comes, although a very similar stone is found in parts of Alabama and Kentucky. The output last year was 12,000,000 cubic feet.

Tests Are Successful.

The first tests of the new process were made recently on some private buildings in Washington. The government is interested in every development of stone building, because so many government buildings are of stone. The new program for $50,000,000 worth of government buildings in Washington, and $115,000,000 worth throughout the country, will involve a great deal of stone construction. Limestone, sandstone, marble and granite are the materials most widely used. The first, while not so hard as granite or marble, is the most workable of stones, as it can be milled, planed, turned on a athe or worked with any tool that will work metal. How long it will last is not definitely known, as it has only been quarried since 1857. Buildings erected with it in 1860 have shown no signs of deteriorating, and stone blocks from the Vanderbilt mansion, recently torn down on Fifth avenue, New York, were brought to the Bureau of Standards and thoroughly tested. They were found of the same durability as new.

The most important test of stone recently made was at the new State Office building at Harrisburg, Pa., where 36 columns of Indiana limestone were installed, the largest in the world. These columns, 34 feet 6 inches high and with a diameter of five feet, were cut at the mill near the quarry, shipped and erected without loss or damage to one of them. The ability to work such great monoliths by machinery is a great step in the use of stone for building. Stone working is now largely done at the mill, and it is seldom that the stone mason with his chisel and mallet is seen working on a building.

The First Division, A. E. F. Memorial in Washington has a monolithic shaft one foot taller than the columns at Harrisburg. Architects and quarryman agree that the limit in size of limestone columns is indefinite, as the stone lies in deposits of great size and without flaws, and can be cut in any direction. The larger pieces involve larger cost, however, and this increases rapidly when sizes get beyond ordinary methods of handling and transportation.

The former theory that stone substitutes, now very numerous, would decrease the use of stone in buildings has not proved true. Stone remains the most desirable of permanent building materials, and while great quantities of substitutes are used in structures where the almost perpetual lasting qualities are not needed, there is more building stone being used in the United States today than ever before. The Arlington Memorial bridge now building in Washington and one of the great stone bridges of the world will be of granite.

The more workable limestone has been used in recent government structures, such as the Veterans' Bureau building and the Department of Interior building. It is also being used for the addition to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing which was put up in temporary form during the war and is being made permanent. The Washington Cathedral, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the Scottish Rite Temple, and the interior of the Lincoln Memorial are of this stone.

Stone Buildings Re-Assembled.

The rapid growth of American cities has produced some interesting examples of the tearing down of stone buildings, something which a few years ago would have been considered out of the question. Like the Vanderbilt mansion in New York, the Bradley mansion on DuPont Circle in Washington has been razed, to make way for stores and offices. The stone work of this house was removed to Newport to go into a house built by the owner in that city. At present a four story stone-faced bank building near the United States Treasury is being demolished, although it is fairly new. Each stone is numbered as it comes down, and shipped to a Virginia city where the building will be reproduced with the same stone. A modern skyscraper will occupy the Washington site.

A new lifting device perfected at the Bureau of Standards is now becoming widely used for stone blocks up to 800 pounds in weight, and permits quicker handling, with access to all faces of the stone by workmen, and less drilling of the blocks to permit lifting devices to hold it. There are now 35 industries working with the Bureau of Standards as research associates, perfecting practical methods and devices with the aid of government scientists, as the Indiana limestone industry is doing with this particular building material. The researches being handled this way range from stockings to steel. The industries contribute the cost of the research work and experiments. Announcements of new discoveries and perfecting of methods and devices are frequent, with consequent economies in many lines of production.

THE PICK OF THE CROWD

A painter living a few miles from a small city in one of the lower Cotton States called up the police judge on the long distance telephone.

"Say, judge," he said, "I just got word that my house boy Jim went to town last night and got in a row and hit another darky with a brick, and was locked up. I need that boy, and I wish as a favor to me you'd let him go with he comes up today before you. If you think he ought to pay a fine let me know what it is tonight at lodge meeting and I'll hand the amount to you."

"All right," answered the judge. "I'm willing to do anything in reason, but you'll have to come in here and pick out your own nigger."

"Lord, man," remonstrated the planter, "I can't take the time off to go into the police station today. I'm as busy as a bird dog right this minute."

"Can't help it," answered his honor. "I can't afford to take any more chances. Here, just the other day, Col. Talbert, down at Palmetto, called me up the same as you've done today and asked me to turn loose one of his hands that was in the calaboose for shooting craps. I agreed to do it, but I plumb forgot the nigger's name, and to make sure of getting the right one and not disappointing Talbert, I had to turn loose every nigger on the docket. There were fourteen of 'em in all—and one of 'em charged with murder, too. It made a lot of talk, and the chief of police kicked about it. If you want your nigger you come get him!"

MISS SARA RESNICK BECOMES BRIDE OF JULIUS SULKES, CLOTHIER

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Anna Resnick, of Avondale street, when their daughter, Miss Sara, became the bride of Julius Sulkes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sulkes, of Pittsburgh. Rabbi Jacob Kohn, of the B'Nai Jacob synagogue, performed the impressive ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers, palms and ferns, in the presence of 50 guests.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Rebecca Fisher, accompanied on the violin by Alex Fisher, the bridal party took their places. Miss Rebecca Resnick, a sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, while Mrs. Simon Maneloveg, of Woodlawn, Pa., was matron of honor. Julius Savitz, of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride, served as Mr. Sulkes' best man.

The bride was gowned in rosepoint lace over white georgette, in bouffante style. Her bridal veil was of tulle, held in place by a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was associated with her brother in the Resnick Furniture company store.

The maid of honor wore a gown of June rose georgette and a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Maneloveg, matron of honor, was attired in blue georgette and carried roses.

The bridegroom is one of the owners of Sulkes' Manhattan Clothing shoppe.

At 4:30 o'clock a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table, which was centered with a wedding cake, was adorned with flowers and asparagus fern. Places were arranged for 20 guests at the bride's table, while 30 other guests were arranged at other tables.

Brady-Van Fossan Wedding Solemnized In Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, June 28. — Miss Frances Hawthorne Brady, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Grayson Brady, formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Major Ernest Harvey Van Fossan, member of the tax board of appeals, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Fossan, of Lisbon, O., were married in the Church of the Covenant. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, officiated. Afterward the bride and bridegroom held an informal reception in the church.

Major Van Fossan's parents came to Washington for the wedding. Others in the group of relatives were Miss Virginian Van Fossan, of Lisbon, and Mrs. Ernest Hurd, of Maplewood, N. J., sisters of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Brady, of Savannah, Ga., brother and sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, Va., and Judge and Mrs. James Robinson, of Clarksburg.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin of picturesque inspiration, with a long full skirt and with lovely old family lace used on the bodice. The lace outlined the decoltage and formed cuffs to the long sleeves, coming in points over the hands. Her voluminous tulle veil made the train and fell from a coronet of lace which her mother had worn on her wedding day. She carried calla lilies.

Miss Brady was attended by Miss Jean Van Fossan, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, was matron of honor. The former wore a lavender crepe chiffon gown and the latter a similar costume of pink crepe chiffon. Their hats were of horsehair braid — picture models — matching their gowns. They carried sweetpeas in the colors of Phi Psi, the bridegroom's fraternity.

The group of bridemaids included Miss Alma Hawthorne, of Asheville, N. Ca., cousin of the bride; Mrs. John Barnes Milliken, Mrs. Amos Pagter, formerly of Clarksburg; Mrs. Joseph Claffey, formerly of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Louis Montford of Washington.

They wore taffeta frocks in pastel shades—pink, orchid, green, blue and yellow—combined with malines and made with bouffante skirts. Their large horsehair hats, matching their gowns in tone, were trimmed with malines. All carried bouquets of garden flowers.

Johnson Camden Brady, Jr., 5-year-old nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Lisle Smith, who was Major Van Fossan's roommate at college, served as best man, and the ushers were Robert Leland Van Fossan, New York; John Barnes Milliken, Howard LeRoy, Austin C. Walker, Patrick Galleher and Brice Clark, all of Washington.

A male quartet sang the wedding music.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, JUNE 28, 1926.

No "Safe and Sane Fourth" Here

There will be no "safe and sane" celebration of the Fourth of July in East Lievrpool, unless Mayor Ralph C. Benedum vetoes an ordinance enacted by the city council in a special session Saturday night.

Turning about face on legislation placed on the statute books early in the year, seemingly for the purpose of reducing the Ceramic City's share of casualities from dangerous fireworks, the councilmanic assembly removed all barriers and told dealers to sell explosives and children to shoot pyrotechnics to their heart's content.

By a vote of 6 to 1—Solon Thomas Farrall alone opposed the enactment—the legislative dads repealed the so-called "safe and sane Fourth" ordinance which permitted dealers to handle fireworks but prohibited the shooting of the explosives within the municipal limits.

What prompted the back-pedalling is a mystery. After a few minutes' debate of the previous half-hearted legislation, children and adults were given leeway by the councilmen to kill or main themselves and possibly start fires. So physicians, ambulance drivers, hospital attendants and firemen should prepare for a busy day, or days, in connection with the celebration of Independence Day in the East Liverpool district, if the mayor does not sing the requiem of the old ordinance.

One girl was burned, while two boys were rescued Saturday, when a toy machine gun was snapped by a youngster, causing the ignition of fireworks in a Gary, Ind., department store. The blaze resulted in a loss of $250,000.

More than 100 persons were killed and 1,000 were injured last year in the United States as a result of the use of fireworks on the nation's birthday. And most of the casualities were children.

In the last 20 years, according to the National Safety Council, more than 60,000 persons have been killed or injured.

Patriotism can be manifested on the Fourth of July without dangerous fireworks. Let's celebrate the day, but let us not sacrifice in fire and noise, the lives, limbs and property and future happiness of our people.

The Year of Exploration

More explorations. Chicago sends forth two important expeditions at once, in behalf of the Field Museum. One goes to the Amazon region, in tropical Brazil, with a group of leading American scientists. The other sails for the Arctic in a fishing schooner commanded by Capt. Donald M. MacMillan. Both will doubtless bring back notable facts and specimens of fascinating regions, little known.

The New York Museum of Natural History and the Smithsonian Institution at Washington have exploring parties at work in many quarters of the world.

Archeological research in Egypt, North Africa, Palestine, Mesopotamia and eastern Asia are going forward with accelerating pace. In America at the same time a whole new fabric of native archeology is being constructed.

Scientists at home are busier than ever in their laboratories, perfecting new discoveries and inventions for human use and delving deeper into the secrets of nature.

It is going to be a great year for exploration, making us better acquainted with this present earth and its inhabitants and resources, and with its remote past and possible future. Never before in human history was there any such outburst of activity for the extension of human knowledge.

At this rate, man will soon know everything except himself. That field will keep him busy a long time.

The "War Frauds"

The retirement of James Cameron, "director of investigations and accounts of the war department," ends an epoch, and ends it more creditably than most Americans have expected.

Mr. Cameron was appointed several years ago to look into the war contracts, with a view to uncovering such crookedness as congressional investigating committees had not been able to find. He went at the job with energy and skill, and according to his reports looked carefully into 200,000 contracts, big and little, amounting to thousands of millions of dollars.

In all that mass of war business he has found evidence of deliberate fraud in only a few cases. He now lays down the job because he "has nothing more to do."

High prices, unquestionably, were paid for supplies in the stress of the big war, when time was thought to be worth more than money. Many manufacturers and dealers charged all the traffic would bear. Many inspectors and other officials, no doubt, were lax in inspection, in the press of war work. But it is greatly to the credit of both sides, the government forces and the forces of private capital, that in that great enterprise it has been possible to discover so little that can be called stealing or cheating.

The war contracts, despite the immense sums of money involved, are said to be cleaner than they were in any previous war. That is something for Americans to remember with pride, in connection with a conflict that has brought few satisfactions.

Wherever two or three are gathered together, the men talk about their cars and the women about their hair.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up early betimes and off to see an English novelist who said he disliked America because of the hurry and rush, but believed people were happier here than on any other spot on the globe. Which is true.

So to see W. C. Gibson, the art editor, and he illustrated a whippet dog race at a circus with his hands and played a Sousa march piece on the harmonica, the funniest thing I ever saw in my life, and so pleased me I gave him a cigarette.

Home and cast my accounts, which seem to be in a deplorable way, and then to a dinner party and tried to imitate the whippet race but not a soul smiled, and so home and to bed in low spirits.

Many of us think of Greeks as shoe shiners or fruit merchants just as we classify Chinese as teeth-spraying laundrymen. Recently I attended a dinner party whose guests were mostly prominent Greeks who live in New York. Every Greek present spoke his own language, also French, German and English fluently.

All were New York home owners in rather exclusive areas and had traveled to all parts of the world. They were extremely well versed in current topics and knew much of American politics. I notice no liquor was served.

New York has two prosperous Greek newspapers in "The Atlantis" and "The National Herald." The Greeks are said to outnumber all other foreigners in attendance at the opera and art galleries.

It was one of the Greek dinner guests who told me the fur business is the oldest of all commercial enterprises in New York. Fur traders were operating before a house had been built on our gay little island.

I had an idea the oldest business here was minding other people's.

There is an elderly banker, clinging to mutton chop whiskers and flat-topped derby, who drives a pair of spanking bays up Park Avenue frequently in the late afternoon. The cobbed and spirited horses are attached to a high seated phaeton, and the coachman in canary yellow livery sits with immobile expression while his master handles the rains very expertly. It labaloo. I have noticed his home has an old-fashioned brass knocker and is a pleasant picture in the motor hulfoot scrapers. Through the window curtains one also sees a spacious marble fireplace, stupendous mahogany drawing room doors and black parquet.

It is the gossip that the Thirty-Ninth street, Empire, Knickerbocker and Casino theatres will before long follow the way of the Metropolitan opera and make room for sky-scrapers. They cannot longer withstand, it is said, the huge offers made for them. These are the last of the galaxy that included Daly's, Wallack's, Webber and Fields's Music Hall, the Herald Square and the Broadway. The new Rialto begins at 42d street and stretches nearly to 72d. In 20 years the trend has been gradually northward from the original Rialto on 14th street. One real estate man ventures the opinion that what we know as the Great White Way will in another ten years stretch beyond 72d street. This section is already taking on the White Way glamour with theatrical hotels, vaudeville theatres, flashy movie palaces, chop suey cafes and cabarets.

I am told that one of the highest-priced salesmen in New York stutters. Somehow that strikes one who is often embarrassed in not being able to pronounce mustache as an extraordinary achivement.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cold Steam.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—The discovery that a recent invention called cold steam for use in cleaning underneath automobiles, or other metal substances where heavy grease and dirt is encountered, is also a highly useful method of cleaning stone buildings, has been made by research workers at the United States Bureau of Standards. Cold steam is simply a mixture of steam and cold water driven through a heavy nozzle under 150 pounds of pressure. The steam and water mix just before being driven into the air and against the substance to be cleaned. As a result the cleaning values of both are used, plus the value of high pressure, and yet the mixture is not at a high temperature.

The search for a quick, economical, and thorough method of cleaning stone is typical of the many researches being carried on by the Bureau of Standards in conjunction with engineers representing basis industrial groups. In the stone building field the bureau is also working on new methods of lifting and placing stone, methods of water-proofing and protecting from stain, and other methods designed to improve stone construction and reduce costs of its use. The widespread use of soft coal in recent years has been a factor in soiling stone buildings and in causing the search for better cleaning methods.

Acid and sand blast cleaning methods have been objected to by many architects, who say that acid deadens the appearance of many stones, and sand blasting wears the surface. The cold steam process does neither. Cleaning of stone buildings has hitherto been seldom recommended except by hand labor with scrubbing brushes, a slow, costly, and far from satisfactory process. The new process requires a gasoline pressure pump mounted on the lightest sort of auto truck, some hose, and a nozzle. Two operators go over a stone surface with great rapidity.

Many architects object to any cleaning of stone surfaces, believing that a normal amount of weathering improves the appearance of a stone building. There is however a considerable demand for cleaning, and the Bureau of Standards, working with H. H. Dutton, research engineer for the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association, set out to find a method. A concern in Charlottesville, Virginia, had developed the cold steam process for auto cleaning, and this seems to have solved the problem, at least for limestone. Limestone comprises about 45 per cent of the total building stone used in this country, the output being chiefly from the quarries of southern Indiana, when the name comes, although a very similar stone is found in parts of Alabama and Kentucky. The output last year was 12,000,000 cubic feet.

Tests Are Successful.

The first tests of the new process were made recently on some private buildings in Washington. The government is interested in every development of stone building, because so many government buildings are of stone. The new program for $50,000,000 worth of government buildings in Washington, and $115,000,000 worth throughout the country, will involve a great deal of stone construction. Limestone, sandstone, marble and granite are the materials most widely used. The first, while not so hard as granite or marble, is the most workable of stones, as it can be milled, planed, turned on a athe or worked with any tool that will work metal. How long it will last is not definitely known, as it has only been quarried since 1857. Buildings erected with it in 1860 have shown no signs of deteriorating, and stone blocks from the Vanderbilt mansion, recently torn down on Fifth avenue, New York, were brought to the Bureau of Standards and thoroughly tested. They were found of the same durability as new.

The most important test of stone recently made was at the new State Office building at Harrisburg, Pa., where 36 columns of Indiana limestone were installed, the largest in the world. These columns, 34 feet 6 inches high and with a diameter of five feet, were cut at the mill near the quarry, shipped and erected without loss or damage to one of them. The ability to work such great monoliths by machinery is a great step in the use of stone for building. Stone working is now largely done at the mill, and it is seldom that the stone mason with his chisel and mallet is seen working on a building.

The First Division, A. E. F. Memorial in Washington has a monolithic shaft one foot taller than the columns at Harrisburg. Architects and quarryman agree that the limit in size of limestone columns is indefinite, as the stone lies in deposits of great size and without flaws, and can be cut in any direction. The larger pieces involve larger cost, however, and this increases rapidly when sizes get beyond ordinary methods of handling and transportation.

The former theory that stone substitutes, now very numerous, would decrease the use of stone in buildings has not proved true. Stone remains the most desirable of permanent building materials, and while great quantities of substitutes are used in structures where the almost perpetual lasting qualities are not needed, there is more building stone being used in the United States today than ever before. The Arlington Memorial bridge now building in Washington and one of the great stone bridges of the world will be of granite.

The more workable limestone has been used in recent government structures, such as the Veterans' Bureau building and the Department of Interior building. It is also being used for the addition to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing which was put up in temporary form during the war and is being made permanent. The Washington Cathedral, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the Scottish Rite Temple, and the interior of the Lincoln Memorial are of this stone.

Stone Buildings Re-Assembled.

The rapid growth of American cities has produced some interesting examples of the tearing down of stone buildings, something which a few years ago would have been considered out of the question. Like the Vanderbilt mansion in New York, the Bradley mansion on DuPont Circle in Washington has been razed, to make way for stores and offices. The stone work of this house was removed to Newport to go into a house built by the owner in that city. At present a four story stone faced bank building near the United States Treasury is being demolished, although it is fairly new. Each stone is numbered as it comes down, and shipped to a Virginia city where the building will be reproduced with the same stone. A modern skyscraper will occupy the Washington site.

A new lifting device perfected at the Bureau of Standards is now becoming widely used for stone blocks up to 800 pounds in weight, and permits quicker handling, with access to all faces of the stone by workmen, and less drilling of the blocks to permit lifting devices to hold it. There are now 35 industries working with the Bureau of Standards as research associates, perfecting practical methods and devices with the aid of government scientists, as the Indiana limestone industry is doing with this particular building material. The researches being handled this way range from stockings to steel. The industries contribute the cost of the research work and experiments. Announcements of new discoveries and perfecting of methods and devices are frequent, with consequent economies in many lines of production.

THE PICK OF THE CROWD

A painter living a few miles from a small city in one of the lower Cotton States called up the police judge on the long distance telephone.

"Say, judge," he said, "I just got word that my house boy Jim went to town last night and got in a row and hit another darky with a brick, and was locked up. I need that boy, and I wish as a favor to me you'd let him go with he comes up today before you. If you think he ought to pay a fine let me know what it is tonight at lodge meeting and I'll hand the amount to you."

"All right," answered the judge. "I'm willing to do anything in reason, but you'll have to come in here and pick out your own nigger."

"Lord, man," remonstrated the planter, "I can't take the time off to go into the police station today. I'm as busy as a bird dog right this minute."

"Can't help it," answered his honor. "I can't afford to take any more chances. Here, just the other day, Col. Talbert, down at Palmetto, called me up the same as you've done today and asked me to turn loose one of his hands that was in the calaboose for shooting craps. I agreed to do it, but I plumb forgot the nigger's name, and to make sure of getting the right one and not disappointing Talbert, I had to turn loose every nigger on the docket. There were fourteen of 'em in all—and one of 'em charged with murder, too. It made a lot of talk, and the chief of police kicked about it. If you want your nigger you come get him!"

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Anna Resnick, of Avondale street, when their daughter, Miss Sara, became the bride of Julius Sulkes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sulkes, of Pittsburgh. Rabbi Jacob Kohn, of the B'Nai Jacob synagogue, performed the impressive ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers, palms and ferns, in the presence of 50 guests.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Rebecca Fisher, accompanied on the violin by Alex Fisher, the bridal party took their places. Miss Rebecca Resnick, a sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, while Mrs. Simon Maneloveg, of Woodlawn, Pa., was matron of honor. Julius Savitz, of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride, served as Mr. Sulkes' best man.

The bride was gowned in rosepoint lace over white georgette, in bouffante style. Her bridal veil was of tulle, held in place by a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was associated with her brother in the Resnick Furniture company store.

The maid of honor wore a gown of June rose georgette and a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Maneloveg, matron of honor, was attired in blue georgette and carried roses.

The bridegroom is one of the owners of Sulkes' Manhattan Clothing shoppe.

At 4:30 o'clock a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table, which was centered with a wedding cake, was adorned with flowers and asparagus fern. Places were arranged for 20 guests at the bride's table, while 30 other guests were arranged at other tables.

Brady-Van Fossan Wedding Solemnized In Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, June 28. — Miss Frances Hawthorne Brady, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Grayson Brady, formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Major Ernest Harvey Van Fossan, member of the tax board of appeals, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Fossan, of Lisbon, O., were married in the Church of the Covenant. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, officiated. Afterward the bride and bridegroom held an informal reception in the church.

Major Van Fossan's parents came to Washington for the wedding. Others in the group of relatives were Miss Virginian Van Fossan, of Lisbon, and Mrs. Ernest Hurd, of Maplewood, N. J., sisters of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Brady, of Savannah, Ga., brother and sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, Va., and Judge and Mrs. James Robinson, of Clarksburg.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin of picturesque inspiration, with a long full skirt and with lovely old family lace used on the bodice. The lace outlined the decoltage and formed cuffs to the long sleeves, coming in points over the hands. Her voluminous tulle veil made the train and fell from a coronet of lace which her mother had worn on her wedding day. She carried calla lilies.

Miss Brady was attended by Miss Jean Van Fossan, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, was matron of honor. The former wore a lavender crepe chiffon gown and the latter a similar costume of pink crepe chiffon. Their hats were of horsehair braid — picture models — matching their gowns. They carried sweetpeas in the colors of Phi Psi, the bridegroom's fraternity.

The group of bridemaids included Miss Alma Hawthorne, of Asheville, N. Ca., cousin of the bride; Mrs. John Barnes Milliken, Mrs. Amos Pagter, formerly of Clarksburg; Mrs. Joseph Claffey, formerly of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Louis Montford of Washington.

They wore taffeta frocks in pastel shades—pink, orchid, green, blue and yellow—combined with malines and made with bouffante skirts. Their large horsehair hats, matching their gowns in tone, were trimmed with malines. All carried bouquets of garden flowers.

Johnson Camden Brady, Jr., 5-year-old nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Lisle Smith, who was Major Van Fossan's roommate at college, served as best man, and the ushers were Robert Leland Van Fossan, New York; John Barnes Milliken, Howard LeRoy, Austin C. Walker, Patrick Galleher and Brice Clark, all of Washington.

A male quartet sang the wedding music.

CRETE SHAKEN

Heavy Damage is Reported in Islands Off Greek Coast.

LONDON, June 28.—Mediterranean countries, and the Mediterranean islands in particular, have been terrorized during the past 24 hours by recurring earthquakes, according to reports received here.

As yet there are no reports which would indicate any widespread damage or any extensive casualty list.

The earthquake area appears to have stretched from southern Italy to India, and its center was apparently in the islands off of the coast of Greece.

ATHENS, June 28.—Several persons are reported to have been killed in earthquakes which shook Rhodes during the past 24 hours, according to information received here. Serious damage was done to property and many houses are reported to have crumpled up.

The famous Archaeological museum at Canada is reported to have been wrecked by the earthquake.

In Crete the earthquake is said to have been of more than five minutes duration and several separate shocks were felt at various times. Fairly heavy damage to property is reported from Crete.

Heavy damage is also reported in the more sparsely populated areas of the Dedecanese islands, and there are unconfirmed rumors of several deaths.

Georgetown Records Shocks.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Two slight earthquake shocks were registered on the seismograph at Georgetown university early today.

A previous shock, registered yesterday afternoon, was more severe than the two today.

Other Districts Rocked.

ROME, June 28.— Reports of serious earthquakes and panic in southern Italy were officially denied by the government today.

Recurring earthquakes, lasting for a period of more than 30 minutes, were recorded on the seismograph at Faenza observatory, but no damage was reported in Italy.

SINGAPORE, June 28.—Two earthquakes, of 20 seconds duration, were felt here at 10:30 today. The shocks were the most severe for many years, although no extensive damage is reported.

BATAVIA, Dutch East Indies, June 28.—A severe earthquake has been felt in Sumatra.

The population was panic-stricken.

Cleveland, dived after him, but unsuccessfully. Though he succeeded in grasping the drowning boy four times, he was forced to let go each time.

Three Injured in Crash.

STEUBENVILLE, June 28.—Jefferson county authorities today were probing reports that a watchman was not on duty at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing at Unionport, near here, where three Canton, O., men were seriously injured Sunday when their car was struck by a fast express train.

The injured, who are the Ohio Valley hospital, were reported to have spent a restful night and to be in "very good" condition today. They were:

Jeffery Steel, 43, fractured skull.

Chris Hur, 33, fractured skull.

James Embree, 46, fractured right arm and internal injuries.

The party was enroute from Steubenville to Canton at the time of the accident. Local authorities said today they had not yet located any of the reatives of the men in Canton.

Three Killed at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 28.—Three more names were on the list of traffic deaths today, bringing the total for the year up to 60. Mrs. Judith Moore, 42, was killed Sunday night when her auto stalled on a Baltimore and Ohio crossing at Hartwell. William B. Price, 58, railroad watchman, was killed while trying to push Mrs. Moore's auto from the path of an onrushing passenger flyer. George H. Levi, 58, died of internal injuries received when run over by a truck.

The accident at the Hartwell crossing marked the fifth fatal crash there in two years. Mrs. Moore, president of the Hartwell Women's club, was riding with Mrs. J. N. Alexander. The auto waited for a freight to pass and was motioned forward by Price, police said. The auto stalled on the inbound tracks as the flyer roared down the track. Mrs. Alexander jumped and Mrs. Moore fainted over the wheel. Price was pushing the auto when the crash came. Michael Maloney, Middletown, was conductor on the train.

Levi was run over while picking up a piece of ice. The truck was backing into a private driveway of an ice cream company.

Sixteen other persons were reported injured in traffic accidents over the week-end, none seriously.

Englishmen, Frenchmen, Germans plan their lives, work to get what the plan requires, then retire, and live for a while. In America we plan industriously, every man will tell you what he will do and how he will live, by and by. Later you hear that he is dead—the plan never carried out.

But it is a good thing for the country, and for its men. They were made to work, not to plan a pleasant existence, and the country needs their work, not their leisure.

Plenty of time to retire, in heaven, where no work is done.

IN a sham battle, above New York, our farcicals fleet did wonders, and the defenders won. They usually do win in sham battles.

Some say: "We are rich, and can build as many airships as may be needed when the time comes. Why waste money on models that must soon be obsolete?"

Solon, wisest of the seven, answered that question when Croesus proudly showed him his piles of gold: "Oh, King, if any other come that hath better iron than you, he will be master of all this gold."

If any nation comes flying east or west with better flying machines than ours, that nation will be master of all our gold.

Ordinance Repealed

veto or allow the measure to become a law without his signature.

"I will in all probability veto the ordinance," Mayor Benedum declared this morning. "I have it under consideration but will take no action on it for several days. I knew nothing of the proposed repealer until a short time before Saturday night's meetiug. The repealer certainly was never approved by the administration."

Action is Surprise.

Council's repeal of the "no noisy" celebration measure came as a surprise. The special meeting was called by President of Council N. P. Kerr at the request of Service Director J. W. Moore to consider appropriation legislation and "ther business."

The repealer was introduced by Councilman George Hughes, chairman of the ordinance committee, and supported by Members Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole, Herrington and Hayes. None of the six voting for the measure offered any explanation for their "back pedalling" action, indicating that an agreement had been reached before the meeting. Solon Farrall, who voted "nay" upon all roll calls, did not speak.

The ordinance, banning fireworks, was adopted at a stormy session, after the dealers filed a protest with the solons, declaring they would have no opportunity to dispose of the stocks already on hand if the sale and use of pyrotechnics were prohibited. The ordinance was amended banning the use of fireworks, but permitting dealers to dispose of their stocks.

Mayor Issues Permits.

Mayor Benedum today was preparing to issue permits to dealers for the sale of fireworks on July 1, 2, 3 and 4. These permits, which are issued without charge, are required by ordinance and must be issued so long as the sale is notp rohibited. Not more than half a dozen dealers will sell fireworks this year, it is claimed.

An ordinance appropriating $7,200 for the street maintenance and repair fund was also passed on three readings Saturday night. Part of this fund will be used for the grading of Dresden avenue which is now in progress. The remainder will be expended in patching and repairing streets.

Another ordinance, reducing assessments against the property of Louis Groglode for the improvement of Lisbon street, was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules, Councilmen Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole, Hughes, Hayes and Herrington voting in favor of it, and Councilman Thomas Farrall opposing it.

CORONER TO ACT

Police Say Woman Intended to Seek Divorce.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., June 28.—A coroner's jury will meet this afternoon to determine whether E. M. Elliott, wealthy developer and promoter, will be held for trial in connection with the death of his wife, a leading society matron whose skull was crushed on the back steps of their home here Saturday night.

Elliott, who was taken into custody immediately after his wife's death, was released last night from the county jail at Clearwater by Sheriff Roy Booth under bond of $25,000. Elliott's 20-year old son Munson, his daughter Madeline and three negro servants were also held as witnesses but with the exception of the maid all have been released.

No charge has been made against Elliott, bond being set only to guarantee his appearance as a material witness, according to police.

Negro Maid's Story.

Elliott told police his wife was entering the back door of their home late Saturday afternoon when she fell down the steps and struck her head against the pavement, receiving fatal injuries. Annie Jadson, the Negro maid, however, told police that "the butler saw Mr. Elliott throw his wife out the back door.

Police officials today asserted that Elliott was enraged over his wife's move to obtain a divorce and had attempted to keep her away from the house by locking the front door and attempting to block the rear as she went around to the back of the house.

Elliott, formerly of Chicago, is widely known in Florida as the man who managed the finances of the Gandy bridge between St. Petersburg and Tampa over Tampa Bay. He is also prominent in realty circles here and in Pensacola and in Jacksonville. Mrs. Elliott was one of the best known and most popular society matrons in St. Petersburg.

Elliott sprang into prominence last year when he sold a part of his real estate holdings at a price reported to be $10,000,000 after creditors had attempted to throw him into bankruptcy.

He again broke into print when the government accused him of being several hundred thousand dollars short in his income tax return. The case was settled.

identified, stripped to his underwear, dived toward Miss Kibble, and towed her to the shore. The girl, who was unconscious, was placed in an automobile and accompanied by Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, who arrived in the meantime and a friend, she was rushed to the hospital.

Search for Tackett's body was immediately started. McFadden located the body with hooks, almost in the exact place where the heroic young man disappeared.

Father to Claim Body.

Fireman Edward Stivason and volunteers worked over Tackett's body for about a half hour in an effort to revive him. The body was still warm when recovered. The tank of oxygen, used by the pulmotor, was used before hope for resuscitating him was abandoned. The body was removed to the Sturgis undertaking establishment.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, returned a verdict of "accidental drowning" at an inquest this morning.

Tackett, who was employed by J. E. Gamble, brick contractor, roomed at the home of Frank Hutchinson, 599 Railroad street, a stone's throw from where he was drowned. His father, J. M. Tackett, was located at New Boston, Ohio, last night and was to arrive here today to claim the body.

He was unmarried. He is said to have a sister, Mrs. Virginia Thomas, living in Wellsville.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. William Buxton and family, wish to express sincere thanks to friends, neighbors, Reverend Caulk and Reverend Roberts, who so kindly assisted during bereavement of husband and loved one, William H. Buxton.

Father Cuts Boy's Throat, Then Slashes Own; Lad Dies

Dayton Youngster Bleeds to Death in Tragedy Blamed on Proposed Cherry-Picking Trip to Darke County.

DAYTON, June 28. — Roy Denver Hill, 6 years old, is dead today as the result of an attempted murder and suicide by his father, Albert Leroy Hill, 48, yesterday, after a family quarrel.

Hill cut the boy's throat with a razor blade and then cut his own throat with a small pocket knife, while police detectives were attempting to break down a barricaded door leading to the attic of the Hill home, where the tragedy took place.

The boy bled to death half an hour later. Hill was taken to the St. Elizabeth hospital, where his wounds were treated, and he then was locked in central police station pending arraignment today.

The tragedy had its inception, according to Hill, in a proposed trip to Darke county yesterday to pick cherries. According to Mrs. Hill "it had been a continuous quarrel."

"I aimed to take my boy's life and my own," Hill told Assistant Prosecutor Galloway. "I took my boy's life to save him from ruin. Neither one of us could live in peace."

"What on earth—" Bee began again, taking in the suitcase and that comical bag. But Delia hadn't yet arrived at words. She'd always been inarticulate, vague, an absorbed reader, a fevered scribbler of verse, with no dimmest sense of hour or place.

"I meant to write you." It was a rather frightened little voice. "I did mean to.' But of course she hadn't. She couldn't be definite. She giggled musically, then sobered in a still, scared way, gazing out at the square. "So this is Greenwich Village!"

"It certainly is, dear. My, but I'm glad to see you. What have you been doing with yourself these two years and more?"

"Secretary. Yes, in business.'

"In Worcester?'

Delia nodded. "Oh, I'm a practical person now." Humor that, "But, Bee, I just couldn't stand it."

"It's hard to imagine you standing it."

"Oh, but I can do it. Honest I can. They begged me not to leave."

"Oh, you left?"

"We all knew you would write, of course.' Bee looked over the clipped-out poems. "What did these appear in—not magazines?"

"Yes." A giggle. "And some newspapers. I couldn't help thinking there might be a place for me down here. I've had some wonderful letters from editors. And it was so hard up there—oh, home and everything!—that I just couldn't stand it any longer. Oh, a lot of things. A man's been trying to marry me, and my people kept at me about it. They were determined to get me safely married." "People are like that," Bee put in sapiently, with a brisk nod.) "So finally—well, here I am. I've never been in New York before."

"You mean you've just plumped in here?"

Delia's fringed lids fluttered. "That's about it. Oh, I suppose it's risky. I haven't got much money. Just the little I could save from week to week. And everybody says there's nothing in poetry, no sort of living, but—well, I thought I could pick up some kind of work while I'm making my way. And I don't care how I live. There ought to be a hall-bedroom somewhere for me." A wan look crept into the elfin face. "I thought—I thought you might help me find a place. But I lost your address. It was awfully careless. I knew it was Christopher street right near Sheridan Square. Betty told me about you last year. So I got this far. And now here you are. Pretty wonderful, isn't it!" She had certainly found her tongue. And having found it, she talked nervously on. "Betty told me you'd gone on the stage." ("Not very far on," remarked Bee, soberly.) "That must be wonderful. Oh, how I'd love to do that! But I haven't a shred of talent for it. I'm afraid it's going to be writing or nothing for me."

"Do your people mind your coming?'

Delia slowly nodded. "It was a good deal of an uprooting. But my letters helped. And then I'm afraid I—well, just ran out. The breaking point wasn't far off. I had to do something."

"Oh, I didn't mean that. No! I only want you to advise me a little. Help me find a place to live. You do turn to some one, you know."

But Bee was on her feet and had the suitcase. "Come on. It's just over here." She led the way out through the farther end of the enclosure. "You'll love Louise. She's the girl I live with. She works in a big store uptown. In the decorating department. One of these days, she's bound to be a regular interior decorator on her own. We're the more or less original two female musketeers, Lou and I. But of course there ought to be three of us."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 28. — Industrial stocks followed an irregular trend in an inactive and featureless market in the early trading today, short covering and investment buying of a few of the motor stocks and oil stocks resulted in moderate gains in the market leaders, but elsewhere the market was dull and price changes were narrow.

Some of the market's hesitancy was attributed to the present uncertainty with respect to agricultural bills and other measures pending before congress before final adjournment. The closing sessions of congress are generally rated as "bearish" in the Wall street district, because of the possibility or rushing through undesirable legislation.

The may net income reports of New York Central, Pennsylvania and other large railroad systems, issued today, were fully up to expectations and show a gratifying increase in income as compared with last month and the corresponding month of last year.

Stocks of oil companies mentioned in recent murder gossip were in fairly large demand, with Skelly Oil advancing to above 37 for the first time in its history. Mexican Seaboard was a favorite among the low priced oils, reports stating that the company had opened up some profitable fields in Texas. Commerce reports stated that May gasoline exports were the largest in history.

Hudson Motors was strong in the face of an unfavorable second quarter earnings statement, showing income of only $2.49 a share. Willys Overland and General Motors sold fractionally higher. Rails and coppers were inactive. Call money 4½ per cent.

PENNSYLVANIA BEES SET RECORD BY FLYING 411,000,000 MILES

CLEARFIELD, Pa.—The bees of Clearfield county traveled more than 411,000,000 miles during the past year in their work of producing 84,308 pounds of honey, according to estimates made by officials of the industry. This distance would be the equivalent of two round trips to the sun.

Bee experts declared that one bee collects one five-thousandth of a pound of honey on each flight and the average flight is one and a half miles, which means that one bee to have collected all the honey produced in the county during the year would have covered a mileage of 411,940,000.

The work was distributed among the bees of 3,700 hives with an average population of 20,000 bees, or a total of 7,440,000. Thus the flight of each bee for the year was slightly less than sixty miles.

INVENTORS QUARREL ABOUT PATENT ON METHOD TO DEVELOP VACCINES

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Whether one of the outstanding medical discoveries of the past ten years is to become "public property" or remain in the control of one man hinges on the outcome of a Federal court suit here, in which David Crowther, University of Minnesota mechanic, is attempting to disprove the claims of Dr. Winford P. Larson, university bacteriologist that the latter originated a process for the development of vaccines.

Crowther declared on the stand in Judge Sanborn's court here that he, and not Dr. Larson, discovered a device built of chrome steel which was successfully used for crushing bacteria. The device was perfected in 1918 and Dr. Larson was about to announce it as a gift to humanity when he learned that Crowther, who worked in the dental laboratory constructing apparatus for research work, had obtained a patent.

Dr. Larson immediately contested Crowther's claim and the present suit is an outgrowth of a decision by the Federal court in the District of Columbia, awarding the patent rights to Dr. Larson.

MISSOURI WILL MARK BALLOTS ON DRY ISSUE

Attitude of Candidates in August Primaries is Sought.

W. C. T. U. ACTIVE

Men Running for Office Asked Seven Questions.

ST. LOUIS — Although prohibition was not expected to be a paramount issue in the August primary in Missouri, the battle lines are being drawn tightly by both the wet and dry forces in the state so that the voters will know the position of all candidates on the question that they may mark their ballots accordingly if they wish.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union is out actively in the field already to see that no candidate for state legislature, congress, or the United States senate will dodge the issue entirely.

A set of seven questions sent out to each of the candidates who have filed for the primary which, if answered, will give the candidate's position as to how moist or arid he may be.

Wets Seek Vote.

Countering the activities of the temperance union, the forces of the Missouri Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment, with eyes looking ahead to the November election, expect to have the ballot contain the question:

"Do you favor repeal of the Missouri state dry law?"

The association is circulating petitions throughout the state asking for signers to a petition which will demand a vote on the question next fall. Recently they announced they had practically one-third the required number of names (60,000) or 5 per cent of the vote for supreme court judge at the last election in two-thirds of the state's 16 congressional districts.

The "wet" forces say there is no doubt but that question will come to a vote.

Anticipating that the "wets" are not amiss in making this prediction, the temperance union's questionnaire will ask each candidate in the state the following:

The Questionnaire.

1. Do you favor strengthening the Volstead law?
2. Are you an observer of the law?
3. Will you defend it by voice and vote if it is referred?
4. If elected to the State Legislature, will you vote for amendments to strengthen the present law? (This question to candidates for the legislature.)
5. Would you assess maximum penalties for violation?
6. Will you lend assistance to enforcement of all laws as well as dry laws?
7. What is your attitude on the Eighteenth Amendment?

An indirect vote on the prohibition question might be seen in the candidacy of Congressman Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis for the United States Senate. Hawes long has been identified with the "wet" forces and his campaign no doubt will be waged to some extent on this issue and likewise fought by the dry forces.

Hawes will open his political guns in Missouri on the eve of Independence Day when he will make an address at Excelsior Springs. While he will discuss the farm relief question, the World Court and other issues he also is said to be prepared to tell the voters that he will work for a limited modification of the Volstead law to permit the manufacture and sale of beer not intoxicating "in fact."

ALL-STAR CAST AT CERAMIC

Tom Moore Featured in Pola Negri Farce.

The "luck of the Irish" has always followed Tom Moore.

Tom is diffident about commenting on his obvious good qualities, his proven ability, or even his rare fortune. But several of the instances where Irish luck kept him in clover were related by Stuart Holmes, between scenes of "Good and Naughty," Pola Negri's latest Paramount starring picture, which comes to the Ceramic theatre, today.

Moore is Miss Negri's leading man in that production and Holmes plays one of the principal roles. Inasmuch as it had been ten years since the two had appeared together, there was considerable reminiscencing.

"Tom and I got off a train from New Orleans at the Pennsylvania station one day," Holmes recounted. "He owned two thin dimes. I had nothing. We were wondering what luxuries twenty cents would purchase when Tom was stopped by a man who expressed admiration for a whalebone cane be was carrying.

"Well, Tom sold the cane for $5 and we proceeded happily on our way. In the next block Tom found a diamond stick-pin on the sidewalk. He pawned it for $15.00 and the $20.20 lasted until we both got work."

Incidentally Moore and Holmes both broke into pictures at the same time and collaborated in writing a scenario for their initial appearance. They joined the Kalem company in New York and were sent to New Orleans to make a one-reel film. Discovering that the director could not begin work having no scenario, they wrote one for him.

Not the least bit of Tom's Irish luck was his being signed as Pola Negri's leading man in "Good and Naughty." Miss Negri and her director, Malcolm St. Clair, puzzled over the problem of a suitable lead for two weeks. One morning the star and the director rushed toward each other with beaming smiles.

"I know just the man," said St. Clair.

"I've thought of one, too," said Negri.

"TOM MOORE."

TAX COLLECTION HITS HIGH MARK

Annual Budgets Will be Filed Within Next Two Weeks.

Although June taxes continue to be paid into the office of County Treasurer Jo Pike, the total volume of the collection will not be known until reports have been received from those offices have had duplicates.

It is known, however, that the June collection will be larger than in 1925 because of the fact that the duplicate was larger. This is a matter of natural growth of the county.

More taxes are received in December than June, because many taxpayers at that time pay the tax for the year instead of splitting their amounts into two payments. Probably a month will elapse before the total amount of the June collection will be definitely known.

Township trustees and other taxing districts in the county are now preparing their budgets for the next fiscal year, and these are to be filed with County Auditor Elmer E. Walker within the next few weeks. The amount of money sought through these budgets will determine the rate for the tax payable next December and June 1927.

Certain school districts in the county are seeking additional funds for next year, it has been intimated, but whether it will be possible to allow these wants will not be known until after the requirements of other funds have been worked out.

With many new properties being added to the tax duplicate for 1927, it is very likely that the grand duplicate for next year will be larger than that for 1926, and this in turn will result in a larger volume of receipts in the office of the County treasurer.

VISITING JUDGE TO BE ASSIGNED

Application has been made by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Chief Justice Marshall for the assignment of a jurist to Columbiana county for Thursday and Friday.

It has been made known that Judge Jay G. Paisley of Steubenville will be available for assignment to this county, and it may follow he will be notified to preside here during these two days.

A number of important court matters have accumulated since Judge Irving Carpenter has returned to Norwalk, and these are to be given consideration by the next visiting jurist.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to John Driscoll, a millwright residing at Leetonia and Miss Maude Weikart, a school teacher residing at Leetonia, and are to be married by the Rev. Wykoff at Leetonia.

State Will Receive Large Amount From Federal Road Fund

During his visit at the office of the state highway department at Columbus last week, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was informed that the federal road raid appropriation for Ohio during the coming fiscal year will total $3,500,000. The total federal road aid appropriation for the United States has been placed at $75,000.

How much federal aid money will be appropriated for use in Columbiana county has not been determined, as the budget will not be worked up by the state highway department until later in the season.

County commissioners have not determined the volume of new construction work for 1927 yet, but this proposition will be considered by the board before very long. As a matter of fact, there will be no alteration of the major road program as determined upon last year, and before the approval of the $950,000 road bond issue last November. These major projects will be the first contracts to be awarded by the state highway department.

Township trustees, it is said, are also interested in the extension of local road work under the provisions of the Green law, but these roads are not included in any work that come under the supervision of the county commissioners. The township program has been approved by the commissioners according to the records filed with that office by the various township trustees, but the improvement of these projects lies entirely in the hands of the trustees.

VALUABLE FARM EXHIBIT PLACED

Examples of the damage that is done by the corn borer have been received by County Agent Floyd Lower of the County Farm Bureau from the state extension service department at Columbus, and these are to be preserved at the Lisbon office of the Farm bureau for the inspection and benefit of producers.

The examples are backed with white cotton and are under glass. Ears of corn have been cleverly cut in half longways, showing the corn borer digging its way through the center of the ear, also the male and female moth from which the egg comes that produces the borer.

The exhibit is one of the most interesting of the character ever received at the office of the farm bureau, and at the suggestion of Mr. Lower, all producers of corn are urged to visit this office and inspect the exhibit.

Establishes Record.

County Agent Floyd Lower has been informed by the Holstein-Friesian association that the cow Queen Bessie Pietertje Ormsby in a long time test is credited with 26,895.3 pounds of milk containing 1,095.26 pounds of butterfat. The test was over a period of 365 days. The cow was owned by C. L. Spaulding, Warren, Minn., and during the test was sold to R. V. Rasmussen, of Deerfield, Ill., where the test was completed.

FRIENDS MEETING IS SCHEDULED

Within a few weeks the program for the yearly meeting of the Friends church at Damascus will be announced. Some preliminary work on the program has already been taken up by the Rev. John Pennington of Damascus.

Last year the yearly meeting house was improved, the outside of the building having been repainted and electric lights installed. The attendance at this meeting in 1925 was the largest in the history of the denomination, and on account of the proposed program this year, a still larger crowd is being anticipated.

The meeting will open the last week in August and continue over the last Sunday in the month.

Children's Day Observed.

Children's day programs were featured in two Lisbon churches Sunday evening, at the Christian church, of which the Rev. R. J. Bennett is the pastor and at the First Reformed church of which the Rev. O. J. Harvil is the minister. Vocal and instrumental music and recitations were featured at both services.

Improving Road.

Farmers residing along the East Carmel-Achortown road are contributing labor, while the Middleton township trustee have put in $500 and the state $1,000 under the provisions of the Green law for the improvement of this road.

Grading will soon be finished and the road is to be given a slag surface. The completion of this road will give the Rogers district an improved outlet eastward.

Farm Efficiency Increased.

From 1910 to 1920 American farm labor increased in efficiency about 22.5 percent for, although the number of farm workers decreased in that time 9 per cent, the crop production increased 11 per cent. Greater use of power and modern machinery is largely responsible, of course, and it is said that the average farmer used five times as much machinery as he did 50 years ago.

Most of the rugs produced in small shops of Peking are made by boys under sixteen.

Father Aids Police to Nab Elder Son To Save Younger Boy From Crime

THE victory of Parker Campbell, of Toledo, the darkest of ebony hued steeds entered in the Ohio amateur at Westwood, over Joe Wells, the other finalist in Saturday's golf epic that ended a tournament abounding in surprises and upsets, has now became a matter of history, but the Ceramic City golfer's great performances, both in the preliminary rounds and in the wind-up tussle will not be forgotten for a long time by East Liverpool enthusiasts.

Campbell, in the words of one Cleveland critic, "became the luckiest champion who ever took temporary possession of the Governor's Cup," when he won from Wells on the fortieth hole, 1 up.

"Had this been any other match," this same critic asserts, "Campbell would have gone out on the 39th hole because of his erratic driving. On this hole he drove a wicked hook into the rough that would have gone out of bounds had not a youthful member of the gallery got in the way of the ball and stopped it before it passed the beckoning white stakes. Had it gone out Campbell would have been forced to tee off again, playing three. That, no doubt would have sunk him."

Longest Amateur Final.

Nevertheless, a break is a break and Campbell made the most of it to win on the next hole.

Wells put up a mighty scrap before he conceded defeat in the longest final match of any state tournament. Two down at the end of the morning round, he was three down as they came to the fourteenth. As against Ogilvie he cut loose and won three in a row to square the match.

Parker appeared vastly improved in the afternoon over his morning performance. Wells was cracking them squarely down the fairway all the time but this putting was off and to this no doubt, may be laid his defeat.

EASTERN ELEVEN SOCCER CHAMPS

CLEVELAND, June 28.—The Defenders club of New Bedford, Mass., today held the title of national amateur soccer champion, as the result of its victory here Sunday over the Heidelberg, A. C., of Pennsylvania, in the final game between the winners of the eastern and western divisions. The defenders won the game in a last minute spurt after being outplayed most of the game.

The Tigers nosed out the Indians, 5 to 4, for their seventh straight victory and gained a clear title to third place. Cleveland dropped to sixth place and lost the services of Catcher Lee, who was spiked.

TURK-NASH MOTORS WIN FROM SALEM CLUB

Navy-Washington Dominate Annual Collegiate Race

By Davis J. Walsh.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28.—Headed toward the championship of a domain where the oarsman is king and the blade his trusted servant, the varsity crews of eight universities will turn krum's elbow into a welter of eddies and spume late this afternoon as they start on the first of four, fearsome miles to the goal of their heart's desire. It will be a spectacle such as the field of college rowing has not known before in all the years that men have punished themselves beyond endurance that a great sport might thrive.

Never before have as many as eight varsities appeared in a single track. Never in the past has Poughkeepsie summoned a representation from so many sections, far west, northwest, middle west, north, east and near-south. Never has this up-river town seen so many people at once and the same time. Probably 75,000 will see the big race.

Nineteen Crews on Program.

The record field in the varsity event has served to make of the entire regatta an occasion without parallel or precedent. Ninteen crews, in all, will start in the three races on the program and, before it is completed they will have had a liquid field day.

According to the popular impression, only two of the eight varsities, Washington an dthe Navy, will have other than a nominal interest in the proceedings at the finish. The others, with the possible exception of Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, probably will be rowing for exercise only. They include Cornell, California, Syracuse and Columbus and, barring minor upsets, are likely to finish in that order.

The choice between Washington and the Navy will be a more difficult one, however.

Neither has lost a race this season. Neither has been worse than second at Poughkeepsie since 1921, the Navy's local record including three victories and one second and that of Washington two victories and two seconds. They were one-two last year, the Navy getting the decision in the last half mile.

Slight Odds on Middies.

A slight edge in the odds said the Middies would do it again today but that "Skyscraper Crew" of Washington's, averaging six feet three inches in height, happened to be an ideal four-mile combination and even the hardiest of forecasters hesitated about reading the huskies out of the race before it started.

As maters stood today, the Navy and Pennsylvania figured to go to the place at the outset, with Washington forced to play a waiting game owing to its low stroke and long "lay-back." Pennsylvania's light-eight was expected to crack along about the third mile, at which point the real race between Washington and the Navy was due for a decision. It will remain, then, for the huskies to prove whether they can catch the Navy.

Washington System Will Win.

Whether they do or not, the race was expected to be a triumph for the Washington system, with Bob Butler at the Navy, Fred Spuhn at Pennsylvania and Rusty Callow in charge of the Huskies.

Only two crews were supposed to have a chance to break through service against this combination. One of them was was Cornell, which was not regarded highly, in spite of its victory over California. The other was Wisconsin, one of the best looking crews on the river. If the Navy and Washington weren't so good, the Badgers Vail has yet to bring a really bad crew would be odds-on choices, for Dad to Poughkeepsie and this eight looks like one of his best. In 19 tries, Vail has placed his varsities second and third on 10 occasions. He probably will make it 11 today, unless Pennsylvania and Cornell produce more power in the final mile than they are suspected of having.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In the back swing the body, as any golfer can discern, winds up rather slowly when the back swing is made with a feeling of rhythm. At the top of the back swing the body has a feeling of being completely wound up, like a spring. This action should be reversed in the forward swing, so that at the ball the body punch goes into the ball just as the final winding up of the body took place in the back swing. The one is the reverse of the other. This action is lost when the player unwinds his body too quickly in the forward swing. Don't jump at the ball with the body when you hit. Let the action be slow and even.

Walter Beall, of the Yankees, again demonstrated his class by taming the Red Sox, 7 to 1, holding the Sox to five hits and fanning nine. Ruth and Lazzeri, the home run twins, put on their specialty, Babe's being his 25th and Tony's his 11th.

ELKS COUNTED OUT IN EIGHTH

Batch of Bingles Produce Four Runs and Victory.

TURK-NASH MOTORS defeated Salem Elks yesterday at Kelley Park, Leetonia, 6 to 4, after staging a whirlwind attack in the eighth inning that produced four runs and enabled them to overcome the one-run margin the Quaker City nine had established earlier in the game.

Effective hitting and sensational fielding marked the battle. Salem scored in the first on Fisher's walk and hits by Smith and Scullion and added two more in the fourth on singles by Lipe and Sartick and a triple by Sanders. Sanders, subsequently, was run down when Rafferty went out to Pollock and the Turk-Nash first baseman tossed to Kunzler and Kunzler relayed to Simcox at third to catch the Salemite off the sack.

The East Liverpool club scored in the fifth on Mundy's double and Bucher's single and added another in the seventh on Simcox's double, an infield out and a bad throw to third by Catcher Smith.

Connect in Eighth.

The Motors clinched the game in the eighth after two had been retired. Singles by McConnell, A. Bayley and Simcox, a double by Finley and a long single by Pollock produced the quartet of counters.

Smith banged out a home run for the Elks in the last of the eighth, but it proved to be the dying gasp of the losers. Bucher weakened in the ninth and P. Sanders and A. Sanders hit successfully. Barton, a left-hander, stepped to the plate and Pollock was waved to the mound, Mundy to first and Jennings to right. Barton flew to A. Bayley and Jennings then supplanted Pollock. The side was retired without a run.

The batting of Simcox, A. Bayley, Smith, Sanders and Sartick and the fielding of Pollock, Kunzler, Johnson, Scullion and Fisher were bright spots in the day's game.

Ruth Two Homers Behind Record

NEW YORK, June 28. — Babe Ruth has almost caught up with his 1921 home run record. His twenty-fifth home run, made against the Red Sox yesterday, puts him two homers and three games behind the record.

Tony Lazzeri, the Yankees' slugging second baseman, hit his eleventh homer yesterday. No other player in either of the big leagues, except Ruth, has more than ten.

Connie Calls Boy Who Fanned 105 Men in 8 Games

John "Hip" Evers, 18 year old Jersey City prep-school pitcher went direct from his graduation exercise at St. Peter's Prep School to call on Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, who had asked for a chance to view the boy's work. He has a record of striking out 105 batters in 8 games.

H. S. RUSSELL GOLF WINNER

Finishes Saturday Club Event Four Down Against Par.

With their interest centered chiefly on the course at Westwood Country club, Cleveland, where Joe Wells was battling it out with Parker Campbell, of Toledo, for the state title, local golfers found it difficult to concentrate on their game at the local club Saturday.

The day's event consisted of 18 holes match play against par under three-quarters handicap for the T. Bert Kerr trophy.

Harry Russell, shooting in fine form, led the field at the windup, with a card of four down against par. T. E. Lewis followed him, six down.

ARMLESS DRIVER PLANS LONG TRIP

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 28.—Wilbur Baldwin, 21, armless auto racer of Roseville, announced today that he is perfecting plans for a non-stop drive across the continent in an attempt to break the transcontinental record.

Baldwin, who lost both arms in a railroad accident several years ago, has just completed a trip across the continent and back to pick out his route. He pilots his machine with artificial arms. On his last trip, Baldwin covered 7,800 miles.

McKechnie Plans Drastic Steps to Shake Up Pirates

Make Offer for Joe Bush and Ask Waivers on Bigbee.

PITTSBURGH, June 28.—The home port of the tottering Pirate sloop today heard that drastic steps will be taken at once by Manager Bill McKechnie to correct the faults of the world champions who have lost four games and tied one in their last five starts.

Barney Dryfuss president of the Pirates, is in Europe, but other officials will spare no expense necessary to putting the team into championship form, it was made plain at club headquarters.

Negotiations are under way for the addition of "bullet" Joe Bush, veteran American league hurler to the crumbling pitching staff, it was learned, and it was reported from apparently reliable sources that waivers have been asked on Carson Bigbee, outfielder to make room for a new pitcher.

Johnny Rawlings will hold down second base for the present, it was reported, replacing Hal Rhyne, former Pacifist coast star. "Pie" Traynor, regular third baseman, will be seen at short until Glenn Wright, ill in a local hospital, is able to return to the line-up.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.

DR. COPELAND

NO matter how fair and even white a skin may be there is always more or less pigmentation. Of course, just how much there is, depends on the type of person. The olive-complexioned persons vary from the light olive color to very pronounced darkness of skin. But even the lightest blondes have a peculiar pinkness of the skin.

There is an abnormal condition which is conspicuous by reason of the entire absence of pigmentation in spots. The patches vary in size from a fraction of an inch to a place big as your hand. The white surfaces are made more striking by their contrast with the dark-colored margins.

Even the hair on the patch is white as snow. Very dark persons, including negroes, may develop this condition. Indeed it is more common in the dark races than in whites.

Just why the skin pigment should disappear is not understood. Shock is given as one cause. This is on the same theory, I suppose, that some great emotion or shock is said to be capable of turning the hair white overnight. I have always viewed with suspicion this popular idea, but perhaps it has some basis of fact.

Certain diseases have their possible effect, but in the last analysis, this must be set down as one of the little understood ailments. Some toxic condition of the system may be at fault.

The backs of the hands are the favorite location of leucodermia. Perhaps you know somebody who has great big white "freckles" on the hands. You have wondered what it was.

The arms, the neck and face may be affected. Sometimes the body and legs are involved.

There is almost nothing to do for the trouble, which after all is no more trouble one than to look bad. The chief interest in leucodermia is that it mars the beauty.

Lotions of mercury have been tried with good effects in some cases. Bleaching the surrounding discolored area with lemon juice and peroxide of hydrogen may render the spots less conspicuous.

In the Summer time when the rest of the skin is tanned, the patches are more noticeable. In such cases the white spot can be tinted with permanganate of potash solution or diluted walnut juice.

There is no significance in the presence of vitiligo and there is nothing to worry about except the looks.

Boy Is Hero at Swimmin' Hole

Central Press Photos

BARTHELMESS AT AMERICAN

Dorothy Gish Has Sweetheart Role in New Picture.

Mr. Barthelmess plays an Italian boy of the East Side of Manhattan. The boy, Tony Gillardi, is an idealist and dreamer, making a precarious living selling flowers in the crowded streets of the slums. "The Beautiful City," which is based upon an original story by Edmund Goulding, points the moral that we can achieve the beautiful if we but believe that it exists about us. Tony Gillardi comes to see the beauty of a great city and he finds success and happiness.

Mr. Barthelmess' Tony Gillardi is another demonstration of the tremendous versatility of this able young star. Since he achieved stardom, Mr. Barthelmess has sought to play a different type of role in each new picture. The idealistic young Italian will be a distinct step from Mr. Barthelmess' brash, happy-go-lucky gob in "Shore Leave," and from his Eric Fane, the composer broken on the wheel of fate in "Soul-Fire." It has striking acting opportunities which should place it among Mr. Barthelmess' best celluloid characterizations. Indeed, it should afford fresh proof that Mr. Barthelmess is at the forefront of the young actors of the films.

Ship Has Nine Decks.

Recently the "Ile de France" was launched in France and when completed will be one of the biggest vessels of her type afloat. She will have nine decks or about the height of a twelve story building. The "Ile de France, in her martine enterprise, has gone in for elegance and comfort in her passenger ships.

Movies Furnish Further Fame For Aging Or Retiring Athletes

Suzanne Lenglen's Film Contract Calls Attention to Long Lists of Athletic Stars Who Turn to Pictures.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Suzanne Lenglen, the incomparable French net star, will arrive in southern California in October for the filming of a movie drama based upon her reputation and skill on the tennis court.

Suzanne's ballet leaps and backhand drives are under contract to C. C. Pyle, the manager of Harold "Red" Grange, former Illinois gridiron star. Pyle press-agented Grange into a professional football fortune and a movie career. He hopes to do as much for Suzanne and C. C. Pyle.

Suzanne, Grange and Charley Paddock, champion sprinter, are recent additions to a list of champions and near- champions who have blinked in the glare of the klieg.

The lure of the movies brought Jack Dempsey a Grecian profile and an actress wife. Gene Tunney, leading white contender for the heavyweight boxing title, whiled away several tedious weeks by acting in the films this summer.

In Old Ironsides.

George Godfrey, "the black shadow of Lieperville," a collapsible challenger of the heavyweight title, assisted Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian, swimming ace, in portraying Tripolitan pirates in James Cruze's $2,000,000 production, "Old Ironsides."

Tom Kennedy, once an aspirant for the world's heavyweight boxing title, is a fixture on the Paramount lot.

Other boxers who passed into pictures when they passed out of the ring are Tommy Ryan, welterweight and middleweight boxing champion of many years ago; Kid McCoy, light heavy weight contender; Al Kauffmann, who fought Jack Johnson in a no-decision contest when "Li'l Atha" was in his prime; Benny Leonard, resigned lightweight champion; Jim Corbett, and Jim Jeffries, both former heavyweight champions.

The boxers, as the movie people say, seem to have "it" more than athletes in other sports, but there is a scattered representation in the films of nearly all branches of athletic endeavor.

Babe Ruth knocked 'em out of the lot for the edification of movie audiences three or four years ago, and "Irish" Meusel and "Long George" Kelly were leading men in a baseball drama filmed when the Giants played in the Orient.

Tilden's Efforts.

Bill Tilden "aced" tennis opponents right and left to win the love of his movie heroine, and Lefty Flynn, former Yale halfback, not only won movie football games but he also won the heart and hand of Viola Dana. They're really married.

Fred Kelly, former holder of the record for the high hurdles and Fred Thompson, former world's champion all-around athlete, are the leading representatives of track athletics in the films although there was considerable talk recently of the impending entry of Charley Hoff, Norwegian pole vaulter, into the make-believe industry. It was rumored here, however, that his suspension by the A. A. U. nipped the budding negotiations.

In the old days the champions and near-champions "couldn't come back" when they passed their prime. But this is no longer true. They do come back nowadays—in the movies. Formerly they passed out of the picture when they were through. Now they pass into it.

Hudson River Being Restocked With Shad By State of New York

ALBANY, N. Y.—Two million shad fry have been planted in the Hudson river this year, the Conservation Commission announced today. This is nearly a million more than were planted during the 1925 season.

For several years the commission has been trying to restock the Hudson with shad.

"Modern manufacturing conditions and various other causes have contributed to lessening the take of shad in the Hudson river, but continuous annual restocking should serve at least to keep the shad within reach of all and to prevent the gradual diminution of a favorite food fish which is so intimately identified with the Hudson river."

By a new royal order the use of radio by vessels in Spanish territorial waters is prohibited.

Connecticut Paper To Publish Names Of Drunken Drivers

HARTFORD, Conn. — Every person who is convicted in a Connecticut court of operating his motor car while he is under the influence of liquor, gets his name published in every daily newspaper in the state.

Such lists are supplied weekly by the state motor vehicle department "as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace," and the editors use the list without exception with the address of the person convicted whether he is a resident of the state or not.

Readers are asked with each publication to notify the nearest police department if they see any of the persons named operating cars. With every conviction the driver's license is suspended for one year.

Change is Permanent.
New Thought is Scarce.
Is Marriage Fading?
Preparing to Live.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co

SOMEONE suggested to Henry Ford that the automobile eventually would be mechanically perfect and beyond improvement. Ford's excellent reply was, "No, there is nothing permanent in the world except change."

The German poet put it: "Nichts is dauernd als der wechsel, nichts bestaending alse der tod." Only change is enduring, only death is permanent.

Every positive statement is dangerous. A wise agnostic said: "I affirm nothing, not even that I affirm nothing."

Twice two are four, no matter what Einstein may say, later on. Two right angles equal any triangle. No change there. And death is no more "permanent" than tomorrow. It is only another day. Ford says: "I am optimistic, because I believe people generally know what is wrong." That is wisdom and original.

THE International New Thought Alliance, with ten thousand delegates, held its thirteenth annual convention in New York. Nothing more important than new thought, all progress comes of it. Nothing more common than the hallucination that we are thinking a new way. Nothing more rare than a thought really new.

Our thought grows out of the old thoughts as forests grow out of dead trees. An old thought surprises us, we think it new. The patent office is bothered by geniuses seeking to patent old ideas.

A real new thought is known by the unanimity with which it is rejected. When 10,000 can discuss new thought and not tear each other's hair you may be sure thought is old.

ARE you for or against abolishing marriage? Some think marriage survives, largely because of what he calls "the impudent intolerance of our intellectually and morally discredited religious organizations."

Marriage and religion are both "fading out," according to H. G. Wells and others, sincere, but not acquainted with the mind of man.

Marriage and religion are only starting. It took more than 100,000 years to cure men of cannibalism. It will take as long to cure them of promiscuity in family life, and of superstition, bigotry, cruelty and intollerance in religion. But there is plenty of time.

This world will last more than 100,000,000 years longer, according to science. When Wells reappears, with a different shape and brain, say 100,000 years hence, a suggestion that marriage be abolished will sound as preposterous as suggestion to restore cannibalism, torture of witnesses or burning alive for differences in religion.

The one-tenth of one per cent that is good in man is religious and monogamous, and that tenth of one per cent will grow to 100 per cent with time.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART, in an article published recently, said a wise thing, to which rushing, nervous Americans should pay attention: "Preparing always to live, we wear our-

MAYOR BENEDUM'S VETO LOOMS AS CITY SOLONS LIFT BAN ON FIREWORKS

Municipal Legislators, by Vote of 6 to 1, Back Pedal on Enactment at Special Session.

FARRALL ALONE OPPOSES PLAN

Measure Goes to Executive Who Says he Will Turn Thumbs Down on Proposal.

By a vote of 6 to 1, city council, at a special meeting Saturday night, enacted legislation on three readings calling for the repeal of the ordinance, passed last February, which prohibits the use of fireworks within the corporate limits.

Solon Thomas Farrall, who sponsored the "safe and sane Fourth" measure earlier in the year, was the lone opponent of the repealer, which contains an emergency clause.

Ordinance Goes to Mayor.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum intimated today that he will veto the ordinance but announced that he would take a greater part of the 10-day limit permitted by law. This will prevent passage of the ordinance over his veto before Independence Day.

The ordinance was sent to the mayor late Saturday night. He has until Tuesday, July 6, in which to sign,

GARY, Ind., June 28.—A quarter million dollars worth of property is in ruins here today as the result of a small boy's adventures with a toy machine gun.

The flames spread quickly, and before they could be brought under control, damage estimated at $260,000 had been done.

Wellsville Auto Driver Fined $50, License Suspended

Edward Grimes, Wellsville, was in jail today in default of a fine of $50 assessed by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today after he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. His automobile license was also suspended for a period of 30 days.

Grimes was arrested in Jethro at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Captain Mason Conley.

Gasoline-Soaked Shirt Torches Signal Vessel.

HURON, O., June 28.—After drifting helplessly for 10 hours in Lake Erie in a leaking speed boat, four prominent Cleveland residents were rescued early today by the steamer William G. Mather which saw their distress signals. The men in the party soaked their shirts in gasoline and used them as torches to attract the ship's attention.

The party which was saved just as the boat was about to go down consisted of Mark Zettlemeyer, president of the Zettlemeyer Coal company, and his wife; Miss Helen Jaeger and Richard Kroesen, president of the Cleveland Sport Goods company.

Mrs. Zettlemeyer formerly was Miss Dotie Wilson of the Ziegfeld Follies.

Party Lands at Huron.

The party was landed here at 6 a. m. today by the rescuing steamer. All four were near collapse after their experience.

Zettlemeyer stated that the party left Cleveland early Sunday morning for Put-in-Bay in his speed boat, "Mark." On the return trip when about 10 miles out in the lake, the gasoline supply failed. A brisk breeze began blowing from the shore and the boat drifted further out into the lake.

"The boat began to leak and we had to bail out the water for our lives," Kroesen told Captain A. C. Anderson of the steamer Mather.

Kroesen said there were a few drops of gasoline left in the tank and they dipped their shirts in it, and using them as torches waved them when the lights of the Mather showed up.

NURSE SLAYS BACHELOR, THEN KILLS HERSELF

Chicago Authorities Seek Motive in Double Tragedy.

WOMAN 30, MAN 50

Bodies Found Side by Side in Lake Forest Home.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Authorities today were seeking the motive that prompted Nora Renwick, 30 year-old nurse, to kill Norman Hewitt, member of a prominent Lake Forest family, and then take her own life.

The bodies were found side by side late yesterday in the Hewitt home. A revolver, clutched in the hand of Miss Renwick, had snuffed out both lives.

Hewitt, a 50-year-old bachelor, was a cousin of Scott Durand, millionaire sportsman. Miss Renwick, as a nurse, had formerly attended Hewitt's aged mother.

Alfred Hopman, Lake Forest chief of police, visited both homes, Miss Renwick's and Hewitt's, in search of documents or correspondence that might throw light on the tragedy. Newspaper clippings among the nurse's effects hinted at a blighted romance. One of these read:

"Man's love is of a man's life, a thing apart; 'tis woman's whole existence."

A housekeeper in the Hewitt home discovered the bodies. She declared she had heard no shooting and had

BRICKLAYER GIVES LIFE IN OHIO RIVER AS GIRL IS SAVED

FIREMEN CALLED

Miss Irene Kibble is Resuscitated at Hospital.

Thomas Tackett, 22, Railroad street bricklayer, was drowned in the Ohio river near the old power house at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an attempt to rescue Miss Irene Kibble, 21, 614 John street, who became exhausted while swimming to the Ohio shore from Babb's island.

Girl Calls for Help.

The girl, saved by a witness, was removed to the City hospital, where she was resuscitated by Dr. R. J. Marshal. She was recovering at the hospital today from her experience.

Tackett's body was recovered in about 20 feet of water about half an hour after he disappeared when Cornelius McFadden, one of the searchers caught his clothing with a grappling hook. Efforts to resuscitate him with the use of a pulmoter were futile.

Miss Kibble and two or three other companions whose names could not be learned had been bathing on the sandy beach at the lower part of the island. Leaving her companions on the island, Miss Kibble started across to the Ohio shore. When within about 50 feet of the shore, witnesses say, the girl began to struggle in the water and called for help.

McFadden Recovers Body.

Tackett was standing along the River Road, when he heard the girl's screams. He discarded his hat and coat and plunged into the water. As he neared the young woman, he sank and failed to come up.

Another young man, who was not

Heart Disease Claims George Heaton, 79, Leetonia.

George Heaton, 79, farmer, was found dead by his wife on the floor of a barn near his home, two miles south of Leetonia, on the Leetonia-Lisbon road, at 7:15 o'clock Saturday evening. Heart disease, from which he had suffered, is believed to have caused his death.

Mr. Heaton, a Civil war veteran, was born near Leetonia on January 30, 1847, a son of Daniel and Catherine Heaton. His first wife was Mary Cope, also of the Leetonia district. Twenty-six years ago he married Mrs. Ida Harris, who with two daughters by his first marriage, Mrs. Uriah Zimmerman and Mrs. Morris Brinker, both of the Leetonia district, survive. He is also survived by one brother, John of Leetonia, three grand children and one great grand child.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows' lodge.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the home in charge of the Rev. T. W. Beaver of the Reformed church of Leetonia. Burial will be made in Oakdale cemetery, Leetonia.

'PROVEN PUDDING,' BY SAMUEL MERWIN, STORY OF THREE MODERN, INDEPENDENT GIRLS, WHO ARE GREENWICH VILLAGERS

CHAPTER ONE.

Bee ran up the subway stairs. She always ran up. She was amusing to look at, an extremely small young-appearing person, definite, even positive, in every movement, in the poise of her pretty head and the quick, firm activity of her trim body. The face that peeped out through an encroaching triangle of fur collar and hat brim was freshly, crisply vigorous, with a snap in the brown-black eyes and unmistakable signs of determination in the slight, attractive fullness of the mouth. Bee's only weak feature, as she knew, knew only too well, was her nose. That turned up. It suggested humor, even delightfully, mischief, but hardly strength. And she did want to be strong. She was determined to be strong.

She emerged from the stairway on the curbed-in island that lies out nearly in the middle of Sheridan Square. It was mild for March. The afternoon sunlight slanted down through the tangled westerly streets warming the built-over studio fronts of Grove street, and lighting brightly the quaint and aged green-painted house at the farther end of Washington Place. She stood a moment, breathing in the pleasant brisk air that had, in this wide, irregular area, something of the real outdoors in it, a sense of space, almost a tang.

Across the way stood the Greenwich Village theatre, that extremely modern structure in patterned brick. The question was, should she go there directly or step, first, over to the rooms. She glanced at her watch—all of half an hour—and decided on the rooms.

Picking her way between trucks, she made the farther curb and passed under the iron archway. A young woman sat alone, gazing wide-eyed out at the sunlit square, an old black suitcase at her feet. Bee's quick eyes half took her in—an attractive oval of face (hazily familiar, that face), dressed not quite smartly, not New York, not suburban, not Western; probably New England, rather quaintly New England—yes, on her lap, of all things, clutched in two frail, ungloved hands, one of those shapeless little grips of soft leather with two handles but no lock or clasp, known as a Boston bag! Surprise jostled memory. Bee stopped in her tracks; looked fully. The girl was rising.

"Not Delia?"

"Oh, Bee!"

"What on earth—"

"Well." The girl sank down again on the bench, her great wistful blue eyes fixed on the smart little person before her.

Change is Permanent.
New Thought is Scarce.
Is Marriage Fading?
Preparing to Live.

SOMEONE suggested to Henry Ford that the automobile eventually would be mechanically perfect and beyond improvement. Ford's excellent reply was, "No, there is nothing permanent in the world except change."

The German poet put it: "Nichts is dauernd als der wechsel, nichts bestaending alse der tod." Only change is enduring, only death is permanent.

Every positive statement is dangerous. A wise agnostic said: "I affirm nothing, not even that I affirm nothing."

Twice two are four, no matter what Einstein may say, later on. Two right angles equal any triangle. No change there. And death is no more "permanent" than tomorrow. It is only another day. Ford says: "I am optimistic, because I believe people generally know what is wrong." That is wisdom and original.

THE International New Thought Alliance, with ten thousand delegates, held its thirteenth annual convention in New York. Nothing more important than new thought, all progress comes of it. Nothing more common than the hallucination that we are thinking a new way. Nothing more rare than a thought really new.

Our thought grows out of the old thoughts as forests grow out of dead trees. An old thought surprises us, we think it new. The patent office is bothered by geniuses seeking to patent old ideas.

A real new thought is known by the unanimity with which it is rejected. When 10,000 can discuss new thought and not tear each other's hair you may be sure thought is old.

ARE you for or against abolishing marriage? Some think marriage survives, largely because of what he calls "the impudent intolerance of our intellectually and morally discredited religious organizations."

Marriage and religion are both "fading out," according to H. G. Wells and others, sincere, but not acquainted with the mind of man.

Marriage and religion are only starting. It took more than 100,000 years to cure men of cannibalism. It will take as long to cure them of promiscuity in family life, and of superstition, bigotry, cruelty and intolerance in religion. But there is plenty of time.

This world will last more than 100,000,000 years longer, according to science. When Wells reappears, with a different shape and brain, say 100,000 years hence, a suggestion that marriage be abolished will sound as preposterous as suggestion to restore cannibalism, torture of witnesses or burning alive for differences in religion.

The one-tenth of one per cent that is good in man is religious and monogamous, and that tenth of one per cent will grow to 100 per cent with time.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART, in an article published recently, said a wise thing, to which rushing, nervous Americans should pay attention: "Preparing always to live, we wear our-

GARY, Ind., June 28.—A quarter million dollars worth of property is in ruins here today as the result of a small boy's adventures with a toy machine gun.

The boy, with several companions, was wandering around the basement of the "Tribe of K" store, one of the City's largest mercantile establishments. They spotted a pile of Fourth of July fireworks. One youth began toying with a miniature machine gun. Sparks set the fireworks to popping.

The flames spread quickly, and before they could be brought under control, damage estimated at $260,000 had been done.

Measure Goes to Executive Who Says he Will Turn Thumbs Down on Proposal.

By a vote of 6 to 1, city council, at a special meeting Saturday night, enacted legislation on three readings calling for the repeal of the ordinance, passed last February, which prohibits the use of fireworks within the corporate limits.

Solon Thomas Farrall, who sponsored the "safe and sane Fourth" measure earlier in the year, was the lone opponent of the repealer, which contains an emergency clause.

Ordinance Goes to Mayor.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum intimated today that he will veto the ordinance but announced that he would take a greater part of the 10-day limit permitted by law. This will prevent passage of the ordinance over his veto before Independence Day.

The ordinance was sent to the mayor late Saturday night. He has until Tuesday, July 6, in which to sign,

Gasoline-Soaked Shirt Torches Signal Vessel.

HURON, O., June 28.—After drifting helplessly for 10 hours in Lake Erie in a leaking speed boat, four prominent Cleveland residents were rescued early today by the steamer William G. Mather which saw their distress signals. The men in the party soaked their shirts in gasoline and used them as torches to attract the ship's attention.

The party which was saved just as the boat was about to go down consisted of Mark Zettlemeyer, president of the Zettlemeyer Coal company, and his wife; Miss Helen Jaeger and Richard Kroesen, president of the Cleveland Sport Goods company.

Mrs. Zettlemeyer formerly was Miss Dotie Wilson of the Ziegfeld Follies.

Party Lands at Huron.

The party was landed here at 6 a. m. today by the rescuing steamer. All four were near collapse after their experience.

Zettlemeyer stated that the party left Cleveland early Sunday morning for Put-in-Bay in his speed boat, "Mark." On the return trip when about 10 miles out in the lake, the gasoline supply failed. A brisk breeze began blowing from the shore and the boat drifted further out into the lake.

"The boat began to leak and we had to bail out the water for our lives," Kroesen told Captain A. C. Anderson of the steamer Mather.

Kroesen said there were a few drops of gasoline left in the tank and they dipped their shirts in it, and using them as torches waved them when the lights of the Mather showed up.

NURSE SLAYS BACHELOR, THEN KILLS HERSELF

Chicago Authorities Seek Motive in Double Tragedy.

WOMAN 30, MAN 50

Bodies Found Side by Side in Lake Forest Home.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Authorities today were seeking the motive that prompted Nora Renwick, 30 year-old nurse, to kill Norman Hewitt, member of a prominent Lake Forest family, and then take her own life.

The bodies were found side by side late yesterday in the Hewitt home. A revolver, clutched in the hand of Miss Renwick, had snuffed out both lives.

Hewitt, a 50-year-old bachelor, was a cousin of Scott Durand, millionaire sportsman. Miss Renwick, as a nurse, had formerly attended Hewitt's aged mother.

Alfred Hopman, Lake Forest chief of police, visited both homes, Miss Renwick's and Hewitt's, in search of documents or correspondence that might throw light on the tragedy. Newspaper clippings among the nurse's effects hinted at a blighted romance. One of these read:

"Man's love is of a man's life, a thing apart; 'tis woman's whole existence."

A housekeeper in the Hewitt home discovered the bodies. She declared she had heard no shooting and had

BRICKLAYER GIVES LIFE IN OHIO RIVER AS GIRL IS SAVED

FIREMEN CALLED

Miss Irene Kibble is Resuscitated at Hospital.

Thomas Tackett, 22, Railroad street bricklayer, was drowned in the Ohio river near the old power house at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an attempt to rescue Miss Irene Kibble, 21, 614 John street, who became exhausted while swimming to the Ohio shore from Babb's island.

Girl Calls for Help.

The girl, saved by a witness, was removed to the City hospital, where she was resuscitated by Dr. R. J. Marshal. She was recovering at the hospital today from her experience.

Tackett's body was recovered in about 20 feet of water about half an hour after he disappeared, when Constable McFadden, one of the searchers, dragged the clothing with a grappling hook. Efforts to resuscitate him with the use of a pulmoter were futile.

Miss Kibble and two or three other companions whose names could not be learned had been bathing on the sandy beach at the lower part of the island. Leaving her companions on the island, Miss Kibble started across to the Ohio shore. When within about 50 feet of the shore, witnesses say, the girl began to struggle in the water and called for help.

McFadden Recovers Body.

Tackett was standing along the River Road, when he heard the girl's screams. He discarded his hat and coat and plunged into the water. As he neared the young woman, he sank and failed to come up.

Drunkenness, Inefficiency Charged Against Hurd In Removal Order

Mayor, Differing With Attorney General Crabbe on Previous Ruling, Files Papers As Matter of Precaution.

Charges against Harry F. Hurd, former local patrolman who was removed from the force recently following a month's suspension, were filed today with the Wellsville civil service commission by Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Accompanying the charges was an order of removal by Mayor Fogo, which read as follows: "You are hereby removed from office as patrolman of Wellsville, Ohio, on grounds and for the reasons which accompany this order, duly certified to the civil service commission of Wellsville, Ohio."

Hurd is charged, first, with inefficiency and gross neglect of duty, and failure of good behavior and other reasonable causes.

Second: Drunkenness.

In a notation at the close of the charges, Mayor Fogo points out that the "above order of removal is not made for any religious or political opinion or affiliation of said Harry F. Hurd."

Filing of the charges followed an exchange of communications between Mayor Fogo and the state civil service commission as a result of the state body's ruling that Hurd was entitled to pay until the present time, and that he was not expected to know that the Wellsville civil service commission was not legally constituted as charged by the defendant's attorneys, Ben L. Bennett, Frank E. Grossbans and W. A. O'Grady.

"I am not conceding anything and I still differ with Attorney General Crabbe in several points of his ruling to the state civil service commission," asserted Mayor Fogo today, "but I am filing these charges as a matter of precaution against any unexpected development."

Hurd, in his appeal to the state civil service commission, contended that he was under civil service regulations and, consequently, could not be removed except upon charges by the mayor.

Although he has filed the charges, Mayor Fogo asserts he doesn't concede the point, maintaining that the deposed patrolman is not under civil service regulations, and therefore it is not necessary to list counts against Hurd.

The charges were filed with Hurd Saturday night by Mayor Fogo personally.

Hurd has been reporting for duty at 6 o'clock at the city hall since the state civil service ruling, as he did before his suspension and removal.

The deposed officer has not announced whether he will ask a hearing before the Wellsville civil service commission.

HISTORIC SITE NOW PLAYGROUND

On the little reservation where the children of Logan, the Mingo chief, were slain by the pioneer whites, the children of Toronto this summer and in the summers to come will play and work and seek strength and health.

Up Yellow creek, between Toronto and Wellsville, back a little way from the bluffs overlooking the Ohio river and the West Virginia panhandle, 100 acres, surrounding the site of the ill-fated Indian chief's dwelling, have been taken over by the Kiwanis club for the children of Toronto.

Guy Johnson of Toronto purchased the land and designated it for that purpose. One of the most important objectives of the project will be to afford recreation to under-privileged children of the industrial region known as "the Ruhr of America."

Logan's family, it will be remembered, was murdered in the early days of Ohio's history. It was the bitterness in the chief's heart that inspired his immortal speech, said to have been delivered later under the Logan Elm near Circleville.

"FIRE" IS ONLY OVERDONE ROAST

Observing smoke pouring out of a window of a home at Eighteenth and Nevada streets yesterday afternoon, neighbors, suspecting a fire, turned in an alarm to Central station here and brought out the entire department.

The firemen found, however, that the smoke was coming from an overdone roast of meat in the kitchen stove.

The Thing To Do

To make your jams and jellies perfect every time

By Elizabeth Palmer

The old, anxious days of kettle watching and speculating on what "luck" you will have with your jam or with your jelly, are over.

Now even an inexperienced cook can be absolutely sure of success every time. For the new, shortboil method with Certo never fails. You just bring your fruit and sugar to a boil, add Certo, boil it a minute or two, and it's done—ready to skim, pour and seal.

And the beauty of it is that this short boiling time saves the color and flavor of your fresh fruit, so that your jams and jellies look better and taste better. Besides, since you do not boil the juice away, you get so much more jam or jelly from your fruit that you save two cents or more on every glass.

With each bottle of Certo comes a book of recipes for your favorite jams and jellies and some delicious new ones! Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Turk-Nash, Chester and Victory Motors Billed.

The Wellsville club of the City Industrial baseball league will finish the first half of the season's schedule by playing three games this week.

Tonight at Patterson Field, East Liverpool, they will take on the Turk-Nash nine; on Thursday they will play Chester, last year's champions, and on Friday will tackle Victory Motors in a postponed engagement.

Thursday's tilt was originally scheduled at Chester but as a result of the fact that a recent Central park game with Chester was transferred to Smith Field, this week's bout was moved to Wellsville.

Announcing that receipts on the local lot have been unusually small, something like $2.40 being taken in for Chester's last appearance here, Manager Pearch has asked for a big crowd for Thursday's game with the champs.

Drunkenness, Inefficiency Charged Against Hurd In Removal Order

Mayor, Differing With Attorney General Crabbe on Previous Ruling, Files Papers As Matter of Precaution.

Charges against Harry F. Hurd, former local patrolman who was removed from the force recently following a month's suspension, were filed today with the Wellsville civil service commission by Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Accompanying the charges was an order of removal by Mayor Fogo, which read as follows: "You are hereby removed from office as patrolman of Wellsville, Ohio, on grounds and for the reasons which accompany this order, duly certified to the civil service commission of Wellsville, Ohio."

Hurd is charged, first, with inefficiency and gross neglect of duty, and failure of good behavior and other reasonable causes.

Second: Drunkenness.

In a notation at the close of the charges, Mayor Fogo points out that the "above order of removal is not made for any religious or political opinion or affiliation of said Harry F. Hurd."

Filing of the charges followed an exchange of communications between Mayor Fogo and the state civil service commission as a result of the state body's ruling that Hurd was entitled to pay until the present time, and that he was not expected to know that the Wellsville civil service commission was not legally constituted as charged by the defendant's attorneys, Ben L. Bennett, Frank E. Grossbans and W. A. O'Grady.

"I am not conceding anything and I still differ with Attorney General Crabbe in several points of his ruling to the state civil service commission," asserted Mayor Fogo today, "but I am filing these charges as a matter of precaution against any unexpected development."

Hurd, in his appeal to the state civil service commission, contended that he was under civil service regulations and, consequently, could not be removed except upon charges by the mayor.

Although he has filed the charges, Mayor Fogo asserts he doesn't concede the point, maintaining that the deposed patrolman is not under civil service regulations, and therefore it is not necessary to list counts against Hurd.

The charges were filed with Hurd Saturday night by Mayor Fogo personally.

Hurd has been reporting for duty at 6 o'clock at the city hall since the state civil service ruling, as he did before his suspension and removal.

The deposed officer has not announced whether he will ask a hearing before the Wellsville civil service commission.

HISTORIC SITE NOW PLAYGROUND

On the little reservation where the children of Logan, the Mingo chief, were slain by the pioneer whites, the children of Toronto this summer and in the summers to come will play and work and seek strength and health.

Up Yellow creek, between Toronto and Wellsville, back a little way from the bluffs overlooking the Ohio river and the West Virginia panhandle, 100 acres, surrounding the site of the ill-fated Indian chief's dwelling, have been taken over by the Kiwanis club for the children of Toronto.

Guy Johnson of Toronto purchased the land and designated it for that purpose. One of the most important objectives of the project will be to afford recreation to under-privileged children of the industrial region known as "the Ruhr of America."

Logan's family, it will be remembered, was murdered in the early days of Ohio's history. It was the bitterness in the chief's heart that inspired his immortal speech, said to have been delivered later under the Logan Elm near Circleville.

"FIRE" IS ONLY OVERDONE ROAST

Observing smoke pouring out of a window of a home at Eighteenth and Nevada streets yesterday afternoon, neighbors, suspecting a fire, turned in an alarm to Central station here and brought out the entire department. The firemen found, however, that the smoke was coming from an overdone roast of meat in the kitchen stove.

The Thing To Do

To make your jams and jellies perfect every time

By Elizabeth Palmer

The old, anxious days of kettle watching and speculating on what "luck" you will have with your jam or with your jelly, are over.

Now even an inexperienced cook can be absolutely sure of success every time. For the new, shortboil method with Certo never fails. You just bring your fruit and sugar to a boil, add Certo, boil it a minute or two, and it's done—ready to skim, pour and seal.

And the beauty of it is that this short boiling time saves the color and flavor of your fresh fruit, so that your jams and jellies look better and taste better. Besides, since you do not boil the juice away, you get so much more jam or jelly from your fruit that you save two cents or more on every glass.

With each bottle of Certo comes a book of recipes for your favorite jams and jellies and some delicious new ones! Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Film City Has $1,250,000,000 Invested In Picture Industry

The industry is the creation of Romance. The capital invested amounts to more than $1,250,000,000. This figure represents five-sixths of the total world investment in motion pictures, $1,500,000,000. Property investments in Hollywood, including land, studios, sets, stage properties, costumes and raw material, total $375,000,0000 according to surveys just completed.

The motion picture industry came to California about 16 years ago, a spindling child, with thousands invested in it where millions are invested now. From a toy amusement, scarcely taken seriously, it has became an American Colossus that girdles the world and pokes its way into dark corners where missionaries and traders have been the only previous contacts with white civilization.

More and more the industry is centering around Los Angeles. Today 85 per cent of all the pictures made in the United States are made here, 11 per cent in New York, and 4 per cent elsewhere.

Paramount, one of the largest producing organizations, has just completed the construction of a new studio at an outlay of $2,500,000, doubling its Hollywood capacity. The organization has just appropriated a $22,000,000 budget, beginning July 1, for the filming of 75 big pictures for the coming year—the largest amount ever spent on this number of films in the history of the business.

First National, which produces both in Hollywood and New York, has just completed a new $2,000,000 studio on the outskirts of Hollywood and will shift much of their eastern production to this studio, it is reported.

United Artists has just purchased the old Pickford-Fairbanks studio and is spending $1,000,000 in new stages and equipment. All United Artists pictures, with the exception of the Gloria Swanson productions, will be made in Hollywood. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Universal, Fox, DeMille, Warner Brothers and Metropolitan Pictures will make all their pictures in Hollywood or environs.

There are about 25,000 persons employed in the manufacture of motion pictures in Hollywood, the survey indicated, and weekly payrolls average between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. This does not include the salaries of stars and big featured players and directors, which roll up a tremendous weekly total. James Cruze, the director, for example, receives $6,000 a week; Wallace Beery and Ernest Torence $3,500 a week; Pola Negri $7,500 weekly and other star salaries are in proportion.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglected a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Q. Are brothers and sisters more blood relation to each other than to their mother and father? T. P.

A. The Eugenics Record Office of the Carnegie Institution says that brothers and sisters are more closely related than father and son, or mother and son. Biographically a father and son have one half common blood, while a brother and sister have all common blood. One contains with his half brother the same amount of common blood that he contains with his father.

Q. Do snakes inhabit cold countries? M. D.

A. Snakes are extremely sensitive to cold. Many of our common North American snakes do not range much farther north than the Canadian border. Others stay south of the Ohio River. The range of the garter snake is known to extend northward to the region around Great Slave lake and there are records of the appearance of this snake from the Yukon region. This snake has an exceptionally wide range.

A. The Publisher's Weekly says that Dickens is more widely read than Thackery, Eliot, and Scott put together. There are no figures as to totals.

Q. What is a "charter-party"? A. H.

A. A charter-party is the contract executed by the freighter and the master or owner of a ship, setting forth the terms upon which the ship is hired to freight.

LONDON, June 28.—Match this one if you can. It's today's best fish story.

A famous London hotel announces that American visitors enjoy eating trout from the Great Lakes in London. To insure the arrival of the fish in London in a fresh condition, the hotel announces, the fish are taken to Chicago from the lakes alive. Here they are put in tanks, the temperature of which is lowered until the fish are "frozen to sleep." Once the fish becomes asleep it is frozen in a block of ice. The ice-block is shipped to London, where it is gradually thawed. When the fish awakes, says the hotel announcement, it is put in a tank and swims about in English water until ready to be prepared for cooking.

Q. How old are clams when brought to market? M. B. F.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that the average clam seen on the market is between four and seven years old. The age of a clam is determined by the heavy ridges found on the shell. These ridges are usually one-quarter of an inch apart.

Q. Please tell when Jerusalem was destroyed? L. B.

A. The Babylonians reduced the City of Jerusalem in the year 586 B. C. Nebuchadnezzar demolished the walls and all principal houses, plundered and destroyed the temple, and carried away to Babylon all except the poorest citizens. Jerusalem remained in ruins for fifty years.

Q. How does the speed at which a movie camera is turned in shooting a picture affect the picture on the screen? A. P.

Q. What is the origin of the term dunce? H. A. S.

A. Dunce is a word introduced by the disciples of Thomas Aquinas in ridicule of the disciples of John Duns Scotus, who, although a man of subignorant or prejudiced at the time of the Reformation to be a man of little intellect, was held by the more vincible stupidity.

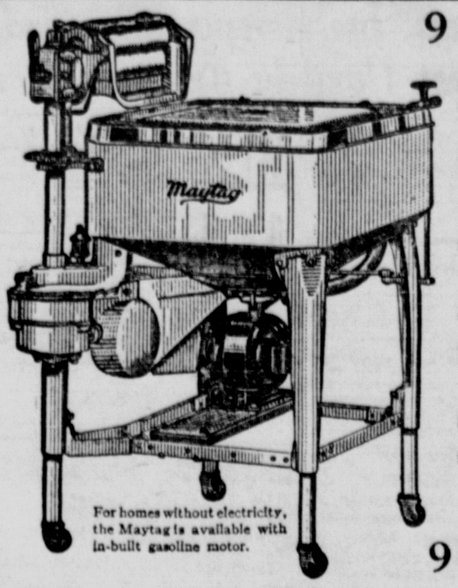

Q. Was Sir Francis Drake a pirate? W. R.

A. Many of the exploits of Drake were looked upon as piracies, but for the most part he had at least quasi-official sanction from his government for what he did.

Blazing the Electrical Trail

EVERY tower that supports the transmission lines of this company, is a monument to the vision of a few early leaders — the men who could see the future development of the infant electrical industry.

Electricity is now produced in wholesale quantities at a few large generating stations and shipped to its users over miles of wire. A vast network of high tension lines covers the country like a giant spider-web. Each line carries an unlimited supply of electric service to every city and village in its path.

We safeguard our streets, light our homes, do most of our housework electrically — with never a thought of those early pioneers who blazed the electrical trail for our comfort and convenience.

TROUBLED FOR YEARS WITH INDIGESTION

Mr. Allan Small, of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have always lived in fear of heart trouble—my father, as well as my mother's sister, died from this dreaded affliction when I was a child. As it was on both sides of my family and I had often heard it was hereditary, I lived in dread and fear

"As I have had at intervals severe abdominal pains, heart-burn and pressure on the heart, I felt there was no relief so I became reconciled to the horrible truth I was doomed, nothing could be done and must await my time to go as my father and mother's sister. I never dreamed I might only have intestinal indigestion, and my trouble was sour and acid stomach, causing gas pressure on the heart. Thanks to a friend who suggested Carter's Little Liver Pills as a remedy for faulty intestinal elimination, I am now free from the dreaded fear and enjoy all around good health. Film City Has $1,250,000,000 Invested In Picture Industry

The industry is the creation of Romance. The capital invested amounts to more than $1,250,000,000. This figure represents five-sixths of the total world investment in motion pictures, $1,500,000,000. Property investments in Hollywood, including land, studios, sets, stage properties, costumes and raw material, total $375,000,0000 according to surveys just completed.

The motion picture industry came to California about 16 years ago, a spindling child, with thousands invested in it where millions are invested now. From a toy amusement, scarcely taken seriously, it has became an American Colossus that girdles the world and pokes its way into dark corners where missionaries and traders have been the only previous contacts with white civilization.

More and more the industry is centering around Los Angeles. Today 85 per cent of all the pictures made in the United States are made here, 11 per cent in New York, and 4 per cent elsewhere.

Paramount, one of the largest producing organizations, has just completed the construction of a new studio at an outlay of $2,500,000, doubling its Hollywood capacity. The organization has just appropriated a $22,000,000 budget, beginning July 1, for the filming of 75 big pictures for the coming year—the largest amount ever spent on this number of films in the history of the business.

First National, which produces both in Hollywood and New York, has just completed a new $2,000,000 studio on the outskirts of Hollywood and will shift much of their eastern production to this studio, it is reported.

United Artists has just purchased the old Pickford-Fairbanks studio and is spending $1,000,000 in new stages and equipment. All United Artists pictures, with the exception of the Gloria Swanson productions, will be made in Hollywood. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Universal, Fox, DeMille, Warner Brothers and Metropolitan Pictures will make all their pictures in Hollywood or environs.

There are about 25,000 persons employed in the manufacture of motion pictures in Hollywood, the survey indicated, and weekly payrolls average between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. This does not include the salaries of stars and big featured players and directors, which roll up a tremendous weekly total. James Cruze, the director, for example, receives $6,000 a week; Wallace Beery and Ernest Torence $3,500 a week; Pola Negri $7,500 weekly and other star salaries are in proportion.

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglected a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Q. Are brothers and sisters more blood relation to each other than to their mother and father? T. P.

A. The Eugenics Record Office of the Carnegie Institution says that brothers and sisters are more closely related than father and son, or mother and son. Biographically a father and son have one half common blood, while a brother and sister have all common blood. One contains with his half brother the same amount of common blood that he contains with his father.

Q. Do snakes inhabit cold countries? M. D.

A. Snakes are extremely sensitive to cold. Many of our common North American snakes do not range much farther north than the Canadian border. Others stay south of the Ohio River. The range of the garter snake is known to extend northward to the region around Great Slave lake and there are records of the appearance of this snake from the Yukon region. This snake has an exceptionally wide range.

Q. Are there many radios on farms in the United States? H. W. L.

A. Radio receivers on farms now total approximately 1,000,000 according to the latest estimate of the Department of Agriculture.

Q. Is Dickens read more than Thackery, Eliot or Scott? L. B. T.

A. The Publisher's Weekly says that Dickens is more widely read than Thackery, Eliot, and Scott put together. There are no figures as to totals.

Q. What is a "charter-party"? A. H.

A. A charter-party is the contract executed by the freighter and the master or owner of a ship, setting forth the terms upon which the ship is hired to freight.

LONDON, June 28.—Match this one if you can. It's today's best fish story.

A famous London hotel announces that American visitors enjoy eating trout from the Great Lakes in London. To insure the arrival of the fish in London in a fresh condition, the hotel announces, the fish are taken to Chicago from the lakes alive. Here they are put in tanks, the temperature of which is lowered until the fish are "frozen to sleep." Once the fish becomes asleep it is frozen in a block of ice. The ice-block is shipped to London, where it is gradually thawed. When the fish awakes, says the hotel announcement, it is put in a tank and swims about in English water until ready to be prepared for cooking.

Q. How old are clams when brought to market? M. B. F.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that the average clam seen on the market is between four and seven years old. The age of a clam is determined by the heavy ridges found on the shell. These ridges are usually one-quarter of an inch apart.

Q. Please tell when Jerusalem was destroyed? L. B.

A. The Babylonians reduced the City of Jerusalem in the year 586 B. C. Nebuchadnezzar demolished the walls and all principal houses, plundered and destroyed the temple, and carried away to Babylon all except the poorest citizens. Jerusalem remained in ruins for fifty years.

Q. How does the speed at which a movie camera is turned in shooting a picture affect the picture on the screen? A. P.

Q. What is the origin of the term dunce? H. A. S.

A. Dunce is a word introduced by the disciples of Thomas Aquinas in ridicule of the disciples of John Duns Scotus, who, although a man of subignorant or prejudiced at the time of the Reformation to be a man of little intellect, was held by the more vincible stupidity.

Q. Was Sir Francis Drake a pirate? W. R.

A. Many of the exploits of Drake were looked upon as piracies, but for the most part he had at least quasi-official sanction from his government for what he did.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, JUNE 28, 1926.

No "Safe and Sane Fourth" Here

There will be no "safe and sane" celebration of the Fourth of July in East Lievrpool, unless Mayor Ralph C. Benedum vetoes an ordinance enacted by the city council in a special session Saturday night.

Turning about face on legislation placed on the statute books early in the year, seemingly for the purpose of reducing the Ceramic City's share of casualities from dangerous fireworks, the councilmanic assembly removed all barriers and told dealers to sell explosives and children to shoot pyrotechnics to their heart's content.

By a vote of 6 to 1—Solon Thomas Farrall alone opposed the enactment—the legislative dads repealed the so-called "safe and sane Fourth" ordinance which permitted dealers to handle fireworks but prohibited the shooting of the explosives within the municipal limits.

What prompted the back-pedalling is a mystery. After a few minutes' debate of the previous half-hearted legislation, children and adults were given leeway by the councilmen to kill or main themselves and possibly start fires. So physicians, ambulance drivers, hospital attendants and firemen should prepare for a busy day, or days, in connection with the celebration of Independence Day in the East Liverpool district, if the mayor does not sing the requiem of the old ordinance.

One girl was burned, while two boys were rescued Saturday, when a toy machine gun was snapped by a youngster, causing the ignition of fireworks in a Gary, Ind., department store. The blaze resulted in a loss of $250,000.

More than 100 persons were killed and 1,000 were injured last year in the United States as a result of the use of fireworks on the nation's birthday. And most of the casualities were children.

In the last 20 years, according to the National Safety Council, more than 60,000 persons have been killed or injured.

Patriotism can be manifested on the Fourth of July without dangerous fireworks. Let's celebrate the day, but let us not sacrifice in fire and noise, the lives, limbs and property and future happiness of our people.

The Year of Exploration

More explorations. Chicago sends forth two important expeditions at once, in behalf of the Field Museum. One goes to the Amazon region, in tropical Brazil, with a group of leading American scientists. The other sails for the Arctic in a fishing schooner commanded by Capt. Donald M. MacMillan. Both will doubtless bring back notable facts and specimens of fascinating regions, little known.

Archeological research in Egypt, North Africa, Palestine, Mesopotamia and eastern Asia are going forward with accelerating pace. In America at the same time a whole new fabric of native archeology is being constructed.

Scientists at home are busier than ever in their laboratories, perfecting new discoveries and inventions for human use and delving deeper into the secrets of nature.

It is going to be a great year for exploration, making us better acquainted with this present earth and its inhabitants and resources, and with its remote past and possible future. Never before in human history was there any such outburst of activity for the extension of human knowledge.

At this rate, man will soon know everything except himself. That field will keep him busy a long time.

The "War Frauds"

The retirement of James Cameron, "director of investigations and accounts of the war department," ends an epoch, and ends it more creditably than most Americans have expected.

Mr. Cameron was appointed several years ago to look into the war contracts, with a view to uncovering such crookedness as congressional investigating committees had not been able to find. He went at the job with energy and skill, and according to his reports looked carefully into 200,000 contracts, big and little, amounting to thousands of millions of dollars.

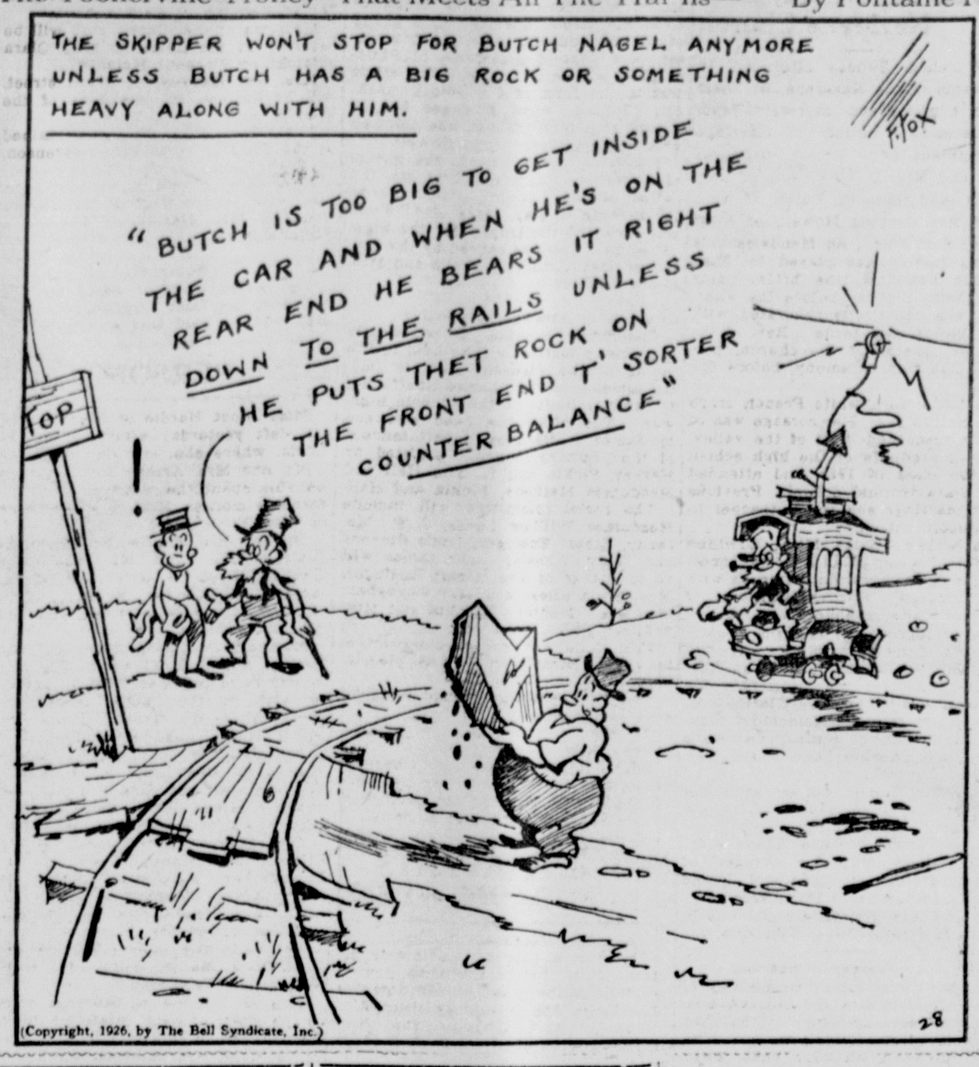

In all that mass of war business he has found evidence of deliberate fraud in only a few cases. He now lays down the job because he "has nothing more to do."

High prices, unquestionably, were paid for supplies in the stress of the big war, when time was thought to be worth more than money. Many manufacturers and dealers charged all the traffic would bear. Many inspectors and other officials, no doubt, were lax in inspection, in the press of war work. But it is greatly to the credit of both sides, the government forces and the forces of private capital, that in that great enterprise it has been possible to discover so little that can be called stealing or cheating.

The war contracts, despite the immense sums of money involved, are said to be cleaner than they were in any previous war. That is something for Americans to remember with pride, in connection with a conflict that has brought few satisfactions.

Wherever two or three are gathered together, the men talk about their cars and the women about their hair.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up early betimes and off to see an English novelist who said he disliked America because of the hurry and rush, but believed people were happier here than on any other spot on the globe. Which is true.

So to see W. C. Gibson, the art editor, and he illustrated a whippet dog race at a circus with his hands and played a Sousa march piece on the harmonica, the funniest thing I ever saw in my life, and so pleased me I gave him a cigarette.

Home and cast my accounts, which seem to be in a deplorable way, and then to a dinner party and tried to imitate the whippet race but not a soul smiled, and so home and to bed in low spirits.

Many of us think of Greeks as shoe shiners or fruit merchants just as we classify Chinese as teeth-spraying laundrymen. Recently I attended a dinner party whose guests were mostly prominent Greeks who live in New York. Every Greek present spoke his own language, also French, German and English fluently.

All were New York home owners in rather exclusive areas and had traveled to all parts of the world. They were extremely well versed in current topics and knew much of American politics. I notice no liquor was served.

New York has two prosperous Greek newspapers in "The Atlantis" and "The National Herald." The Greeks are said to outnumber all other foreigners in attendance at the opera and art galleries.

It was one of the Greek dinner guests who told me the fur business is the oldest of all commercial enterprises in New York. Fur traders were operating before a house had been built on our gay little island.

I had an idea the oldest business here was minding other people's.

There is an elderly banker, clinging to mutton chop whiskers and flat-topped derby, who drives a pair of spanking bays up Park Avenue frequently in the late afternoon. The cobbed and spirited horses are attached to a high seated phaeton, and the coachman in canary yellow livery sits with immobile expression while his master handles the rains very expertly. It labaloo. I have noticed his home has an old-fashioned brass knocker and is a pleasant picture in the motor hulfoot scrapers. Through the window curtains one also sees a spacious marble fireplace, stupendous mahogany drawing room doors and black parquet.

It is the gossip that the Thirty-Ninth street, Empire, Knickerbocker and Casino theatres will before long follow the way of the Metropolitan opera and make room for sky-scrapers. They cannot longer withstand, it is said, the huge offers made for them. These are the last of the galaxy that included Daly's, Wallack's, Webber and Fields's Music Hall, the Herald Square and the Broadway. The new Rialto begins at 42d street and stretches nearly to 72d. In 20 years the trend has been gradually northward from the original Rialto on 14th street. One real estate man ventures the opinion that what we know as the Great White Way will in another ten years stretch beyond 72d street. This section is already taking on the White Way glamour with theatrical hotels, vaudeville theatres, flashy movie palaces, chop suey cafes and cabarets.

I am told that one of the highest-priced salesmen in New York stutters. Somehow that strikes one who is often embarrassed in not being able to pronounce mustache as an extraordinary achivement.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cold Steam.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—The discovery that a recent invention called cold steam for use in cleaning underneath automobiles, or other metal substances where heavy grease and dirt is encountered, is also a highly useful method of cleaning stone buildings, has been made by research workers at the United States Bureau of Standards. Cold steam is simply a mixture of steam and cold water driven through a heavy nozzle under 150 pounds of pressure. The steam and water mix just before being driven into the air and against the substance to be cleaned. As a result the cleaning values of both are used, plus the value of high pressure, and yet the mixture is not at a high temperature.

The search for a quick, economical, and thorough method of cleaning stone is typical of the many researches being carried on by the Bureau of Standards in conjunction with engineers representing basis industrial groups. In the stone building field the bureau is also working on new methods of lifting and placing stone, methods of water-proofing and protecting from stain, and other methods designed to improve stone construction and reduce costs of its use. The widespread use of soft coal in recent years has been a factor in soiling stone buildings and in causing the search for better cleaning methods.

Acid and sand blast cleaning methods have been objected to by many architects, who say that acid deadens the appearance of many stones, and sand blasting wears the surface. The cold steam process does neither. Cleaning of stone buildings has hitherto been seldom recommended except by hand labor with scrubbing brushes, a slow, costly, and far from satisfactory process. The new process requires a gasoline pressure pump mounted on the lightest sort of auto truck, some hose, and a nozzle. Two operators go over a stone surface with great rapidity.

Many architects object to any cleaning of stone surfaces, believing that a normal amount of weathering improves the appearance of a stone building. There is however a considerable demand for cleaning, and the Bureau of Standards, working with H. H. Dutton, research engineer for the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association, set out to find a method. A concern in Charlottesville, Virginia, had developed the cold steam process for auto cleaning, and this seems to have solved the problem, at least for limestone. Limestone comprises about 45 per cent of the total building stone used in this country, the output being chiefly from the quarries of southern Indiana, when the name comes, although a very similar stone is found in parts of Alabama and Kentucky. The output last year was 12,000,000 cubic feet.

Tests Are Successful.

The first tests of the new process were made recently on some private buildings in Washington. The government is interested in every development of stone building, because so many government buildings are of stone. The new program for $50,000,000 worth of government buildings in Washington, and $115,000,000 worth throughout the country, will involve a great deal of stone construction. Limestone, sandstone, marble and granite are the materials most widely used. The first, while not so hard as granite or marble, is the most workable of stones, as it can be milled, planed, turned on a athe or worked with any tool that will work metal. How long it will last is not definitely known, as it has only been quarried since 1857. Buildings erected with it in 1860 have shown no signs of deteriorating, and stone blocks from the Vanderbilt mansion, recently torn down on Fifth avenue, New York, were brought to the Bureau of Standards and thoroughly tested. They were found of the same durability as new.

The most important test of stone recently made was at the new State Office building at Harrisburg, Pa., where 36 columns of Indiana limestone were installed, the largest in the world. These columns, 34 feet 6 inches high and with a diameter of five feet, were cut at the mill near the quarry, shipped and erected without loss or damage to one of them. The ability to work such great monoliths by machinery is a great step in the use of stone for building. Stone working is now largely done at the mill, and it is seldom that the stone mason with his chisel and mallet is seen working on a building.

The First Division, A. E. F. Memorial in Washington has a monolithic shaft one foot taller than the columns at Harrisburg. Architects and quarryman agree that the limit in size of limestone columns is indefinite, as the stone lies in deposits of great size and without flaws, and can be cut in any direction. The larger pieces involve larger cost, however, and this increases rapidly when sizes get beyond ordinary methods of handling and transportation.

The former theory that stone substitutes, now very numerous, would decrease the use of stone in buildings has not proved true. Stone remains the most desirable of permanent building materials, and while great quantities of substitutes are used in structures where the almost perpetual lasting qualities are not needed, there is more building stone being used in the United States today than ever before. The Arlington Memorial bridge now building in Washington and one of the great stone bridges of the world will be of granite.

The more workable limestone has been used in recent government structures, such as the Veterans' Bureau building and the Department of Interior building. It is also being used for the addition to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing which was put up in temporary form during the war and is being made permanent. The Washington Cathedral, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the Scottish Rite Temple, and the interior of the Lincoln Memorial are of this stone.

Stone Buildings Re-Assembled.

The rapid growth of American cities has produced some interesting examples of the tearing down of stone buildings, something which a few years ago would have been considered out of the question. Like the Vanderbilt mansion in New York, the Bradley mansion on DuPont Circle in Washington has been razed, to make way for stores and offices. The stone work of this house was removed to Newport to go into a house built by the owner in that city. At present a four story stone-faced bank building near the United States Treasury is being demolished, although it is fairly new. Each stone is numbered as it comes down, and shipped to a Virginia city where the building will be reproduced with the same stone. A modern skyscraper will occupy the Washington site.

A new lifting device perfected at the Bureau of Standards is now becoming widely used for stone blocks up to 800 pounds in weight, and permits quicker handling, with access to all faces of the stone by workmen, and less drilling of the blocks to permit lifting devices to hold it. There are now 35 industries working with the Bureau of Standards as research associates, perfecting practical methods and devices with the aid of government scientists, as the Indiana limestone industry is doing with this particular building material. The researches being handled this way range from stockings to steel. The industries contribute the cost of the research work and experime... Announcements of new discoveries and perfecting of methods and devices are frequent, with consequent economies in many lines of production.

THE PICK OF THE CROWD

A painter living a few miles from a small city in one of the lower Cotton States called up the police judge on the long distance telephone.

"Say, judge," he said, "I just got word that my house boy Jim went to town last night and got in a row and hit another darky with a brick, and was locked up. I need that boy, and I wish as a favor to me you'd let him go with he comes up today before you. If you think he ought to pay a fine let me know what it is tonight at lodge meeting and I'll hand the amount to you."

"All right," answered the judge. "I'm willing to do anything in reason, but you'll have to come in here and pick out your own nigger."

"Lord, man," remonstrated the planter, "I can't take the time off to go into the police station today. I'm as busy as a bird dog right this minute."

"Can't help it," answered his honor. "I can't afford to take any more chances. Here, just the other day, Col. Talbert, down at Palmetto, called me up the same as you've done today and asked me to turn loose one of his hands that was in the calaboose for shooting craps. I agreed to do it, but I plumb forgot the nigger's name, and to make sure of getting the right one and not disappointing Talbert, I had to turn loose every nigger on the docket. There were fourteen of 'em in all—and one of 'em charged with murder, too. It made a lot of talk, and the chief of police kicked about it. If you want your nigger you come get him!"

Pretty Wedding Solemnized in Bride's Home Sunday by Rabbi Jacob Kohn.

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Anna Resnick, of Avondale street, when their daughter, Miss Sara, became the bride of Julius Sulkes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sulkes, of Pittsburgh. Rabbi Jacob Kohn, of the B'Nai Jacob synagogue, performed the impressive ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers, palms and ferns, in the presence of 50 guests.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Rebecca Fisher, accompanied on the violin by Alex Fisher, the bridal party took their places. Miss Rebecca Resnick, a sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, while Mrs. Simon Maneloveg, of Woodlawn, Pa., was matron of honor. Julius Savitz, of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride, served as Mr. Sulkes' best man.

The bride was gowned in rosepoint lace over white georgette, in bouffante style. Her bridal veil was of tulle, held in place by a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was associated with her brother in the Resnick Furniture company store.

The maid of honor wore a gown of June rose georgette and a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom is one of the owners of Sulkes' Manhattan Clothing shoppe.

WASHINGTON, June 28. — Miss Frances Hawthorne Brady, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Grayson Brady, formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Major Ernest Harvey Van Fossan, member of the tax board of appeals, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Fossan, of Lisbon, O., were married in the Church of the Covenant. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, officiated. Afterward the bride and bridegroom held an informal reception in the church.

Major Van Fossan's parents came to Washington for the wedding. Others in the group of relatives were Miss Virginian Van Fossan, of Lisbon, and Mrs. Ernest Hurd, of Maplewood, N. They wore taffeta frocks in pastel shades—pink, orchid, green, blue and yellow—combined with malines and made with bouffante skirts. Their large horsehair hats, matching their gowns in tone, were trimmed with malines. All carried bouquets of garden flowers.

Johnson Camden Brady, Jr., 5-year-old nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

No "Safe and Sane Fourth" Here

There will be no "safe and sane" celebration of the Fourth of July in East Lievrpool, unless Mayor Ralph C. Benedum vetoes an ordinance enacted by the city council in a special session Saturday night.

Turning about face on legislation placed on the statute books early in the year, seemingly for the purpose of reducing the Ceramic City's share of casualities from dangerous fireworks, the councilmanic assembly removed all barriers and told dealers to sell explosives and children to shoot pyrotechnics to their heart's content.

By a vote of 6 to 1—Solon Thomas Farrall alone opposed the enactment—the legislative dads repealed the so-called "safe and sane Fourth" ordinance which permitted dealers to handle fireworks but prohibited the shooting of the explosives within the municipal limits.

What prompted the back-pedalling is a mystery. After a few minutes' debate of the previous half-hearted legislation, children and adults were given leeway by the councilmen to kill or main themselves and possibly start fires. So physicians, ambulance drivers, hospital attendants and firemen should prepare for a busy day, or days, in connection with the celebration of Independence Day in the East Liverpool district, if the mayor does not sing the requiem of the old ordinance.

One girl was burned, while two boys were rescued Saturday, when a toy machine gun was snapped by a youngster, causing the ignition of fireworks in a Gary, Ind., department store. The blaze resulted in a loss of $250,000.

More than 100 persons were killed and 1,000 were injured last year in the United States as a result of the use of fireworks on the nation's birthday. And most of the casualities were children.

In the last 20 years, according to the National Safety Council, more than 60,000 persons have been killed or injured.

Patriotism can be manifested on the Fourth of July without dangerous fireworks. Let's celebrate the day, but let us not sacrifice in fire and noise, the lives, limbs and property and future happiness of our people.

The Year of Exploration

More explorations. Chicago sends forth two important expeditions at once, in behalf of the Field Museum. One goes to the Amazon region, in tropical Brazil, with a group of leading American scientists. The other sails for the Arctic in a fishing schooner commanded by Capt. Donald M. MacMillan. Both will doubtless bring back notable facts and specimens of fascinating regions, little known.

Archeological research in Egypt, North Africa, Palestine, Mesopotamia and eastern Asia are going forward with accelerating pace. In America at the same time a whole new fabric of native archeology is being constructed.

Scientists at home are busier than ever in their laboratories, perfecting new discoveries and inventions for human use and delving deeper into the secrets of nature.

It is going to be a great year for exploration, making us better acquainted with this present earth and its inhabitants and resources, and with its remote past and possible future. Never before in human history was there any such outburst of activity for the extension of human knowledge.

At this rate, man will soon know everything except himself. That field will keep him busy a long time.

The "War Frauds"

The retirement of James Cameron, "director of investigations and accounts of the war department," ends an epoch, and ends it more creditably than most Americans have expected.

Mr. Cameron was appointed several years ago to look into the war contracts, with a view to uncovering such crookedness as congressional investigating committees had not been able to find. He went at the job with energy and skill, and according to his reports looked carefully into 200,000 contracts, big and little, amounting to thousands of millions of dollars.

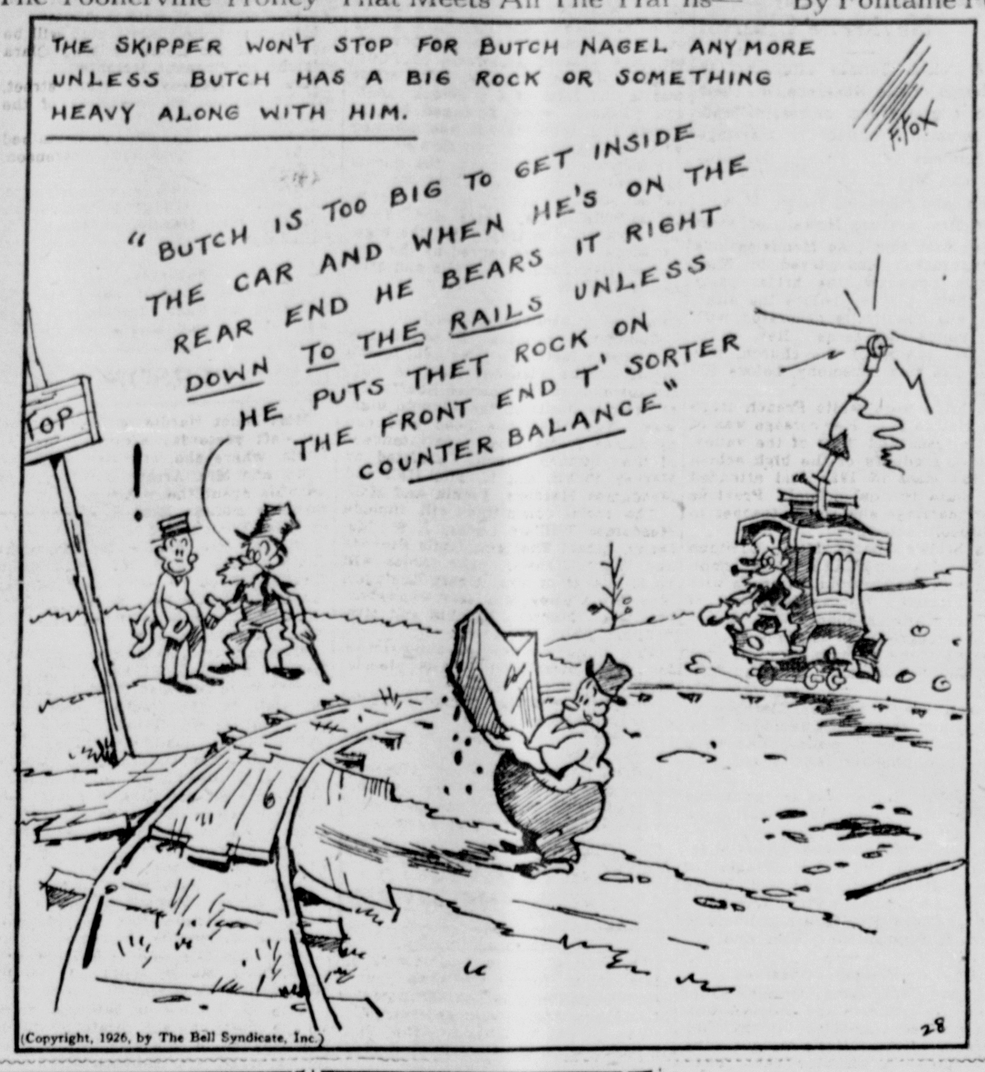

In all that mass of war business he has found evidence of deliberate fraud in only a few cases. He now lays down the job because he "has nothing more to do."

High prices, unquestionably, were paid for supplies in the stress of the big war, when time was thought to be worth more than money. Many manufacturers and dealers charged all the traffic would bear. Many inspectors and other officials, no doubt, were lax in inspection, in the press of war work. But it is greatly to the credit of both sides, the government forces and the forces of private capital, that in that great enterprise it has been possible to discover so little that can be called stealing or cheating.

The war contracts, despite the immense sums of money involved, are said to be cleaner than they were in any previous war. That is something for Americans to remember with pride, in connection with a conflict that has brought few satisfactions.

Wherever two or three are gathered together, the men talk about their cars and the women about their hair.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up early betimes and off to see an English novelist who said he disliked America because of the hurry and rush, but believed people were happier here than on any other spot on the globe. Which is true.

So to see W. C. Gibson, the art editor, and he illustrated a whippet dog race at a circus with his hands and played a Sousa march piece on the harmonica, the funniest thing I ever saw in my life, and so pleased me I gave him a cigarette.

Home and cast my accounts, which seem to be in a deplorable way, and then to a dinner party and tried to imitate the whippet race but not a soul smiled, and so home and to bed in low spirits.

Many of us think of Greeks as shoe shiners or fruit merchants just as we classify Chinese as teeth-spraying laundrymen. Recently I attended a dinner party whose guests were mostly prominent Greeks who live in New York. Every Greek present spoke his own language, also French, German and English fluently.

All were New York home owners in rather exclusive areas and had traveled to all parts of the world. They were extremely well versed in current topics and knew much of American politics. I notice no liquor was served.

New York has two prosperous Greek newspapers in "The Atlantis" and "The National Herald." The Greeks are said to outnumber all other foreigners in attendance at the opera and art galleries.

It was one of the Greek dinner guests who told me the fur business is the oldest of all commercial enterprises in New York. Fur traders were operating before a house had been built on our gay little island.

I had an idea the oldest business here was minding other people's.

There is an elderly banker, clinging to mutton chop whiskers and flat-topped derby, who drives a pair of spanking bays up Park Avenue frequently in the late afternoon. The cobbed and spirited horses are attached to a high seated phaeton, and the coachman in canary yellow livery sits with immobile expression while his master handles the rains very expertly. It labaloo. I have noticed his home has an old-fashioned brass knocker and is a pleasant picture in the motor hulfoot scrapers. Through the window curtains one also sees a spacious marble fireplace, stupendous mahogany drawing room doors and black parquet.

It is the gossip that the Thirty-Ninth street, Empire, Knickerbocker and Casino theatres will before long follow the way of the Metropolitan opera and make room for sky-scrapers. They cannot longer withstand, it is said, the huge offers made for them. These are the last of the galaxy that included Daly's, Wallack's, Webber and Fields's Music Hall, the Herald Square and the Broadway. The new Rialto begins at 42d street and stretches nearly to 72d. In 20 years the trend has been gradually northward from the original Rialto on 14th street. One real estate man ventures the opinion that what we know as the Great White Way will in another ten years stretch beyond 72d street. This section is already taking on the White Way glamour with theatrical hotels, vaudeville theatres, flashy movie palaces, chop suey cafes and cabarets.

I am told that one of the highest-priced salesmen in New York stutters. Somehow that strikes one who is often embarrassed in not being able to pronounce mustache as an extraordinary achivement.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cold Steam.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—The discovery that a recent invention called cold steam for use in cleaning underneath automobiles, or other metal substances where heavy grease and dirt is encountered, is also a highly useful method of cleaning stone buildings, has been made by research workers at the United States Bureau of Standards. Cold steam is simply a mixture of steam and cold water driven through a heavy nozzle under 150 pounds of pressure. The steam and water mix just before being driven into the air and against the substance to be cleaned. As a result the cleaning values of both are used, plus the value of high pressure, and yet the mixture is not at a high temperature.

The search for a quick, economical, and thorough method of cleaning stone is typical of the many researches being carried on by the Bureau of Standards in conjunction with engineers representing basis industrial groups. In the stone building field the bureau is also working on new methods of lifting and placing stone, methods of water-proofing and protecting from stain, and other methods designed to improve stone construction and reduce costs of its use. The widespread use of soft coal in recent years has been a factor in soiling stone buildings and in causing the search for better cleaning methods.

Acid and sand blast cleaning methods have been objected to by many architects, who say that acid deadens the appearance of many stones, and sand blasting wears the surface. The cold steam process does neither. Cleaning of stone buildings has hitherto been seldom recommended except by hand labor with scrubbing brushes, a slow, costly, and far from satisfactory process. The new process requires a gasoline pressure pump mounted on the lightest sort of auto truck, some hose, and a nozzle. Two operators go over a stone surface with great rapidity.

Many architects object to any cleaning of stone surfaces, believing that a normal amount of weathering improves the appearance of a stone building. There is however a considerable demand for cleaning, and the Bureau of Standards, working with H. H. Dutton, research engineer for the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association, set out to find a method. A concern in Charlottesville, Virginia, had developed the cold steam process for auto cleaning, and this seems to have solved the problem, at least for limestone. Limestone comprises about 45 per cent of the total building stone used in this country, the output being chiefly from the quarries of southern Indiana, when the name comes, although a very similar stone is found in parts of Alabama and Kentucky. The output last year was 12,000,000 cubic feet.

Tests Are Successful.

The first tests of the new process were made recently on some private buildings in Washington. The government is interested in every development of stone building, because so many government buildings are of stone. The new program for $50,000,000 worth of government buildings in Washington, and $115,000,000 worth throughout the country, will involve a great deal of stone construction. Limestone, sandstone, marble and granite are the materials most widely used. The first, while not so hard as granite or marble, is the most workable of stones, as it can be milled, planed, turned on a athe or worked with any tool that will work metal. How long it will last is not definitely known, as it has only been quarried since 1857. Buildings erected with it in 1860 have shown no signs of deteriorating, and stone blocks from the Vanderbilt mansion, recently torn down on Fifth avenue, New York, were brought to the Bureau of Standards and thoroughly tested. They were found of the same durability as new.

The most important test of stone recently made was at the new State Office building at Harrisburg, Pa., where 26 columns of Indiana limestone were installed, the largest in the world. These columns, 34 feet 6 inches high and with a diameter of five feet, were cut at the mill near the quarry, shipped and erected without loss or damage to one of them. The ability to work such great monoliths by machinery is a great step in the use of stone for building. Stone working is now largely done at the mill, and it is seldom that the stone mason with his chisel and mallet is seen working on a building.

The First Division, A. E. F. Memorial in Washington has a monolithic shaft one foot taller than the columns at Harrisburg. Architects and quarryman agree that the limit in size of limestone columns is indefinite, as the stone lies in deposits of great size and without flaws, and can be cut in any direction. The larger pieces involve larger cost, however, and this increases rapidly when sizes get beyond ordinary methods of handling and transportation.

The former theory that stone substitutes, now very numerous, would decrease the use of stone in buildings has not proved true. Stone remains the most desirable of permanent building materials, and while great quantities of substitutes are used in structures where the almost perpetual lasting qualities are not needed, there is more building stone being used in the United States today than ever before. The Arlington Memorial bridge now building in Washington and one of the great stone bridges of the world will be of granite.

The more workable limestone has been used in recent government structures, such as the Veterans' Bureau building and the Department of Interior building. It is also being used for the addition to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing which was put up in temporary form during the war and is being made permanent. The Washington Cathedral, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the Scottish Rite Temple, and the interior of the Lincoln Memorial are of this stone.

Stone Buildings Re-Assembled.

The rapid growth of American cities has produced some interesting examples of the tearing down of stone buildings, something which a few years ago would have been considered out of the question. Like the Vanderbilt mansion in New York, the Bradley mansion on DuPont Circle in Washington has been razed, to make way for stores and offices. The stone work of this house was removed to Newport to go into a house built by the owner in that city. At present a four story stone faced bank building near the United States Treasury is being demolished, although it is fairly new. Each stone is numbered as it comes down, and shipped to a Virginia city where the building will be reproduced with the same stone. A modern skyscraper will occupy the Washington site.

A new lifting device perfected at the Bureau of Standards is now becoming widely used for stone blocks up to 800 pounds in weight, and permits quicker handling, with access to all faces of the stone by workmen, and less drilling of the blocks to permit lifting devices to hold it. There are now 35 industries working with the Bureau of Standards as research associates, perfecting practical methods and devices with the aid of government scientists, as the Indiana limestone industry is doing with this particular building material. The researches being handled this way range from stockings to steel. The industries contribute the cost of the research work and experiments. Announcements of new discoveries and perfecting of methods and devices are frequent, with consequent economies in many lines of production.

THE PICK OF THE CROWD

A painter living a few miles from a small city in one of the lower Cotton States called up the police judge on the long distance telephone.

"Say, judge," he said, "I just got word that my house boy Jim went to town last night and got in a row and hit another darky with a brick, and was locked up. I need that boy, and I wish as a favor to me you'd let him go with he comes up today before you. If you think he ought to pay a fine let me know what it is tonight at lodge meeting and I'll hand the amount to you."

"All right," answered the judge. "I'm willing to do anything in reason, but you'll have to come in here and pick out your own nigger."

"Lord, man," remonstrated the planter, "I can't take the time off to go into the police station today. I'm as busy as a bird dog right this minute."

"Can't help it," answered his honor. "I can't afford to take any more chances. Here, just the other day, Col. Talbert, down at Palmetto, called me up the same as you've done today and asked me to turn loose one of his hands that was in the calaboose for shooting craps. I agreed to do it, but I plumb forgot the nigger's name, and to make sure of getting the right one and not disappointing Talbert, I had to turn loose every nigger on the docket. There were fourteen of 'em in all—and one of 'em charged with murder, too. It made a lot of talk, and the chief of police kicked about it. If you want your nigger you come get him!"

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, JUNE 28, 1926.

No "Safe and Sane Fourth" Here

There will be no "safe and sane" celebration of the Fourth of July in East Lievrpool, unless Mayor Ralph C. Benedum vetoes an ordinance enacted by the city council in a special session Saturday night.

Turning about face on legislation placed on the statute books early in the year, seemingly for the purpose of reducing the Ceramic City's share of casualities from dangerous fireworks, the councilmanic assembly removed all barriers and told dealers to sell explosives and children to shoot pyrotechnics to their heart's content.

By a vote of 6 to 1—Solon Thomas Farrall alone opposed the enactment—the legislative dads repealed the so-called "safe and sane Fourth" ordinance which permitted dealers to handle fireworks but prohibited the shooting of the explosives within the municipal limits.

What prompted the back-pedalling is a mystery. After a few minutes' debate of the previous half-hearted legislation, children and adults were given leeway by the councilmen to kill or main themselves and possibly start fires. So physicians, ambulance drivers, hospital attendants and firemen should prepare for a busy day, or days, in connection with the celebration of Independence Day in the East Liverpool district, if the mayor does not sing the requiem of the old ordinance.

One girl was burned, while two boys were rescued Saturday, when a toy machine gun was snapped by a youngster, causing the ignition of fireworks in a Gary, Ind., department store. The blaze resulted in a loss of $250,000.

More than 100 persons were killed and 1,000 were injured last year in the United States as a result of the use of fireworks on the nation's birthday. And most of the casualities were children.

In the last 20 years, according to the National Safety Council, more than 60,000 persons have been killed or injured.

Patriotism can be manifested on the Fourth of July without dangerous fireworks. Let's celebrate the day, but let us not sacrifice in fire and noise, the lives, limbs and property and future happiness of our people.

The Year of Exploration

More explorations. Chicago sends forth two important expeditions at once, in behalf of the Field Museum. One goes to the Amazon region, in tropical Brazil, with a group of leading American scientists. The other sails for the Arctic in a fishing schooner commanded by Capt. Donald M. MacMillan. Both will doubtless bring back notable facts and specimens of fascinating regions, little known.

Archeological research in Egypt, North Africa, Palestine, Mesopotamia and eastern Asia are going forward with accelerating pace. In America at the same time a whole new fabric of native archeology is being constructed.

Scientists at home are busier than ever in their laboratories, perfecting new discoveries and inventions for human use and delving deeper into the secrets of nature.

It is going to be a great year for exploration, making us better acquainted with this present earth and its inhabitants and resources, and with its remote past and possible future. Never before in human history was there any such outburst of activity for the extension of human knowledge.

At this rate, man will soon know everything except himself. That field will keep him busy a long time.

The "War Frauds"

The retirement of James Cameron, "director of investigations and accounts of the war department," ends an epoch, and ends it more creditably than most Americans have expected.

Mr. Cameron was appointed several years ago to look into the war contracts, with a view to uncovering such crookedness as congressional investigating committees had not been able to find. He went at the job with energy and skill, and according to his reports looked carefully into 200,000 contracts, big and little, amounting to thousands of millions of dollars.

In all that mass of war business he has found evidence of deliberate fraud in only a few cases. He now lays down the job because he "has nothing more to do."

High prices, unquestionably, were paid for supplies in the stress of the big war, when time was thought to be worth more than money. Many manufacturers and dealers charged all the traffic would bear. Many inspectors and other officials, no doubt, were lax in inspection, in the press of war work. But it is greatly to the credit of both sides, the government forces and the forces of private capital, that in that great enterprise it has been possible to discover so little that can be called stealing or cheating.

The war contracts, despite the immense sums of money involved, are said to be cleaner than they were in any previous war. That is something for Americans to remember with pride, in connection with a conflict that has brought few satisfactions.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up early betimes and off to see an English novelist who said he disliked America because of the hurry and rush, but believed people were happier here than on any other spot on the globe. Which is true.

So to see W. C. Gibson, the art editor, and he illustrated a whippet dog race at a circus with his hands and played a Sousa march piece on the harmonica, the funniest thing I ever saw in my life, and so pleased me I gave him a cigarette.

Home and cast my accounts, which seem to be in a deplorable way, and then to a dinner party and tried to imitate the whippet race but not a soul smiled, and so home and to bed in low spirits.

Many of us think of Greeks as shoe shiners or fruit merchants just as we classify Chinese as teeth-spraying laundrymen. Recently I attended a dinner party whose guests were mostly prominent Greeks who live in New York. Every Greek present spoke his own language, also French, German and English fluently.

All were New York home owners in rather exclusive areas and had traveled to all parts of the world. They were extremely well versed in current topics and knew much of American politics. I notice no liquor was served.

New York has two prosperous Greek newspapers in "The Atlantis" and "The National Herald." The Greeks are said to outnumber all other foreigners in attendance at the opera and art galleries.

It was one of the Greek dinner guests who told me the fur business is the oldest of all commercial enterprises in New York. Fur traders were operating before a house had been built on our gay little island.

I had an idea the oldest business here was minding other people's.

There is an elderly banker, clinging to mutton chop whiskers and flat-topped derby, who drives a pair of spanking bays up Park Avenue frequently in the late afternoon. The cobbed and spirited horses are attached to a high seated phaeton, and the coachman in canary yellow livery sits with immobile expression while his master handles the rains very expertly. It labaloo. I have noticed his home has an old-fashioned brass knocker and is a pleasant picture in the motor hulfoot scrapers. Through the window curtains one also sees a spacious marble fireplace, stupendous mahogany drawing room doors and black parquet.

It is the gossip that the Thirty-Ninth street, Empire, Knickerbocker and Casino theatres will before long follow the way of the Metropolitan opera and make room for sky-scrapers. They cannot longer withstand, it is said, the huge offers made for them. These are the last of the galaxy that included Daly's, Wallack's, Webber and Fields's Music Hall, the Herald Square and the Broadway. The new Rialto begins at 42d street and stretches nearly to 72d. In 20 years the trend has been gradually northward from the original Rialto on 14th street. One real estate man ventures the opinion that what we know as the Great White Way will in another ten years stretch beyond 72d street. This section is already taking on the White Way glamour with theatrical hotels, vaudeville theatres, flashy movie palaces, chop suey cafes and cabarets.

I am told that one of the highest-priced salesmen in New York stutters. Somehow that strikes one who is often embarrassed in not being able to pronounce mustache as an extraordinary achivement.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cold Steam.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—The discovery that a recent invention called cold steam for use in cleaning underneath automobiles, or other metal substances where heavy grease and dirt is encountered, is also a highly useful method of cleaning stone buildings, has been made by research workers at the United States Bureau of Standards. Cold steam is simply a mixture of steam and cold water driven through a heavy nozzle under 150 pounds of pressure. The steam and water mix just before being driven into the air and against the substance to be cleaned. As a result the cleaning values of both are used, plus the value of high pressure, and yet the mixture is not at a high temperature.

The search for a quick, economical, and thorough method of cleaning stone is typical of the many researches being carried on by the Bureau of Standards in conjunction with engineers representing basis industrial groups. In the stone building field the bureau is also working on new methods of lifting and placing stone, methods of water-proofing and protecting from stain, and other methods designed to improve stone construction and reduce costs of its use. The widespread use of soft coal in recent years has been a factor in soiling stone buildings and in causing the search for better cleaning methods.

Acid and sand blast cleaning methods have been objected to by many architects, who say that acid deadens the appearance of many stones, and sand blasting wears the surface. The cold steam process does neither. Cleaning of stone buildings has hitherto been seldom recommended except by hand labor with scrubbing brushes, a slow, costly, and far from satisfactory process. The new process requires a gasoline pressure pump mounted on the lightest sort of auto truck, some hose, and a nozzle. Two operators go over a stone surface with great rapidity.

Many architects object to any cleaning of stone surfaces, believing that a normal amount of weathering improves the appearance of a stone building. There is however a considerable demand for cleaning, and the Bureau of Standards, working with H. H. Dutton, research engineer for the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association, set out to find a method. A concern in Charlottesville, Virginia, had developed the cold steam process for auto cleaning, and this seems to have solved the problem, at least for limestone. Limestone comprises about 45 per cent of the total building stone used in this country, the output being chiefly from the quarries of southern Indiana, when the name comes, although a very similar stone is found in parts of Alabama and Kentucky. The output last year was 12,000,000 cubic feet.

Tests Are Successful.

The first tests of the new process were made recently on some private buildings in Washington. The government is interested in every development of stone building, because so many government buildings are of stone. The new program for $50,000,000 worth of government buildings in Washington, and $115,000,000 worth throughout the country, will involve a great deal of stone construction. Limestone, sandstone, marble and granite are the materials most widely used. The first, while not so hard as granite or marble, is the most workable of stones, as it can be milled, planed, turned on a athe or worked with any tool that will work metal. How long it will last is not definitely known, as it has only been quarried since 1857. Buildings erected with it in 1860 have shown no signs of deteriorating, and stone blocks from the Vanderbilt mansion, recently torn down on Fifth avenue, New York, were brought to the Bureau of Standards and thoroughly tested. They were found of the same durability as new.

The most important test of stone recently made was at the new State Office building at Harrisburg, Pa., where 36 columns of Indiana limestone were installed, the largest in the world. These columns, 34 feet 6 inches high and with a diameter of five feet, were cut at the mill near the quarry, shipped and erected without loss or damage to one of them. The ability to work such great monoliths by machinery is a great step in the use of stone for building. Stone working is now largely done at the mill, and it is seldom that the stone mason with his chisel and mallet is seen working on a building.

The First Division, A. E. F. Memorial in Washington has a monolithic shaft one foot taller than the columns at Harrisburg. Architects and quarryman agree that the limit in size of limestone columns is indefinite, as the stone lies in deposits of great size and without flaws, and can be cut in any direction. The larger pieces involve larger cost, however, and this increases rapidly when sizes get beyond ordinary methods of handling and transportation.

The former theory that stone substitutes, now very numerous, would decrease the use of stone in buildings has not proved true. Stone remains the most desirable of permanent building materials, and while great quantities of substitutes are used in structures where the almost perpetual lasting qualities are not needed, there is more building stone being used in the United States today than ever before. The Arlington Memorial bridge now building in Washington and one of the great stone bridges of the world will be of granite.

The more workable limestone has been used in recent government structures, such as the Veterans' Bureau building and the Department of Interior building. It is also being used for the addition to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing which was put up in temporary form during the war and is being made permanent. The Washington Cathedral, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the Scottish Rite Temple, and the interior of the Lincoln Memorial are of this stone.

Stone Buildings Re-Assembled.

The rapid growth of American cities has produced some interesting examples of the tearing down of stone buildings, something which a few years ago would have been considered out of the question. Like the Vanderbilt mansion in New York, the Bradley mansion on DuPont Circle in Washington has been razed, to make way for stores and offices. The stone work of this house was removed to Newport to go into a house built by the owner in that city. At present a four story stone-faced bank building near the United States Treasury is being demolished, although it is fairly new. Each stone is numbered as it comes down, and shipped to a Virginia city where the building will be reproduced with the same stone. A modern skyscraper will occupy the Washington site.

A new lifting device perfected at the Bureau of Standards is now becoming widely used for stone blocks up to 800 pounds in weight, and permits quicker handling, with access to all faces of the stone by workmen, and less drilling of the blocks to permit lifting devices to hold it. There are now 35 industries working with the Bureau of Standards as research associates, perfecting practical methods and devices with the aid of government scientists, as the Indiana limestone industry is doing with this particular building material. The researches being handled this way range from stockings to steel. The industries contribute the cost of the research work and experiments. Announcements of new discoveries and perfecting of methods and devices are frequent, with consequent economies in many lines of production.

THE PICK OF THE CROWD

A painter living a few miles from a small city in one of the lower Cotton States called up the police judge on the long distance telephone.

"Say, judge," he said, "I just got word that my house boy Jim went to town last night and got in a row and hit another darky with a brick, and was locked up. I need that boy, and I wish as a favor to me you'd let him go with he comes up today before you. If you think he ought to pay a fine let me know what it is tonight at lodge meeting and I'll hand the amount to you."

"All right," answered the judge. "I'm willing to do anything in reason, but you'll have to come in here and pick out your own nigger."

"Lord, man," remonstrated the planter, "I can't take the time off to go into the police station today. I'm as busy as a bird dog right this minute."

"Can't help it," answered his honor. "I can't afford to take any more chances. Here, just the other day, Col. Talbert, down at Palmetto, called me up the same as you've done today and asked me to turn loose one of his hands that was in the calaboose for shooting craps. I agreed to do it, but I plumb forgot the nigger's name, and to make sure of getting the right one and not disappointing Talbert, I had to turn loose every nigger on the docket. There were fourteen of 'em in all—and one of 'em charged with murder, too. It made a lot of talk, and the chief of police kicked about it. If you want your nigger you come get him!"

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Anna Resnick, of Avondale street, when their daughter, Miss Sara, became the bride of Julius Sulkes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sulkes, of Pittsburgh. Rabbi Jacob Kohn, of the B'Nai Jacob synagogue, performed the impressive ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers, palms and ferns, in the presence of 50 guests.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Rebecca Fisher, accompanied on the violin by Alex Fisher, the bridal party took their places. Miss Rebecca Resnick, a sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, while Mrs. Simon Maneloveg, of Woodlawn, Pa., was matron of honor. Julius Savitz, of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride, served as Mr. Sulkes' best man.

The bride was gowned in rosepoint lace over white georgette, in bouffante style. Her bridal veil was of tulle, held in place by a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was associated with her brother in the Resnick Furniture company store.

The maid of honor wore a gown of June rose georgette and a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Maneloveg, matron of honor, was attired in blue georgette and carried roses.

The bridegroom is one of the owners of Sulkes' Manhattan Clothing shoppe.

At 4:30 o'clock a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table, which was centered with a wedding cake, was adorned with flowers and asparagus fern. Places were arranged for 20 guests at the bride's table, while 30 other guests were arranged at other tables.

Brady-Van Fossan Wedding Solemnized In Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, June 28. — Miss Frances Hawthorne Brady, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Grayson Brady, formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Major Ernest Harvey Van Fossan, member of the tax board of appeals, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Fossan, of Lisbon, O., were married in the Church of the Covenant. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, officiated. Afterward the bride and bridegroom held an informal reception in the church.

Major Van Fossan's parents came to Washington for the wedding. Others in the group of relatives were Miss Virginian Van Fossan, of Lisbon, and Mrs. Ernest Hurd, of Maplewood, N. J., sisters of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Brady, of Savannah, Ga., brother and sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, Va., and Judge and Mrs. James Robinson, of Clarksburg.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin of picturesque inspiration, with a long full skirt and with lovely old family lace used on the bodice. The lace outlined the decoltage and formed cuffs to the long sleeves, coming in points over the hands. Her voluminous tulle veil made the train and fell from a coronet of lace which her mother had worn on her wedding day. She carried calla lilies.

Miss Brady was attended by Miss Jean Van Fossan, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, was matron of honor. The former wore a lavender crepe chiffon gown and the latter a similar costume of pink crepe chiffon. Their hats were of horsehair braid — picture models — matching their gowns. They carried sweetpeas in the colors of Phi Psi, the bridegroom's fraternity.

The group of bridemaids included Miss Alma Hawthorne, of Asheville, N. Ca., cousin of the bride; Mrs. John Barnes Milliken, Mrs. Amos Pagter, formerly of Clarksburg; Mrs. Joseph Claffey, formerly of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Louis Montford of Washington.

They wore taffeta frocks in pastel shades—pink, orchid, green, blue and yellow—combined with malines and made with bouffante skirts. Their large horsehair hats, matching their gowns in tone, were trimmed with malines. All carried bouquets of garden flowers.

Johnson Camden Brady, Jr., 5-year-old nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Lisle Smith, who was Major Van Fossan's roommate at college, served as best man, and the ushers were Robert Leland Van Fossan, New York; John Barnes Milliken, Howard LeRoy, Austin C. Walker, Patrick Galleher and Brice Clark, all of Washington.

A male quartet sang the wedding music.

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Anna Resnick, of Avondale street, when their daughter, Miss Sara, became the bride of Julius Sulkes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sulkes, of Pittsburgh. Rabbi Jacob Kohn, of the B'Nai Jacob synagogue, performed the impressive ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers, palms and ferns, in the presence of 50 guests.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Rebecca Fisher, accompanied on the violin by Alex Fisher, the bridal party took their places. Miss Rebecca Resnick, a sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, while Mrs. Simon Maneloveg, of Woodlawn, Pa., was matron of honor. Julius Savitz, of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride, served as Mr. Sulkes' best man.

The bride was gowned in rosepoint lace over white georgette, in bouffante style. Her bridal veil was of tulle, held in place by a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was associated with her brother in the Resnick Furniture company store.

The maid of honor wore a gown of June rose georgette and a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Maneloveg, matron of honor, was attired in blue georgette and carried roses.

The bridegroom is one of the owners of Sulkes' Manhattan Clothing shoppe.

At 4:30 o'clock a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table, which was centered with a wedding cake, was adorned with flowers and asparagus fern. Places were arranged for 20 guests at the bride's table, while 30 other guests were arranged at other tables.

Brady-Van Fossan Wedding Solemnized In Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, June 28. — Miss Frances Hawthorne Brady, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Grayson Brady, formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Major Ernest Harvey Van Fossan, member of the tax board of appeals, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Fossan, of Lisbon, O., were married in the Church of the Covenant. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, officiated. Afterward the bride and bridegroom held an informal reception in the church.

Major Van Fossan's parents came to Washington for the wedding. Others in the group of relatives were Miss Virginian Van Fossan, of Lisbon, and Mrs. Ernest Hurd, of Maplewood, N. J., sisters of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Brady, of Savannah, Ga., brother and sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, Va., and Judge and Mrs. James Robinson, of Clarksburg.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin of picturesque inspiration, with a long full skirt and with lovely old family lace used on the bodice. The lace outlined the decoltage and formed cuffs to the long sleeves, coming in points over the hands. Her voluminous tulle veil made the train and fell from a coronet of lace which her mother had worn on her wedding day. She carried calla lilies.

Miss Brady was attended by Miss Jean Van Fossan, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Johnson Camden Brady, of Norfolk, was matron of honor. The former wore a lavender crepe chiffon gown and the latter a similar costume of pink crepe chiffon. Their hats were of horsehair braid — picture models — matching their gowns. They carried sweetpeas in the colors of Phi Psi, the bridegroom's fraternity.

The group of bridemaids included Miss Alma Hawthornp, of Asheville, N. Ca., cousin of the bride; Mrs. John Barnes Milliken, Mrs. Amos Pagter, formerly of Clarksburg; Mrs. Joseph Claffey, formerly of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Louis Montford of Washington.

They wore taffeta frocks in pastel shades—pink, orchid, green, blue and yellow—combined with malines and made with bouffante skirts. Their large horsehair hats, matching their gowns in tone, were trimmed with malines. All carried bouquets of garden flowers.

Johnson Camden Brady, Jr., 5-year-old nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Lisle Smith, who was Major Van Fossan's roommate at college, served as best man, and the ushers were Robert Leland Van Fossan, New York; John Barnes Milliken, Howard LeRoy, Austin C. Walker, Patrick Galleher and Brice Clark, all of Washington.

A male quartet sang the wedding music.

MEDITERRANEAN COUNTRIES HIT BY EARTHQUAKE

Several Persons are Reported to Have Been Killed.

CRETE SHAKEN

Heavy Damage is Reported in Islands Off Greek Coast.

LONDON, June 28.—Mediterranean countries, and the Mediterranean islands in particular, have been terrorized during the past 24 hours by recurring earthquakes, according to reports received here.

As yet there are no reports which would indicate any widespread damage or any extensive casualty list.

The earthquake area appears to have stretched from southern Italy to India, and its center was apparently in the islands off of the coast of Greece.

Athens Hears Death Reports.

ATHENS, June 28.—Several persons are reported to have been killed in eathquakes which shook Rhodes during the past 24 hours, according to information received here. Serious damage was done to property and many houses are reported to have crumpled up.

The famous Archaeological museum at Canada is reported to have been wrecked by the earthquake.

In Crete the earthquake is said to have been of more than five minutes duration and several separate shocks were felt at various times. Fairly heavy damage to property is reported from Crete.

Heavy damage is also reported in the more sparsely populated areas of the Dedecanese islands, and there are unconfirmed rumors of several deaths.

Georgetown Records Shocks.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Two slight earthquake shocks were registered on the seismograph at Georgetown university early today.

A previous shock, registered yesterday afternoon, was more severe than the two today.

Other Districts Rocked.

ROME, June 28.— Reports of serious earthquakes and panic in southern Italy were officially denied by the government today.

Recurring earthquakes, lasting for a period of more than 30 minutes, were recorded on the seismograph at Faenza observatory, but no damage was reported in Italy.

SINGAPORE, June 28.—Two earthquakes, of 20 seconds duration, were felt here at 10:30 today. The shocks were the most severe for many years, although no extensive damage is reported.

BATAVIA, Dutch East Indies, June 28.—A severe earthquake has been felt in Sumatra.

The population was panic-stricken. No casualties are reported but severe damage was done to many dwelling places.

Three Persons Killed

Cleveland, dived after him, but unsuccessfully. Though he succeeded in grasping the drowning boy four times, he was forced to let go each time.

Three Injured in Crash.

STEUBENVILLE, June 28.—Jefferson county authorities today were probing reports that a watchman was not on duty at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing at Unionport, near here, where three Canton, O., men were seriously injured Sunday when their car was struck by a fast express train.

The injured, who are the Ohio Valley hospital, were reported to have spent a restful night and to be in "very good" condition today. They were:

Jeffery Steel, 43, fractured skull.

Chris Hur, 33, fractured skull.

James Embree, 46, fractured right arm and internal injuries.

The party was enroute from Steubenville to Canton at the time of the accident. Local authorities said today they had not yet located any of the reatives of the men in Canton.

Three Killed at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 28.—Three more names were on the list of traffic deaths today, bringing the total for the year up to 60. Mrs. Judith Moore, 42, was killed Sunday night when her auto stalled on a Baltimore and Ohio crossing at Hartwell. William B. Price, 58, railroad watchman, was killed while trying to push Mrs. Moore's auto from the path of an onrushing passenger flyer. George H. Levi, 58, died of internal injuries received when run over by a truck.

The accident at the Hartwell crossing marked the fifth fatal crash there in two years. Mrs. Moore, president of the Hartwell Women's club, was riding with Mrs. J. N. Alexander. The auto waited for a freight to pass and was motioned forward by Price, police said. The auto stalled on the inbound tracks as the flyer roared down the track. Mrs. Alexander jumped and Mrs. Moore fainted over the wheel. Price was pushing the auto when the crash came. Michael Maloney, Middletown, was conductor on the train.

Levi was run over while picking up a piece of ice. The truck was backing into a private driveway of an ice cream company.

Sixteen other persons were reported injured in traffic accidents over the week-end, none seriously.

Englishmen, Frenchmen, Germans plan their lives, work to get what the plan requires, then retire, and live for a while. In America we plan industriously, every man will tell you what he will do and how he will live, by and by. Later you hear that he is dead—the plan never carried out.

But it is a good thing for the country, and for its men. They were made to work, not to plan a pleasant existence, and the country needs their work, not their leisure.

Plenty of time to retire, in heaven, where no work is done.

IN a sham battle, above New York, our farcicals fleet did wonders, and the defenders won. They usually do win in sham battles.

Some say: "We are rich, and can build as many airships as may be needed when the time comes. Why waste money on models that must soon be obsolete?"

Solon, wisest of the seven, answered that question when Croesus proudly showed him his piles of gold: "Oh, King, if any other come that hath better iron than you, he will be master of all this gold."

If any nation comes flying east or west with better flying machines than ours, that nation will be master of all our gold.

veto or allow the measure to become a law without his signature.

"I will in all probability veto the ordinance," Mayor Benedum declared this morning. "I have it under consideration but will take no action on it for several days. I knew nothing of the proposed repealer until a short time before Saturday night's meeting. The repealer certainly was never approved by the administration."

Action Is Surprise.

Council's repeal of the "no noisy" celebration measure came as a surprise. The special meeting was called by President of Council N. P. Kerr at the request of Service Director J. W. Moore to consider appropriation legislation and "ther business."

The repealer was introduced by Councilman George Hughes, chairman of the ordinance committee, and supported by Members Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole, Herrington and Hayes. None of the six voting for the measure offered any explanation for their "back pedalling" action, indicating that an agreement had been reached before the meeting. Solon Farrall, who voted "nay" upon all roll calls, did not speak.

The ordinance, banning fireworks, was adopted at a stormy session, after the dealers filed a protest with the solons, declaring they would have no opportunity to dispose of the stocks already on hand if the sale and use of pyrotechnics were prohibited. The ordinance was amended banning the use of fireworks, but permitting dealers to dispose of their stocks.

Mayor Issues Permits.

Mayor Benedum today was preparing to issue permits to dealers for the sale of fireworks on July 1, 2, 3 and 4. These permits, which are issued without charge, are required by ordinance and must be issued so long as the sale is notp rohibited. Not more than half a dozen dealers will sell fireworks this year, it is claimed.

An ordinance appropriating $7,200 for the street maintenance and repair fund was also passed on three readings Saturday night. Part of this fund will be used for the grading of Dresden avenue which is now in progress. The remainder will be expended in patching and repairing streets.

Another ordinance, reducing assessments against the property of Louis Groglode for the improvement of Lisbon street, was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules, Councilmen Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole, Hughes, Hayes and Herrington voting in favor of it, and Councilman Thomas Farrall opposing it.

CORONER TO ACT

Police Say Woman Intended to Seek Divorce.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., June 28.—A coroner's jury will meet this afternoon to determine whether E. M. Elliott, wealthy developer and promoter, will be held for trial in connection with the death of his wife, a leading society matron whose skull was crushed on the back steps of their home here Saturday night.

Elliott, who was taken into custody immediately after his wife's death, was released last night from the county jail at Clearwater by Sheriff Roy Booth under bond of $25,000. Elliott's 20-year old son Munson, his daughter Madeline and three negro servants were also held as witnesses but with the exception of the maid all have been released.

No charge has been made against Elliott, bond being set only to guarantee his appearance as a material witness, according to police.

Negro Maid's Story.

Elliott told police his wife was entering the back door of their home late Saturday afternoon when she fell down the steps and struck her head against the pavement, receiving fatal injuries. Annie Jadson, the Negro maid, however, told police that "the butler saw Mr. Elliott throw his wife out the back door.

Police officials today asserted that Elliott was enraged over his wife's move to obtain a divorce and had attempted to keep her away from the house by locking the front door and attempting to block the rear as she went around to the back of the house.

Elliott, formerly of Chicago, is widely known in Florida as the man who managed the finances of the Gandy bridge between St. Petersburg and Tampa over Tampa Bay. He is also prominent in realty circles here and in Pensacola and in Jacksonville. Mrs. Elliott was one of the best known and most popular society matrons in St. Petersburg.

Elliott sprang into prominence last year when he sold a part of his real estate holdings at a price reported to be $10,000,000 after creditors had attempted to throw him into bankruptcy.

He again broke into print when the government accused him of being several hundred thousand dollars short in his income tax return. The case was settled.

identified, stripped to his underwear, dived toward Miss Kibble, and towed her to the shore. The girl, who was unconscious, was placed in an automobile and accompanied by Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, who arrived in the meantime and a friend, she was rushed to the hospital.

Search for Tackett's body was immediately started. McFadden located the body with hooks, almost in the exact place where the heroic young man disappeared.

Father to Claim Body.

Fireman Edward Stivason and volunteers worked over Tackett's body for about a half hour in an effort to revive him. The body was still warm when recovered. The tank of oxygen, used by the pulmotor, was used before hope for resuscitating him was abandoned. The body was removed to the Sturgis undertaking establishment.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, returned a verdict of "accidental drowning" at an inquest this morning.

Tackett, who was employed by J. E. Gamble, brick contractor, roomed at the home of Frank Hutchinson, 599 Railroad street, a stone's throw from where he was drowned. His father, J. M. Tackett, was located at New Boston, Ohio, last night and was to arrive here today to claim the body.

He was unmarried. He is said to have a sister, Mrs. Virginia Thomas, living in Wellsville.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. William Buxton and family, wish to express sincere thanks to friends, neighbors, Reverend Caulk and Reverend Roberts, who so kindly assisted during bereavement of husband and loved one, William H. Buxton.

Father Cuts Boy's Throat, Then Slashes Own; Lad Dies

Dayton Youngster Bleeds to Death in Tragedy Blamed on Proposed Cherry-Picking Trip to Darke County.

DAYTON, June 28. — Roy Denver Hill, 6 years old, is dead today as the result of an attempted murder and suicide by his father, Albert Leroy Hill, 48, yesterday, after a family quarrel.

Hill cut the boy's throat with a razor blade and then cut his own throat with a small pocket knife, while police detectives were attempting to break down a barricaded door leading to the attic of the Hill home, where the tragedy took place.

The boy bled to death half an hour later. Hill was taken to the St. Elizabeth hospital, where his wounds were treated, and he then was locked in central police station pending arraignment today.

The tragedy had its inception, according to Hill, in a proposed trip to Darke county yesterday to pick cherries. According to Mrs. Hill "it had been a continuous quarrel."

"I aimed to take my boy's life and my own," Hill told Assistant Prosecutor Galloway. "I took my boy's life to save him from ruin. Neither one of us could live in peace."

"What on earth—" Bee began again, taking in the suitcase and that comical bag. But Delia hadn't yet arrived at words. She'd always been inarticulate, vague, an absorbed reader, a fevered scribbler of verse, with no dimmest sense of hour or place.

"I meant to write you." It was a rather frightened little voice. "I did mean to.' But of course she hadn't. She couldn't be definite. She giggled musically, then sobered in a still, scared way, gazing out at the square. "So this is Greenwich Village!"

"It certainly is, dear. My, but I'm glad to see you. What have you been doing with yourself these two years and more?"

"Secretary. Yes, in business.'

"In Worcester?'

Delia nodded. "Oh, I'm a practical person now." Humor that, "But, Bee, I just couldn't stand it."

"It's hard to imagine you standing it."

"Oh, but I can do it. Honest I can. They begged me not to leave."

"Oh, you left?"

"We all knew you would write, of course.' Bee looked over the clipped-out poems. "What did these appear in—not magazines?"

"Yes." A giggle. "And some newspapers. I couldn't help thinking there might be a place for me down here. I've had some wonderful letters from editors. And it was so hard up there—oh, home and everything!—that I just couldn't stand it any longer. Oh, a lot of things. A man's been trying to marry me, and my people kept at me about it. They were determined to get me safely married." ("People are like that," Bee put in sapiently, with a brisk nod.) "So finally—well, here I am. I've never been in New York before."

"You mean you've just plumped in here?"

Delia's fringed lids fluttered. "That's about it. Oh, I suppose it's risky. I haven't got much money. Just the little I could save from week to week. And everybody says there's nothing in poetry, no sort of living, but—well, I thought I could pick up some kind of work while I'm making my way. And I don't care how I live. There ought to be a hall-bedroom somewhere for me." A wan look crept into the elfin face. "I thought—I thought you might help me find a place. But I lost your address. It was awfully careless. I knew it was Christopher street right near Sheridan Square. Betty told me about you last year. So I got this far. And now here you are. Pretty wonderful, isn't it!" She had certainly found her tongue. And having found it, she talked nervously on. "Betty told me you'd gone on the stage." ("Not very far on," remarked Bee, soberly.) "That must be wonderful. Oh, how I'd love to do that! But I haven't a shred of talent for it. I'm afraid it's going to be writing or nothing for me."

"Do your people mind your coming?'

Delia slowly nodded. "It was a good deal of an uprooting. But my letters helped. And then I'm afraid I—well, just ran out. The breaking point wasn't far off. I had to do something."

"Oh, I didn't mean that. No! I only want you to advise me a little. Help me find a place to live. You do turn to some one, you know."

But Bee was on her feet and had the suitcase. "Come on. It's just over here." She led the way out through the farther end of the enclosure. "You'll love Louise. She's the girl I live with. She works in a big store uptown. In the decorating department. One of these days, she's bound to be a regular interior decorator on her own. We're the more or less original two female musketeers, Lou and I. But of course there ought to be three of us."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 28. — Industrial stocks followed an irregular trend in an inactive and featureless market in the early trading today, short covering and investment buying of a few of the motor stocks and oil stocks resulted in moderate gains in the market leaders, but elsewhere the market was dull and price changes were narrow.

Some of the market's hesitancy was attributed to the present uncertainty with respect to agricultural bills and other measures pending before congress before final adjournment. The closing sessions of congress are generally rated as "bearish" in the Wall street district, because of the possibility or rushing through undesirable legislation.

The may net income reports of New York Central, Pennsylvania and other large railroad systems, issued today, were fully up to expectations and show a gratifying increase in income as compared with last month and the corresponding month of last year.

Stocks of oil companies mentioned in recent murder gossip were in fairly large demand, with Skelly Oil advancing to above 37 for the first time in its history. Mexican Seaboard was a favorite among the low priced oils, reports stating that the company had opened up some profitable fields in Texas. Commerce reports stated that May gasoline exports were the largest in history.

Hudson Motors was strong in the face of an unfavorable second quarter earnings statement, showing income of only $2.49 a share. Willys Overland and General Motors sold fractionally higher. Rails and coppers were inactive. Call money 4½ per cent.

SLUSH INQUIRY

Investigators, However, Hold no State Commissions.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Governor Gifford Pinchot has maintained a secret staff of private detectives to investigate prohibition enforcement conditions in Pennsylvania for the last four years, through funds furnished by the W. C. T. U., Major William B. Wright, Jr., the governor's special enforcement counsel, told the senate slush fund committee today at its inquiry into Pennsylvania's recent $3,000,000 senatorial primary.

The secret investigators, holding no commission under the state and paid out of private funds, reported upon prohibition violations instigated raids and waged war upon bootleg rings, Wright told the committee. None of the investigators had any power to make arrests and so were compelled to call in the state police whenever arrests were made.

This secret organization has spent $110,000 in its work to date, Wright testified, while the W. C. T. U. raised a total of $130,904 to finance it.

MEDITERRANEAN COUNTRIES HIT BY EARTHQUAKE

Several Persons are Reported to Have Been Killed.

CRETE SHAKEN

Heavy Damage is Reported in Islands Off Greek Coast.

LONDON, June 28.—Mediterranean countries, and the Mediterranean islands in particular, have been terrorized during the past 24 hours by recurring earthquakes, according to reports received here.

As yet there are no reports which would indicate any widespread damage or any extensive casualty list.

The earthquake area appears to have stretched from southern Italy to India, and its center was apparently in the islands off of the coast of Greece.

Athens Hears Death Reports.

ATHENS, June 28.—Several persons are reported to have been killed in earthquakes which shook Rhodes during the past 24 hours, according to information received here. Serious damage was done to property and many houses are reported to have crumpled up.

The famous Archaeological museum at Canada is reported to have been wrecked by the earthquake.

In Crete the earthquake is said to have been of more than five minutes duration and several separate shocks were felt at various times. Fairly heavy damage to property is reported from Crete.

Heavy damage is also reported in the more sparsely populated areas of the Dedecanese islands, and there are unconfirmed rumors of several deaths.

Georgetown Records Shocks.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Two slight earthquake shocks were registered on the seismograph at Georgetown university early today.

A previous shock, registered yesterday afternoon, was more severe than the two today.

Other Districts Rocked.

ROME, June 28.— Reports of serious earthquakes and panic in southern Italy were officially denied by the government today.

Recurring earthquakes, lasting for a period of more than 30 minutes, were recorded on the seismograph at Faenza observatory, but no damage was reported in Italy.

SINGAPORE, June 28.—Two earthquakes, of 20 seconds duration, were felt here at 10:30 today. The shocks were the most severe for many years, although no extensive damage is reported.

BATAVIA, Dutch East Indies, June 28.—A severe earthquake has been felt in Sumatra.

The population was panic stricken.

No casualties are reported but severe damage was done to many dwelling places.

Three Persons Killed

Cleveland, dived after him, but unsuccessfully. Though he succeeded in grasping the drowning boy four times, he was forced to let go each time.

Three Injured in Crash.

STEUBENVILLE, June 28.—Jefferson county authorities today were probing reports that a watchman was not on duty at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing at Unionport, near here, where three Canton, O., men were seriously injured Sunday when their car was struck by a fast express train.

The injured, who are the Ohio Valley hospital, were reported to have spent a restful night and to be in "very good" condition today. They were:

Jeffery Steel, 43, fractured skull.

Chris Hur, 33, fractured skull.

The party was enroute from Steubenville to Canton at the time of the accident. Local authorities said today they had not yet located any of the reatives of the men in Canton.

Three Killed at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 28.—Three more names were on the list of traffic deaths today, bringing the total for the year up to 60. Mrs. Judith Moore, 42, was killed Sunday night when her auto stalled on a Baltimore and Ohio crossing at Hartwell. William B. Price, 58, railroad watchman, was killed while trying to push Mrs. Moore's auto from the path of an onrushing passenger flyer. George H. Levi, 58, died of internal injuries received when run over by a truck.

The accident at the Hartwell crossing marked the fifth fatal crash there in two years. Mrs. Moore, president of the Hartwell Women's club, was riding with Mrs. J. N. Alexander. The auto waited for a freight to pass and was motioned forward by Price, police said. The auto stalled on the inbound tracks as the flyer roared down the track. Mrs. Alexander jumped and Mrs. Moore fainted over the wheel. Price was pushing the auto when the crash came. Michael Maloney, Middletown, was conductor on the train.

Levi was run over while picking up a piece of ice. The truck was backing into a private driveway of an ice cream company.

Sixteen other persons were reported injured in traffic accidents over the week-end, none seriously.

Englishmen, Frenchmen, Germans plan their lives, work to get what the plan requires, then retire, and live for a while. In America we plan industriously, every man will tell you what he will do and how he will live, by and by. Later you hear that he is dead—the plan never carried out.

But it is a good thing for the country, and for its men. They were made to work, not to plan a pleasant existence, and the country needs their work, not their leisure.

Plenty of time to retire, in heaven, where no work is done.

Ordinance Repealed

veto or allow the measure to become a law without his signature.

"I will in all probability veto the ordinance," Mayor Benedum declared this morning. "I have it under consideration but will take no action on it for several days. I knew nothing of the proposed repealer until a short time before Saturday night's meeting. The repealer certainly was never approved by the administration."

Action Is Surprise.

Council's repeal of the "no noisy" celebration measure came as a surprise. The special meeting was called by Presidfent of Council N. P. Kerr at the request of Service Director J. W. Moore to consider appropriation legislation and "ther business."

The repealer was introduced by Councilman George Hughes, chairman of the ordinance committee, and supported by Members Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole, Herrington and Hayes. None of the six voting for the measure offered any explanation for their "back pedalling" action, indicating that an agreement had been reached before the meeting. Solon Farrall, who voted "nay" upon all roll calls, did not speak.

The ordinance, banning fireworks, was adopted at a stormy session, after the dealers filed a protest with the solons, declaring they would have no opportunity to dispose of the stocks already on hand if the sale and use of pyrotechnics were prohibited. The ordinance was amended banning the use of fireworks, but permitting dealers to dispose of their stocks.

Mayor Issues Permits.

Mayor Benedum today was preparing to issue permits to dealers for the sale of fireworks on July 1, 2, 3 and 4. These permits, which are issued without charge, are required by ordinance and must be issued so long as the sale is notp rohibited. Not more than half a dozen dealers will sell fireworks this year, it is claimed.

An ordinance appropriating $7,200 for the street maintenance and repair fund was also passed on three readings Saturday night. Part of this fund will be used for the grading of Dresden avenue which is now in progress. The remainder will be expended in patching and repairing streets.

Another ordinance, reducing assessments against the property of Louis Groglode for the improvement of Lisbon street, was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules, Councilmen Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole, Hughes, Hayes and Herrington voting in favor of it, and Councilman Thomas Farrall opposing it.

CORONER TO ACT

Police Say Woman Intended to Seek Divorce.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., June 28.—A coroner's jury will meet this afternoon to determine whether E. M. Elliott, wealthy developer and promoter, will be held for trial in connection with the death of his wife, a leading society matron whose skull was crushed on the back steps of their home here Saturday night.

Elliott, who was taken into custody immediately after his wife's death, was released last night from the county jail at Clearwater by Sheriff Roy Booth under bond of $25,000. Police officials today asserted that Elliott was enraged over his wife's move to obtain a divorce and had attempted to keep her away from the house by locking the front door and attempting to block the rear as she went around to the back of the house.

"What on earth—" Bee began again, taking in the suitcase and that comical bag. But Delia hadn't yet arrived at words. She'd always been inarticulate, vague, an absorbed reader, a fevered scribbler of verse, with no dimmest sense of hour or place.

"I meant to write you." It was a rather frightened little voice. "I did mean to.' But of course she hadn't. She couldn't be definite. She giggled musically, then sobered in a still, scared way, gazing out at the square. "So this is Greenwich Village!"

"It certainly is, dear. My, but I'm glad to see you. What have you been doing with yourself these two years and more?"

"Secretary. Yes, in business.'

"In Worcester?'

Delia nodded. "Oh, I'm a practical person now." Humor that, "But, Bee, I just couldn't stand it."

"It's hard to imagine you standing it."

"Oh, but I can do it. Honest I can. They begged me not to leave."

"We all knew you would write, of course.' Bee looked over the clipped-out poems. "What did these appear in—not magazines?"

"Yes." A giggle. "And some newspapers. I couldn't help thinking there might be a place for me down here. I've had some wonderful letters from editors. And it was so hard up there—oh, home and everything!—that I just couldn't stand it any longer. Oh, a lot of things. A man's been trying to marry me, and my people kept at me about it. They were determined to get me safely married." ("People are like that," Bee put in sapiently, with a brisk nod.) "So finally—well, here I am. I've never been in New York before."

Delia's fringed lids fluttered. "That's about it. Oh, I suppose it's risky. I haven't got much money. Just the little I could save from week to week. And everybody says there's nothing in poetry, no sort of living, but—well, I thought I could pick up some kind of work while I'm making my way. And I don't care how I live. There ought to be a hall-bedroom somewhere for me." A wan look crept into the elfin face. "I thought—I thought you might help me find a place. But I lost your address. It was awfully careless. I knew it was Christopher street right near Sheridan Square. Betty told me about you last year. So I got this far. And now here you are. Pretty wonderful, isn't it!" She had certainly found her tongue. And having found it, she talked nervously on. "Betty told me you'd gone on the stage." ("Not very far on," remarked Bee, soberly.) "That must be wonderful. Oh, how I'd love to do that! But I haven't a shred of talent for it. I'm afraid it's going to be writing or nothing for me."

"Do your people mind your coming?'

Delia slowly nodded. "It was a good deal of an uprooting. But my letters helped. And then I'm afraid I—well, just ran out. The breaking point wasn't far off. I had to do something."

"Oh, I didn't mean that. No! I only want you to advise me a little. Help me find a place to live. You do turn to some one, you know."

But Bee was on her feet and had the suitcase. "Come on. It's just over here." She led the way out through the farther end of the enclosure. "You'll love Louise. She's the girl I live with. She works in a big store uptown. In the decorating department. One of these days, she's bound to be a regular interior decorator on her own. We're the more or less original two female musketeers, Lou and I. But of course there ought to be three of us."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 28. —Industrial stocks followed an irregular trend in an inactive and featureless market in the early trading today, short covering and investment buying of a few of the motor stocks and oil stocks resulted in moderate gains in the market leaders, but elsewhere the market was dull and price changes were narrow.

Some of the market's hesitancy was attributed to the present uncertainty with respect to agricultural bills and other measures pending before congress before final adjournment. The closing sessions of congress are generally rated as "bearish" in the Wall street district, because of the possibility or rushing through undesirable legislation.

The may net income reports of New York Central, Pennsylvania and other large railroad systems, issued today, were fully up to expectations and show a gratifying increase in income as compared with last month and the corresponding month of last year.

Stocks of oil companies mentioned in recent murder gossip were in fairly large demand, with Skelly Oil advancing to above 37 for the first time in its history. Mexican Seaboard was a favorite among the low priced oils, reports stating that the company had opened up some profitable fields in Texas. Commerce reports stated that May gasoline exports were the largest in history.

Hudson Motors was strong in the face of an unfavorable second quarter earnings statement, showing income of only $2.49 a share. Willys Overland and General Motors sold fractionally higher. Rails and coppers were inactive. Call money 4½ per cent.

PINCHOT HAS SECRET STAFF OF DRY AGENTS

SLUSH INQUIRY

Investigators, However, Hold no State Commissions.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Governor Gifford Pinchot has maintained a secret staff of private detectives to investigate prohibition enforcement conditions in Pennsylvania for the last four years, through funds furnished by the W. C. T. U., Major William B. Wright, Jr., the governor's special enforcement counsel, told the senate slush fund committee today at its inquiry into Pennsylvania's recent $3,000,000 senatorial primary.

The secret investigators, holding no commission under the state and paid out of private funds, reported upon prohibition violations instigated raids and waged war upon bootleg rings, Wright told the committee. None of the investigators had any power to make arrests and so were compelled to call in the state police whenever arrests were made.

This secret organization has spent $110,000 in its work to date, Wright testified, while the W. C. T. U. raised a total of $130,904 to finance it.

Father Cuts Boy's Throat, Then Slashes Own; Lad Dies

Dayton Youngster Bleeds to Death in Tragedy Blamed on Proposed Cherry-Picking Trip to Darke County.

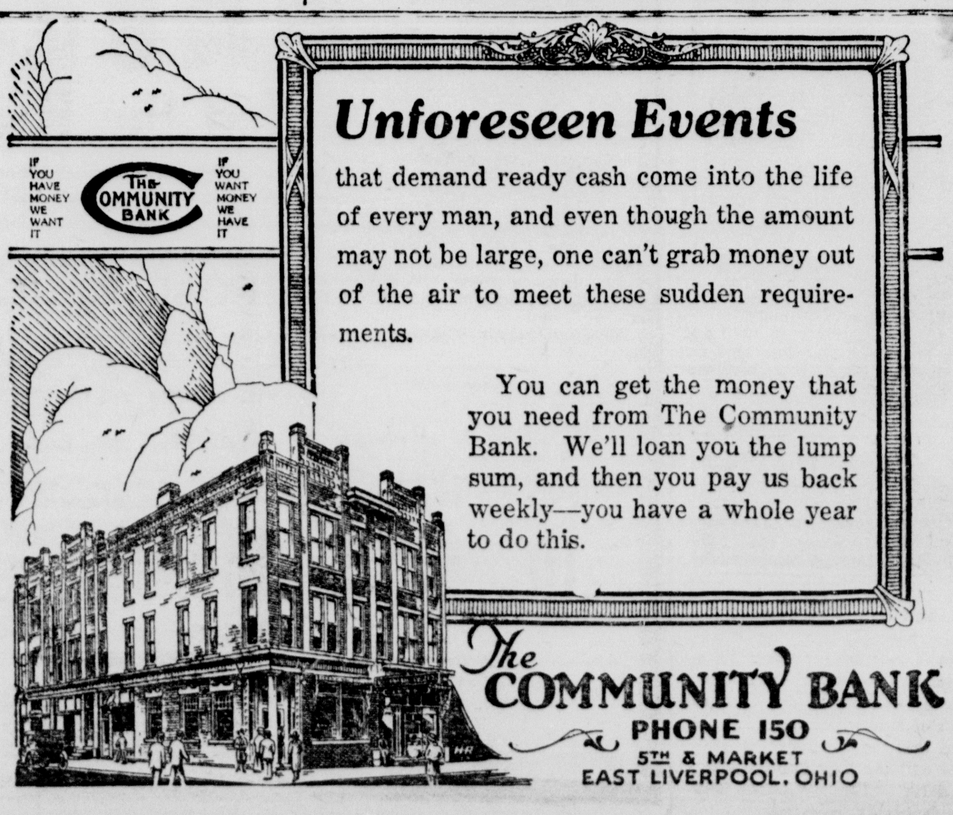

DAYTON, June 28. — Roy Denver Hill, 6 years old, is dead today as the result of an attempted murder and suicide by his father, Albert Leroy Hill, 48, yesterday, after a family quarrel.

Hill cut the boy's throat with a razor blade and then cut his own throat with a small pocket knife, while police detectives were attempting to break down a barricaded door leading to the attic of the Hill home, where the tragedy took place.

The boy bled to death half an hour later. Hill was taken to the St. Elizabeth hospital, where his wounds were treated, and he then was locked in central police station pending arraignment today.

The tragedy had its inception, according to Hill, in a proposed trip to Darke county yesterday to pick cherries. According to Mrs. Hill "it had been a continuous quarrel."

"I aimed to take my boy's life and my own," Hill told Assistant Prosecutor Galloway. "I took my boy's life to save him from ruin. Neither one of us could live in peace."

CLEARFIELD, Pa.—The bees of Clearfield county traveled more than 411,000,000 miles during the past year in their work of producing 84,308 pounds of honey, according to estimates made by officials of the industry. This distance would be the equivalent of two round trips to the sun.

Bee experts declared that one bee collects one five-thousandth of a pound of honey on each flight and the average flight is one and a half miles, which means that one bee to have collected all the honey produced in the county during the year would have covered a mileage of 411,940,000.

The work was distributed among the bees of 3,700 hives with an average population of 20,000 bees, or a total of 7,440,000. Thus the flight of each bee for the year was slightly less than sixty miles.

INVENTORS QUARREL ABOUT PATENT ON METHOD TO DEVELOP VACCINES

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Whether one of the outstanding medical discoveries of the past ten years is to become "public property" or remain in the control of one man hinges on the outcome of a Federal court suit here, in which David Crowther, University of Minnesota mechanic, is attempting to disprove the claims of Dr. Winford P. Larson, university bacteriologist that the latter originated a process for the development of vaccines.

Crowther declared on the stand in Judge Sanborn's court here that he, and not Dr. Larson, discovered a device built of chrome steel which was successfully used for crushing bacteria. The device was perfected in 1918 and Dr. Larson was about to announce it as a gift to humanity when he learned that Crowther, who worked in the dental laboratory constructing apparatus for research work, had obtained a patent.

Dr. Larson immediately contested Crowther's claim and the present suit is an outgrowth of a decision by the Federal court in the District of Columbia, awarding the patent rights to Dr. Larson.

MISSOURI WILL MARK BALLOTS ON DRY ISSUE

Attitude of Candidates in August Primaries is Sought.

W. C. T. U. ACTIVE

Men Running for Office Asked Seven Questions.

ST. LOUIS — Although prohibition was not expected to be a paramount issue in the August primary in Missouri, the battle lines are being drawn tightly by both the wet and dry forces in the state so that the voters will know the position of all candidates on the question that they may mark their ballots accordingly if they wish.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union is out actively in the field already to see that no candidate for state legislature, congress, or the United States senate will dodge the issue entirely.

A set of seven questions sent out to each of the candidates who have filed for the primary which, if answered, will give the candidate's position as to how moist or arid he may be.

Wets Seek Vote.

Countering the activities of the temperance union, the forces of the Missouri Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment, with eyes looking ahead to the November election, expect to have the ballot contain the question:

"Do you favor repeal of the Missouri state dry law?"

The association is circulating petitions throughout the state asking for signers to a petition which will demand a vote on the question next fall. Recently they announced they had practically one-third the required number of names (60,000) or 5 per cent of the vote for supreme court judge at the last election in two-thirds of the state's 16 congressional districts.

The "wet" forces say there is no doubt but that question will come to a vote.

Anticipating that the "wets" are not amiss in making this prediction, the temperance union's questionnaire will ask each candidate in the state the following:

The Questionnaire.

1. Do you favor strengthening the Volstead law?
2. Are you an observer of the law?
3. Will you defend it by voice and vote if it is referred?
4. If elected to the State Legislature, will you vote for amendments to strengthen the present law? (This question to candidates for the legislature.)
5. Would you assess maximum penalties for violation?
6. Will you lend assistance to enforcement of all laws as well as dry laws?
7. What is your attitude on the Eighteenth Amendment?

An indirect vote on the prohibition question might be seen in the candidacy of Congressman Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis for the United States Senate. Hawes long has been identified with the "wet" forces and his campaign no doubt will be waged to some extent on this issue and likewise fought by the dry forces.

Hawes will open his political guns in Missouri on the eve of Independence Day when he will make an address at Excelsior Springs. While he will discuss the farm relief question, the World Court and other issues he also is said to be prepared to tell the voters that he will work for a limited modification of the Volstead law to permit the manufacture and sale of beer not intoxicating "in fact."

CLEARFIELD, Pa.—The bees of Clearfield county traveled more than 411,000,000 miles during the past year in their work of producing 84,308 pounds of honey, according to estimates made by officials of the industry. This distance would be the equivalent of two round trips to the sun.

Bee experts declared that one bee collects one five-thousandth of a pound of honey on each flight and the average flight is one and a half miles, which means that one bee to have collected all the honey produced in the county during the year would have covered a mileage of 411,940,000.

The work was distributed among the bees of 3,700 hives with an average population of 20,000 bees, or a total of 7,440,000. Thus the flight of each bee for the year was slightly less than sixty miles.

INVENTORS QUARREL ABOUT PATENT ON METHOD TO DEVELOP VACCINES

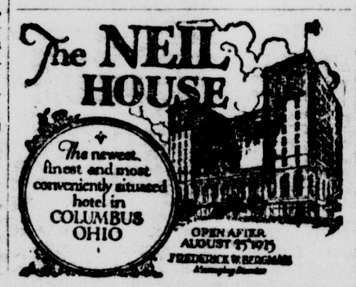

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Whether one of the outstanding medical discoveries of the past ten years is to become "public property" or remain in the control of one man hinges on the outcome of a Federal court suit here, in which David Crowther, University of Minnesota mechanic, is attempting to disprove the claims of Dr. Winford P. Larson, university bacteriologist that the latter originated a process for the development of vaccines.

Crowther declared on the stand in Judge Sanborn's court here that he, and not Dr. Larson, discovered a device built of chrome steel which was successfully used for crushing bacteria. The device was perfected in 1918 and Dr. Larson was about to announce it as a gift to humanity when he learned that Crowther, who worked in the dental laboratory constructing apparatus for research work, had obtained a patent.

Dr. Larson immediately contested Crowther's claim and the present suit is an outgrowth of a decision by the Federal court in the District of Columbia, awarding the patent rights to Dr. Larson.

MISSOURI WILL MARK BALLOTS ON DRY ISSUE

Attitude of Candidates in August Primaries is Sought.

W. C. T. U. ACTIVE

Men Running for Office Asked Seven Questions.

ST. LOUIS — Although prohibition was not expected to be a paramount issue in the August primary in Missouri, the battle lines are being drawn tightly by both the wet and dry forces in the state so that the voters will know the position of all candidates on the question that they may mark their ballots accordingly if they wish.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union is out actively in the field already to see that no candidate for state legislature, congress, or the United States senate will dodge the issue entirely.

A set of seven questions sent out to each of the candidates who have filed for the primary which, if answered, will give the candidate's position as to how moist or arid he may be.

Wets Seek Vote.

Countering the activities of the temperance union, the forces of the Missouri Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment, with eyes looking ahead to the November election, expect to have the ballot contain the question:

"Do you favor repeal of the Missouri state dry law?"

The association is circulating petitions throughout the state asking for signers to a petition which will demand a vote on the question next fall. Recently they announced they had practically one-third the required number of names (60,000) or 5 per cent of the vote for supreme court judge at the last election in two-thirds of the state's 16 congressional districts.

The "wet" forces say there is no doubt but that question will come to a vote.

Anticipating that the "wets" are not amiss in making this prediction, the temperance union's questionnaire will ask each candidate in the state the following:

The Questionnaire.

1. Do you favor strengthening the Volstead law?
2. Are you an observer of the law?
3. Will you defend it by voice and vote if it is referred?
4. If elected to the State Legislature, will you vote for amendments to strengthen the present law? (This question to candidates for the legislature.)
5. Would you assess maximum penalties for violation?
6. Will you lend assistance to enforcement of all laws as well as dry laws?
7. What is your attitude on the Eighteenth Amendment?

An indirect vote on the prohibition question might be seen in the candidacy of Congressman Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis for the United States Senate. Hawes long has been identified with the "wet" forces and his campaign no doubt will be waged to some extent on this issue and likewise fought by the dry forces.

Hawes will open his political guns in Missouri on the eve of Independence Day when he will make an address at Excelsior Springs. While he will discuss the farm relief question, the World Court and other issues he also is said to be prepared to tell the voters that he will work for a limited modification of the Volstead law to permit the manufacture and sale of beer not intoxicating "in fact."

ALL-STAR CAST AT CERAMIC

Tom Moore Featured in Pola Negri Farce.

The "luck of the Irish" has always followed Tom Moore.

Tom is diffident about commenting on his obvious good qualities, his proven ability, or even his rare fortune. But several of the instances where Irish luck kept him in clover were related by Stuart Holmes, between scenes of "Good and Naughty," Pola Negri's latest Paramount starring picture, which comes to the Ceramic theatre, today.

Moore is Miss Negri's leading man in that production and Holmes plays one of the principal roles. Inasmuch as it had been ten years since the two had appeared together, there was considerable reminiscencing.

"Tom and I got off a train from New Orleans at the Pennsylvania station one day," Holmes recounted. "He owned two thin dimes. I had nothing. We were wondering what luxuries twenty cents would purchase when Tom was stopped by a man who expressed admiration for a whalebone cane he was carrying.

"Well, Tom sold the cane for $5 and we proceeded happily on our way. In the next block Tom found a diamond stick-pin on the sidewalk. He pawned it for $15.00 and the $20.20 lasted until we both got work."

Incidentally Moore and Holmes both broke into pictures at the same time and collaborated in writing a scenario for their initial appearance. They joined the Kalem company in New York and were sent to New Orleans to make a one-reel film. Discovering that the director could not begin work having no scenario, they wrote one for him.

Not the least bit of Tom's Irish luck was his being signed as Pola Negri's leading man in "Good and Naughty." Miss Negri and her director, Malcolm St. Clair, puzzled over the problem of a suitable lead for two weeks. One morning the star and the director rushed toward each other with beaming smiles.

"I know just the man," said St. Clair.

"I've thought of one, too," said Negri.

And by strange coincidence they both burst forth at the same time with the name:

"TOM MOORE."

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

TAX COLLECTION HITS HIGH MARK

Annual Budgets Will be Filed Within Next Two Weeks.

Although June taxes continue to be paid into the office of County Treasurer Jo Pike, the total volume of the collection will not be known until reports have been received from those offices have had duplicates.

It is known, however, that the June collection will be larger than in 1925 because of the fact that the duplicate was larger. This is a matter of natural growth of the county.

More taxes are received in December than June, because many taxpayers at that time pay the tax for the year instead of splitting their amounts into two payments. Probably a month will elapse before the total amount of the June collection will be definitely known.

Township trustees and other taxing districts in the county are now preparing their budgets for the next fiscal year, and these are to be filed with County Auditor Elmer E. Walker within the next few weeks. The amount of money sought through these budgets will determine the rate for the tax payable next December and June 1927.

Certain school districts in the county are seeking additional funds for next year, it has been intimated, but whether it will be possible to allow these wants will not be known until after the requirements of other funds have been worked out.

With many new properties being added to the tax duplicate for 1927, it is very likely that the grand duplicate for next year will be larger than that for 1926, and this in turn will result in a larger volume of receipts in the office of the County treasurer.

VISITING JUDGE TO BE ASSIGNED

Application has been made by Clerk of Courts Frank Baliantine to Chief Justice Marshall for the assignment of a jurist to Columbiana county for Thursday and Friday.

It has been made known that Judge Jay G. Paisley of Steubenville will be available for assignment to this county, and it may follow he will be notified to preside here during these two days.

A number of important court matters have accumulated since Judge Irving Carpenter has returned to Norwalk, and these are to be given consideration by the next visiting jurist.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to John Driscoll, a millwright residing at Leetonia and Miss Maude Weikart, a school teacher residing at Leetonia, and are to be married by the Rev. Wykoff at Leetonia.

State Will Receive Large Amount From Federal Road Fund

During his visit at the office of the state highway department at Columbus last week, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was informed that the federal road raid appreipriation for Ohio during the coming fiscal year will total $3,500,000. The total federal road aid appropriation for the United States has been placed at $75,000.

How much federal aid money will be appropriated for use in Columbiana county has not been determined, as the budget will not be worked up by the state highway department until later in the season.

County commissioners have not determined the volume of new construction work for 1927 yet, but this proposition will be considered by the board before very long. As a matter of fact, there will be no alteration of the major road program as determined upon last year, and before the approval of the $950,000 road bond issue last November. These major projects will be the first contracts to be awarded by the state highway department.

Township trustees, it is said, are also interested in the extension of local road work under the provisions of the Green law, but these roads are not included in any work that come under the supervision of the county commissioners. The township program has been approved by the commissioners according to the records filed with that office by the various township trustees, but the improvement of these projects lies entirely in the hands of the trustees.

VALUABLE FARM EXHIBIT PLACED

Examples of the damage that is done by the corn borer have been received by County Agent Floyd Lower of the County Farm Bureau from the state extension service department at Columbus, and these are to be preserved at the Lisbon office of the Farm bureau for the inspection and benefit of producers.

The examples are backed with white cotton and are under glass. Ears of corn have been cleverly cut in half longways, showing the corn borer digging its way through the center of the ear, also the male and female moth from which the egg comes that produces the borer.

The exhibit is one of the most interesting of the character ever received at the office of the farm bureau, and at the suggestion of Mr. Lower, all producers of corn are urged to visit this office and inspect the exhibit.

Establishes Record.

County Agent Floyd Lower has been informed by the Holstein-Friesian association that the cow Queen Bessie Pietertje Ormsby in a long time test is credited with 26,895.3 pounds of milk containing 1,095.26 pounds of butterfat. The test was over a period of 365 days. The cow was owned by C. L. Spaulding, Warren, Minn., and during the test was sold to R. V. Rasmussen, of Deerfield, Ill., where the test was completed.

FRIENDS MEETING IS SCHEDULED

Within a few weeks the program for the yearly meeting of the Friends church at Damascus will be announced. Some preliminary work on the program has already been taken up by the Rev. John Pennington of Damascus.

Last year the yearly meeting house was improved, the outside of the building having been repainted and electric lights installed. The attendance at this meeting in 1925 was the largest in the history of the denomination, and on account of the proposed program this year, a still larger crowd is being anticipated.

The meeting will open the last week in August and continue over the last Sunday in the month.

Children's Day Observed.

Children's day programs were featured in two Lisbon churches Sunday evening, at the Christian church, of which the Rev. R. J. Bennett is the pastor and at the First Reformed church of which the Rev. O. J. Harvil is the minister. Vocal and instrumental music and recitations were featured at both services.

Improving Road.

Farmers residing along the East Carmel-Achortown road are contributing labor, while the Middleton township trustee have put in $500 and the state $1,000 under the provisions of the Green law for the improvement of this road.

Grading will soon be finished and the road is to be given a slag surface. The completion of this road will give the Rogers district an improved outlet eastward.

Farm Efficiency Increased.

From 1910 to 1920 American farm labor increased in efficiency about 22.5 percent for, although the number of farm workers decreased in that time 9 per cent, the crop production increased 11 per cent. Greater use of power and modern machinery is largely responsible, of course, and it is said that the average farmer used five times as much machinery as he did 50 years ago.

Father Aids Police to Nab Elder Son To Save Younger Boy From Crime

TAX COLLECTION HITS HIGH MARK

Annual Budgets Will be Filed Within Next Two Weeks.

Although June taxes continue to be paid into the office of County Treasurer Jo Pike, the total volume of the collection will not be known until reports have been received from those offices have had duplicates.

It is known, however, that the June collection will be larger than in 1925 because of the fact that the duplicate was larger. This is a matter of natural growth of the county.

More taxes are received in December than June, because many taxpayers at that time pay the tax for the year instead of splitting their amounts into two payments. Probably a month will elapse before the total amount of the June collection will be definitely known.

Township trustees and other taxing districts in the county are now preparing their budgets for the next fiscal year, and these are to be filed with County Auditor Elmer E. Walker within the next few weeks. The amount of money sought through these budgets will determine the rate for the tax payable next December and June 1927.

Certain school districts in the county are seeking additional funds for next year, it has been intimated, but whether it will be possible to allow these wants will not be known until after the requirements of other funds have been worked out.

With many new properties being added to the tax duplicate for 1927, it is very likely that the grand duplicate for next year will be larger than that for 1926, and this in turn will result in a larger volume of receipts in the office of the County treasurer.

VISITING JUDGE TO BE ASSIGNED

Application has been made by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Chief Justice Marshall for the assignment of a jurist to Columbiana county for Thursday and Friday.

It has been made known that Judge Jay G. Paisley of Steubenville will be available for assignment to this county, and it may follow he will be notified to preside here during these two days.

A number of important court matters have accumulated since Judge Irving Carpenter has returned to Norwalk, and these are to be given consideration by the next visiting jurist.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to John Driscoll, a millwright residing at Leetonia and Miss Maude Weikart, a school teacher residing at Leetonia, and are to be married by the Rev. Wykoff at Leetonia.

State Will Receive Large Amount From Federal Road Fund

During his visit at the office of the state highway department at Columbus last week, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was informed that the federal road raid appreprlation for Ohio during the coming fiscal year will total $3,500,000. The total federal road aid appropriation for the United States has been placed at $75,000.

How much federal aid money will be appropriated for use in Columbiana county has not been determined, as the budget will not be worked up by the state highway department until later in the season.

County commissioners have not determined the volume of new construction work for 1927 yet, but this proposition will be considered by the board before very long. As a matter of fact, there will be no alteration of the major road program as determined upon last year, and before the approval of the $950,000 road bond issue last November. These major projects will be the first contracts to be awarded by the state highway department.

Township trustees, it is said, are also interested in the extension of local road work under the provisions of the Green law, but these roads are not included in any work that come under the supervision of the county commissioners. The township program has been approved by the commissioners according to the records filed with that office by the various township trustees, but the improvement of these projects lies entirely in the hands of the trustees.

VALUABLE FARM EXHIBIT PLACED

Examples of the damage that is done by the corn borer have been received by County Agent Floyd Lower of the County Farm Bureau from the state extension service department at Columbus, and these are to be preserved at the Lisbon office of the Farm bureau for the inspection and benefit of producers.

The examples are backed with white cotton and are under glass. Ears of corn have been cleverly cut in half longways, showing the corn borer digging its way through the center of the ear, also the male and female moth from which the egg comes that produces the borer.

The exhibit is one of the most interesting of the character ever received at the office of the farm bureau, and at the suggestion of Mr. Lower, all producers of corn are urged to visit this office and inspect the exhibit.

Establishes Record.

County Agent Floyd Lower has been informed by the Holstein-Friesian association that the cow Queen Bessie Pietertje Ormsby in a long time test is credited with 26,895.3 pounds of milk containing 1,095.26 pounds of butterfat. The test was over a period of 365 days. The cow was owned by C. L. Spaulding, Warren, Minn., and during the test was sold to R. V. Rasmussen, of Deerfield, Ill., where the test was completed.

FRIENDS MEETING IS SCHEDULED

Within a few weeks the program for the yearly meeting of the Friends church at Damascus will be announced. Some preliminary work on the program has already been taken up by the Rev. John Pennington of Damascus.

Last year the yearly meeting house was improved, the outside of the building having been repainted and electric lights installed. The attendance at this meeting in 1925 was the largest in the history of the denomination, and on account of the proposed program this year, a still larger crowd is being anticipated.

The meeting will open the last week in August and continue over the last Sunday in the month.

Children's Day Observed.

Children's day programs were featured in two Lisbon churches Sunday evening, at the Christian church, of which the Rev. R. J. Bennett is the pastor and at the First Reformed church of which the Rev. O. J. Harvil is the minister. Vocal and instrumental music and recitations were featured at both services.

Improving Road.

Farmers residing along the East Carmel-Achortown road are contributing labor, while the Middleton township trustee have put in $500 and the state $1,000 under the provisions of the Green law for the improvement of this road.

Grading will soon be finished and the road is to be given a slag surface. The completion of this road will give the Rogers district an improved outlet eastward.

Greater use of power and modern machinery is largely responsible, of course, and it is said that the average farmer used five times as much machinery as he did 50 years ago.

Downed In Final, Wells Puts Up Great Scrap Against Campbell

THE victory of Parker Campbell, of Toledo, the darkest of ebony hued steeds entered in the Ohio amateur at Westwood, over Joe Wells, the other finalist in Saturday's golf epic that ended a tournament abounding in surprises and upsets, has now became a matter of history, but the Ceramic City golfer's great performances, both in the preliminary rounds and in the wind-up tussle will not be forgotten for a long time by East Liverpool enthusiasts.

Campbell, in the words of one Cleveland critic, "became the luckiest champion who ever took temporary possession of the Governor's Cup," when he won from Wells on the fortieth hole, 1 up.

"Had this been any other match," this same critic asserts, "Campbell would have gone out on the 39th hole because of his erratic driving. On this hole he drove a wicked hook into the rough that would have gone out of bounds had not a youthful member of the gallery got in the way of the ball and stopped it before it passed the beckoning white stakes. Had it gone out Campbell would have been forced to tee off again, playing three. That, no doubt would have sunk him."

Longest Amateur Final.

Wells put up a mighty scrap before he conceded defeat in the longest final match of any state tournament. Two down at the end of the morning round, he was three down as they came to the fourteenth. As against Ogilvie he cut loose and won three in a row to square the match.

Parker appeared vastly improved in the afternoon over his morning performance. Wells was cracking them squarely down the fairway all the time but this putting was off and to this no doubt, may be laid his defeat.

EASTERN ELEVEN SOCCER CHAMPS

CLEVELAND, June 28.—The Defenders club of New Bedford, Mass., today held the title of national amateur soccer champion, as the result of its victory here Sunday over the Heidelberg, A. C., of Pennsylvania, in the final game between the winners of the eastern and western divisions. The defenders won the game in a last minute spurt after being outplayed most of the game.

The Tigers nosed out the Indians, 5 to 4, for their seventh straight victory and gained a clear title to third place. Cleveland dropped to sixth place and lost the services of Catcher Lee, who was spiked.

TURK-NASH MOTORS WIN FROM SALEM CLUB

Navy-Washington Dominate Annual Collegiate Race

By Davis J. Walsh.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28.—Headed toward the championship of a domain where the oarsman is king and the blade his trusted servant, the varsity crews of eight universities will turn krum's elbow into a welter of eddies and spume late this afternoon as they start on the first of four, fearsome miles to the goal of their heart's desire. It will be a spectacle such as the field of college rowing has not known before in all the years that men have punished themselves beyond endurance that a great sport might thrive.

Never before have as many as eight varsities appeared in a single track. Never in the past has Poughkeepsie summoned a representation from so many sections, far west, northwest, middle west, north, east and near-south. Never has this up-river town seen so many people at once and the same time. Probably 75,000 will see the big race.

Nineteen Crews on Program.

The record field in the varsity event has served to make of the entire regatta an occasion without parallel or precedent. Nineteen crews, in all, will start in the three races on the program and, before it is completed they will have had a liquid field day.

According to the popular impression, only two of the eight varsities, Washington an dthe Navy, will have other than a nominal interest in the proceedings at the finish. The others, with the possible exception of Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, probably will be rowing for exercise only. They include Cornell, California, Syracuse and Columbus and, barring minor upsets, are likely to finish in that order.

The choice between Washington and the Navy will be a more difficult one, however.

Neither has lost a race this season. Neither has been worse than second at Poughkeepsie since 1921, the Navy's local record including three victories and one second and that of Washington two victories and two seconds. They were one-two last year, the Navy getting the decision in the last half mile.

Slight Odds on Middies.

A slight edge in the odds said the Middies would do it again today but that "Skyscraper Crew" of Washington, averaging six feet three inches in height, happened to be an ideal four-mile combination and even the hardiest of forecasters hesitated about reading the huskies out of the race before it started.

As maters stood today, the Navy and Pennsylvania figured to go to the place at the outset, with Washington forced to play a waiting game owing to its low stroke and long "lay-back." Pennsylvania's light-eight was expected to crack along about the third mile, at which point the real race between Washington and the Navy was due for a decision. It will remain, then, for the huskies to prove whether they can catch the Navy.

Washington System Will Win.

Whether they do or not, the race was expected to be a triumph for the Washington system, with Bob Butler at the Navy, Fred Spuhn at Pennsylvania and Rusty Callow in charge of the Huskies.

Only two crews were supposed to have a chance to break through service against this combination. One of them was Cornell, which was not regarded highly, in spite of its victory over California. The other was Wisconsin, one of the best looking crews on the river. If the Navy and Washington weren't so good, the Badgers Vail has yet to bring a really bad crew would be odds-on choices, for Dad to Poughkeepsie and this eight looks like one of his best. In 19 tries, Vail has placed his varsities second and third on 10 occasions. He probably will make it 11 today, unless Pennsylvania and Cornell produce more power in the final mile than they are suspected of having.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

In the back swing the body, as any golfer can discern, winds up rather slowly when the back swing is made with a feeling of rhythm. At the top of the back swing the body has a feeling of being completely wound up, like a spring. This action should be reversed in the forward swing, so that at the ball the body punch goes into the ball just as the final winding up of the body took place in the back swing. The one is the reverse of the other. This action is lost when the player unwinds his body too quickly in the forward swing. Don't jump at the ball with the body when you hit. Let the action be slow and even.

Walter Beall, of the Yankees, again demonstrated his class by taming the Red Sox, 7 to 1, holding the Sox to five hits and fanning nine. Ruth and Lazzeri, the home run twins, put on their specialty, Babe's being his 25th and Tony's his 11th.

ELKS COUNTED OUT IN EIGHTH

Batch of Bingles Produce Four Runs and Victory.

TURK-NASH MOTORS defeated Salem Elks yesterday at Kelley Park, Leetonia, 6 to 4, after staging a whirlwind attack in the eighth inning that produced four runs and enabled them to overcome the one-run margin the Quaker City nine had established earlier in the game.

Effective hitting and sensational fielding marked the battle. Salem scored in the first on Fisher's walk and hits by Smith and Scullion and added two more in the fourth on singles by Lipe and Sartick and a triple by Sanders. Sanders, subsequently, was run down when Rafferty went out to Pollock and the Turk-Nash first baseman tossed to Kunzler and Kunzler relayed to Simcox at third to catch the Salemite off the sack.

The East Liverpool club scored in the fifth on Mundy's double and Bucher's single and added another in the seventh on Simcox's double, an infield out and a bad throw to third by Catcher Smith.

Connect in Eighth.

The Motors clinched the game in the eighth after two had been retired. Singles by McConnell, A. Bayley and Simcox, a double by Finley and a long single by Pollock produced the quartet of counters.

Smith banged out a home run for the Elks in the last of the eighth, but it proved to be the dying gasp of the losers. Bucher weakened in the ninth and P. Sanders and A. Sanders hit successfully. Barton, a left-hander, stepped to the plate and Pollock was waved to the mound, Mundy to first and Jennings to right. Barton flew to A. Bayley and Jennings then supplanted Pollock. The side was retired without a run.

The batting of Simcox, A. Bayley, Smith, Sanders and Sartick and the fielding of Pollock, Kunzler, Johnson, Scullion and Fisher were bright spots in the day's game.

Ruth Two Homers Behind Record

NEW YORK, June 28. — Babe Ruth has almost caught up with his 1921 home run record. His twenty-fifth home run, made against the Red Sox yesterday, puts him two homers and three games behind the record.

Tony Lazzeri, the Yankees' slugging second baseman, hit his eleventh homer yesterday. No other player in either of the b'g leagues, except Ruth, has more than ten.

He has a record of striking out 105 batters in 8 games.

Finishes Saturday Club Event Four Down Against Par.

With their interest centered chiefly on the course at Westwood Country club, Cleveland, where Joe Wells was battling it out with Parker Campbell, of Toledo, for the state title, local golfers found it difficult to concentrate on their game at the local club Saturday.

The day's event consisted of 18 holes match play against par under three-quarters handicap for the T. Bert Kerr trophy.

McKechnie Plans Drastic Steps to Shake Up Pirates

Make Offer for Joe Bush and Ask Waivers on Bigbee.

PITTSBURGH, June 28.—The home port of the tottering Pirate sloop today heard that drastic steps will be taken at once by Manager Bill McKechnie to correct the faults of the world champions who have lost four games and tied one in their last five starts.

Barney Dryfuss president of the Pirates, is in Europe, but other officials will spare no expense necessary to putting the team into championship form, it was made plain at club headquarters.

Negotiations are under way for the addition of "bullet" Joe Bush, veteran American league hurler to the crumbling pitching staff, it was learned, and it was reported from apparently reliable sources that waivers have been asked on Carson Bigbee, outfielder to make room for a new pitcher.

Johnny Rawlings will hold down second base for the present, it was reported, replacing Hal Rhyne, former Pacifist coast star. "Pie" Traynor, regular third baseman, will be seen at short until Glenn Wright, ill in a local hospital, is able to return to the line-up.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.

NO matter how fair and even white a skin may be there is always more or less pigmentation. Of course, just how much there is, depends on the type of person. The olive-complexioned persons vary from the light olive color to very pronounced darkness of skin. But even the lightest blondes have a peculiar pinkness of the skin.

There is an abnormal condition which is conspicuous by reason of the entire absence of pigmentation in spots. The patches vary in size from a fraction of an inch to a place big as your hand. The white surfaces are made more striking by their contrast with the dark-colored margins.

Even the hair on the patch is white as snow. Very dark persons, including negroes, may develop this condition. Indeed it is more common in the dark races than in whites.

Just why the skin pigment should disappear is not understood. Shock is given as one cause. This is on the same theory, I suppose, that some great emotion or shock is said to be capable of turning the hair white overnight. I have always viewed with suspicion this popular idea, but perhaps it has some basis of fact.

Certain diseases have their possible effect, but in the last analysis, this must be set down as one of the little understood ailments. Some toxic condition of the system may be at fault.

The backs of the hands are the favorite location of leucodermia. Perhaps you know somebody who has great big white "freckles" on the hands. You have wondered what it was.

The arms, the neck and face may be affected. Sometimes the body and legs are involved.

There is almost nothing to do for the trouble, which after all is no more trouble one than to look bad. The chief interest in leucodermia is that it mars the beauty.

Lotions of mercury have been tried with good effects in some cases. Bleaching the surrounding discolored area with lemon juice and peroxide of hydrogen may render the spots less conspicuous.

In the Summer time when the rest of the skin is tanned, the patches are more noticeable. In such cases the white spot can be tinted with permanganate of potash solution or diluted walnut juice.

There is no significance in the presence of vitiligo and there is nothing to worry about except the looks.

BARTHELMESS AT AMERICAN

Dorothy Gish Has Sweetheart Role in New Picture.

Mr. Barthelmess plays an Italian boy of the East Side of Manhattan. The boy, Tony Gillardi, is an idealist and dreamer, making a precarious living selling flowers in the crowded streets of the slums. "The Beautiful City," which is based upon an original story by Edmund Goulding, points the moral that we can achieve the beautiful if we but believe that it exists about us. Tony Gillardi comes to see the beauty of a great city and he finds success and happiness.

Mr. Barthelmess' Tony Gillardi is another demonstration of the tremendous versatility of this able young star. Since he achieved stardom, Mr. Barthelmess has sought to play a different type of role in each new picture. The idealistic young Italian will be a distinct step from Mr. Barthelmess' brash, happy-go-lucky gob in "Shore Leave," and from his Eric Fane, the composer broken on the wheel of fate in "Soul-Fire." It has striking acting opportunities which should place it among Mr. Barthelmess' best celluloid characterizations. Indeed, it should afford fresh proof that Mr. Barthelmess is at the forefront of the young actors of the films.

Ship Has Nine Decks.

Recently the "Ile de France" was launched in France and when completed will be one of the biggest vessels of her type afloat. She will have nine decks or about the height of a twelve story building. The "Ile de France, in her martime enterprise, has gone in for elegance and comfort in her passenger ships.

Movies Furnish Further Fame For Aging Or Retiring Athletes

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Suzanne Lenglen, the incomparable French net star, will arrive in southern California in October for the filming of a movie drama based upon her reputation and skill on the tennis court.

Suzanne's ballet leaps and backhand drives are under contract to C. C. Pyle, the manager of Harold "Red" Grange, former Illinois gridiron star. Pyle press-agented Grange into a professional football fortune and a movie career. He hopes to do as much for Suzanne and C. C. Pyle.

Suzanne, Grange and Charley Paddock, champion sprinter, are recent additions to a list of champions and near- champions who have blinked in the glare of the kleigs.

The lure of the movies brought Jack Dempsey a Grecian profile and an actress wife. Gene Tunney, leading white contender for the heavyweight boxing title, whiled away several tedious weeks by acting in the films this summer.

In Old Ironsides.

George Godfrey, "the black shadow of Lieperville," a collapsible challenger of the heavyweight title, assisted Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian, swimming ace, in portraying Tripolitan pirates in James Cruze's $2,000,000 production, "Old Ironsides."

Tom Kennedy, once an aspirant for the world's heavyweight boxing title, is a fixture on the Paramount lot.

Other boxers who passed into pictures when they passed out of the ring are Tommy Ryan, welterweight and middleweight boxing champion of many years ago; Kid McCoy, light heavy weight contender; Al Kauffmann, who fought Jack Johnson in a no-decision contest when "Li'l Atha" was in his prime; Benny Leonard, resigned lightweight champion; Jim Corbett, and Jim Jeffries, both former heavyweight champions.

The boxers, as the movie people say, seem to have "it" more than athletes in other sports, but there is a scattered representation in the films of nearly all branches of athletic endeavor.

Babe Ruth knocked 'em out of the lot for the edification of movie audiences three or four years ago, and "Irish" Meusel and "Long George" Kelly were leading men in a baseball drama filmed when the Giants played in the Orient.

Tilden's Efforts.

Bill Tilden "aced" tennis opponents right and left to win the love of his movie heroine, and Lefty Flynn, former Yale halfback, not only won movie football games but he also won the heart and hand of Viola Dana. They're really married.

Fred Kelly, former holder of the record for the high hurdles and Fred Thompson, former world's champion all-around athlete, are the leading representatives of track athletics in the films although there was considerable talk recently of the impending entry of Charley Hoff, Norwegian pole vaulter, into the make-believe industry. It was rumored here, however, that his suspension by the A. A. U. nipped the budding negotiations.

In the old days the champions and near-champions "couldn't come back" when they passed their prime. But this is no longer true. They do come back nowadays—in the movies. Formerly they passed out of the picture when they were through. Now they pass into it.

Hudson River Being Restocked With Shad By State of New York

ALBANY, N. Y.—Two million shad fry have been planted in the Hudson river this year, the Conservation Commission announced today. This is nearly a million more than were planted during the 1925 season.

For several years the commission has been trying to restock the Hudson with shad.

"Modern manufacturing conditions and various other causes have contributed to lessening the take of shad in the Hudson river, but continuous annual restocking should serve at least to keep the shad within reach of all and to prevent the gradual diminution of a favorite food fish which is so intimately identified with the Hudson river."

By a new royal order the use of radio by vessels in Spanish territorial waters is prohibited.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.

NO matter how fair and even white a skin may be there is always more or less pigmentation. Of course, just how much there is, depends on the type of person. The olive-complexioned persons vary from the light olive color to very pronounced darkness of skin. But even the lightest blondes have a peculiar pinkness of the skin.

There is an abnormal condition which is conspicuous by reason of the entire absence of pigmentation in spots. The patches vary in size from a fraction of an inch to a place big as your hand. The white surfaces are made more striking by their contrast with the dark-colored margins.

Even the hair on the patch is white as snow. Very dark persons, including negroes, may develop this condition. Indeed it is more common in the dark races than in whites.

Just why the skin pigment should disappear is not understood. Shock is given as one cause. This is on the same theory, I suppose, that some great emotion or shock is said to be capable of turning the hair white overnight. I have always viewed with suspicion this popular idea, but perhaps it has some basis of fact.

Certain diseases have their possible effect, but in the last analysis, this must be set down as one of the little understood ailments. Some toxic condition of the system may be at fault.

The backs of the hands are the favorite location of leucodermia. Perhaps you know somebody who has great big white "freckles" on the hands. You have wondered what it was.

The arms, the neck and face may be affected. Sometimes the body and legs are involved.

There is almost nothing to do for the trouble, which after all is no more trouble one than to look bad. The chief interest in leucodermia is that it mars the beauty.

Lotions of mercury have been tried with good effects in some cases. Bleaching the surrounding discolored area with lemon juice and peroxide of hydrogen may render the spots less conspicuous.

In the Summer time when the rest of the skin is tanned, the patches are more noticeable. In such cases the white spot can be tinted with permanganate of potash solution or diluted walnut juice.

There is no significance in the presence of vitiligo and there is nothing to worry about except the looks.

Answers to Health Questions

E. P. Q.—Would it be possible to have a tattoo removed from my arm?

A.—In all probability the X-ray will remove it. This must only be done by an expert.

DAILY READER. Q.—I am a girl of 15 years, 5 feet 2 inches tall. What should I weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 114 pounds.

W. H. L. Q.—Which would be the more beneficial, high or low altitude, for a child suffering from valvular heart trouble?

A.—Low altitude would be better.

J. P. Q.—I am a girl of 12 years, 4 feet 9 inches tall. How much should I weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 96 pounds.

THANK YOU. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—Eliminate from your diet, as far as possible, all sugars and starches. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. Exercise daily in the open air.

H. C. C. Q.—What causes excessive perspiration?

C. M. E. Q.—What causes and what treatment would you advise for indigestion?

A.—A faulty diet may be the cause of this condition. For full particulars on this subject, send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

MR. H. M. Q.—What would cause a swelling in my chest immediately after eating?

A.—This condition is probably due to hyperacidity, an acid condition of the stomach. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Boy Is Hero at Swimmin' Hole

Central Press Photos

BARTHELMESS AT AMERICAN

Dorothy Gish Has Sweetheart Role in New Picture.

Mr. Barthelmess plays an Italian boy of the East Side of Manhattan. The boy, Tony Gillardi, is an idealist and dreamer, making a precarious living selling flowers in the crowded streets of the slums. "The Beautiful City," which is based upon an original story by Edmund Goulding, points the moral that we can achieve the beautiful if we but believe that it exists about us. Tony Gillardi comes to see the beauty of a great city and he finds success and happiness.

Mr. Barthelmess' Tony Gillardi is another demonstration of the tremendous versatility of this able young star. Since he achieved stardom, Mr. Barthelmess has sought to play a different type of role in each new picture. The idealistic young Italian will be a distinct step from Mr. Barthelmess' brash, happy-go-lucky gob in "Shore Leave," and from his Eric Fane, the composer broken on the wheel of fate in "Soul-Fire." It has striking acting opportunities which should place it among Mr. Barthelmess' best celluloid characterizations. Indeed, it should afford fresh proof that Mr. Barthelmess is at the forefront of the young actors of the films.

Ship Has Nine Decks.

Recently the "Ile de France" was launched in France and when completed will be one of the biggest vessels of her type afloat. She will have nine decks or about the height of a twelve story building. The "Ile de France, in her martine enterprise, has gone in for elegance and comfort in her passenger ships.

Movies Furnish Further Fame For Aging Or Retiring Athletes

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Suzanne Lenglen, the incomparable French net star, will arrive in southern California in October for the filming of a movie drama based upon her reputation and skill on the tennis court.

Suzanne's ballet leaps and backhand drives are under contract to C. C. Pyle, the manager of Harold "Red" Grange, former Illinois gridiron star. Pyle press-agented Grange into a professional football fortune and a movie career. He hopes to do as much for Suzanne and C. C. Pyle.

Suzanne, Grange and Charley Paddock, champion sprinter, are recent additions to a list of champions and near- champions who have blinked in the glare of the kleigs.

The lure of the movies brought Jack Dempsey a Grecian profile and an actress wife. Gene Tunney, leading white contender for the heavyweight boxing title, whiled away several tedious weeks by acting in the films this summer.

In Old Ironsides.

George Godfrey, "the black shadow of Lieperville," a collapsible challenger of the heavyweight title, assisted Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian, swimming ace, in portraying Tripolitan pirates in James Cruze's $2,000,000 production, "Old Ironsides."

Other boxers who passed into pictures when they passed out of the ring are Tommy Ryan, welterweight and middleweight boxing champion of many years ago; Kid McCoy, light heavy weight contender; Al Kauffmann, who fought Jack Johnson in a no-decision contest when "Li'l Atha" was in his prime; Benny Leonard, resigned lightweight champion; Jim Corbett, and Jim Jeffries, both former heavyweight champions.

The boxers, as the movie people say, seem to have "it" more than athletes in other sports, but there is a scattered representation in the films of nearly all branches of athletic endeavor.

Babe Ruth knocked 'em out of the lot for the edification of movie audiences three or four years ago, and "Irish" Meusel and "Long George" Kelly were leading men in a baseball drama filmed when the Giants played in the Orient.

Tilden's Efforts.

Bill Tilden "aced" tennis opponents right and left to win the love of his movie heroine, and Lefty Flynn, former Yale halfback, not only won movie football games but he also won the heart and hand of Viola Dana. They're really married.

Fred Kelly, former holder of the record for the high hurdles and Fred Thompson, former world's champion all-around athlete, are the leading representatives of track athletics in the films although there was considerable talk recently of the impending entry of Charley Hoff, Norwegian pole vaulter, into the make-believe industry. It was rumored here, however, that his suspension by the A. A. U. nipped the budding negotiations.

In the old days the champions and near-champions "couldn't come back" when they passed their prime. But this is no longer true. They do come back nowadays—in the movies. Formerly they passed out of the picture when they were through. Now they pass into it.

Hudson River Being Restocked With Shad By State of New York

ALBANY ,N. Y.—Two million shad fry have been planted in the Hudson river this year, the Conservation Commission announced today. This is nearly a million more than were planted during the 1925 season.

For several years the commission has been trying to restock the Hudson with shad.

"Modern manufacturing conditions and various other causes have contributed to lessening the take of shad in the Hudson river, but continuous annual restocking should serve at least to keep the shad within reach of all and to prevent the gradual diminution of a favorite food fish which is so intimately identified with the Hudson river."

By a new royal order the use of radio by vessels in Spanish territorial waters is prohibited.

Connecticut Paper To Publish Names Of Drunken Drivers

HARTFORD, Conn. — Every person who is convicted in a Connecticut court of operating his motor car while he is under the influence of liquor, gets his name published in every daily newspaper in the state.

Such lists are supplied weekly by the state motor vehicle department "as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace," and the editors use the list without exception with the address of the person convicted whether he is a resident of the state or not.

Readers are asked with each publication to notify the nearest police department if they see any of the persons named operating cars. With every conviction the driver's license is suspended for one year.

British Isles to See Total Eclipse of Sun During June 1927

LONDON — The first total eclipse of the sun in the British Isles since 1724 will occur June 29 next year about 5:23 a. m.

Astronomers from all parts of the world will assemble to take observations, probably at Stoneyhurst, near Preston, and at Southport.

The eclipse will only be visible in the northern districts of England.

Escaping from its hutch recently a rabbit of Hartlepool, England, returned two days later with a young wild rabbit as guest.
